COREA WILL GAIN BY JAPS' CONTROL

Destiny of Hermit Kingdom Fulfilled; Weak Government Tottered Under Mikado's Protection.

MISRULE DOOMED STATE.

Nations Make No Protest Against Inevitable Extension of New Fighting Power; China Silent Through Fear.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—It is the opinion of diplomats here that after the first natural disturbances are quelled, Corea will be much the gainer for the actual transfer of its control to the Japanese. For a generation the hermit kingdom has been distracted with all sorts of feuds. The emperor, who was just deposed, and his two sons, have manifested a complete incapacity for the science of government. Long before the war between Japan and Russia it was evident to every student of oriental affairs that Corea was destined to be wiped off the map, and that, too, at no distant period.

Oriental students say it was much better for Corea that the change of sovereignty should be to the Japanese and not some European nation. The Japanese are affiliated with the Coreans in a thousand different ways and the two nations amalgamate a great deal more certainly, than if the emperor of Corea had been forced to abdicate in favor of a Caucasian government.

All reports indicate that the Japanese acted with great moderation. They planned to take over Corea at the outset of the war with Russia. The forced abdication of the emperor was discussed a long while ago. There has been a practical understanding for nearly a year between all the great powers that Japan was entitled to the fruits of victory in Corea, as it was evident that the antiquated empire could not possibly maintain itself.

Sought to Build a Kingdom.

It has been the purpose of Japan to build up an outlying kingdom of its own in Corea and Manchuria. It was for this purpose that the Japanese imperial government met the United States so much more than half way in regard to the practical exclusion of Japanese coolies from this country. The counselor at the Japanese embassy explained the matter to me personally last winter. He said it was no purpose of his government to force its citizens upon the United States except so far as was necessary to secure for its Japanese in America the same treatment given citizens of Caucasian nations. Aside from this it has been the purpose of the Japanese to build up their own interests in Corea and Manchuria. As far as the influence of the imperial government goes it will be exerted toward the settlement of the surplus Japanese population in the neighboring countries of Manchuria and Corea.

In actual annexation of Corea, Japan, it is now plainly shown, was in the right. It was outlined to Secretary Taft when he visited the orient two years ago, and he made a special report on the subject at the time to President Roosevelt. Japan's position in regard to Corea as outlined at that time and since elaborated by the Japanese minister here practically is identical with that of Cuba prior to the Spanish war. Corea was governed by its own people, whereas Cuba was managed by the Spanish governors, and yet the conditions of bad government and the possibility of constant revolutions was the same. Corea was a festering, decaying government at the doors of Japan, just as Cuba was at our own case.

Corea Had No Chance.

There was but little chance of the new emperor or his brother, who now is directly in line of succession, succeeding any more with the Corean government than the deposed emperor has done. Diplomats who have resided in the east say that it was the governmental system in Corea which was at fault. It was so completely antiquated and the methods so obsolete that it was impossible to reorganize it except on the basis of actual annexation.

It is to be expected that the transfer of sovereignty in Corea would be followed by a series of riots and outbreaks. About all that has been left to the royalty of Corea is the tradition of it. The crisis came sooner than the Japanese expected, and they were unprepared in the way of troops and police. It is well understood, however, that in a few weeks they will have the situation well in hand, and when once they secure full military control the step toward actual annexation will be a short one. The Japanese have acted with such wisdom and moderation in past dealing with Manchuria and Corea that they are almost certain to take no radical steps at the present time.

Liberty Lost Three Years Ago.

In reality, Corea's independence disappeared more than three years ago. As a preliminary to the Russian war, Japan negotiated a remarkable treaty with Corea, in which the Coreans agreed to accept a practical protectorate by Japan in return for a guarantee of independence and territorial integrity. A year later Japan assumed entire control of the postoffice, telegraph, and telephone service, and since November, 1905, Japan has exercised full sovereignty over all foreign relations with Corea, and soon after the Corean legations at Washington and other capitals were abolished.

China Uneasy at Change.

The one country, of course, to be uneasy is China. By the seizure of Corea, Japan secures a firm foothold on the continent, and it is equally evident that Manchuria will never pass out of the control of Japan again except as a result of force. The French and English long ago conceded Corea to the Japanese and there is every reason to believe that at the time of the Portsmouth peace conference Japan was assured by the United States that if it would forego a demand for indemnity this country would be convenient-ly blind at the time when it became necessary to take full possession of Corea.

That time is now apparently at hand, and it is remarkable that none of the European nations thinks of making a protest, while China is afraid to say a word for fear of provoking a loss by a slice from its territory.

There may be for some time a continuance of serious disturbances in Seoul, Pingyang, and other cities, but no one doubts the ability of the Japanese to maintain order. It may even be questioned whether the Japanese have or have not permitted rioting to go on for the express purpose of making it a justification for actual political annexation.

DEATH HIS BRIDE IN AUTO TRAGEDY

Doctor Loses Life, and Girl He Was to Have Wed in August Is Fatally Hurt.

BLAZING GASOLINE KILLS.

Train Hits Machine on Long Island, and Burning Oil Is Spilled Over Stunned Couple.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Dr. Edward J. Gallagher of 302 East Twelfth street was killed and Miss Helen Madigan, daughter of James Madigan, 93 Madison avenue, probably fatally injured when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by the Amagansett flyer at the Locust avenue, Long Island, crossing of the Long Island railroad early tonight.

Miss Madigan, to whom Dr. Gallagher was to have been married two weeks hence, has only a slight chance of recovery. She is frightfully burned.

The crossing at which the accident occurred is not protected by gates or flagman, although recently it has been much used by motorists to get from Merrick road across Hoffman boulevard.

Gasoline Burns Cause Death.

The train which hit the doctor's automobile was an express, going at full speed. The machine was thrown ten feet forward along the tracks when the locomotive hit it. It overturned, and Dr. Gallagher and Miss Madigan were caught beneath it.

The gasoline tank exploded at the time of the collision, and the oil, spilled over the stunned man and woman, caught fire. Miss Madigan lay face downward, and except where her body was pressed into the earth she is burned and blistered.

All the clothing was burned from the body of Dr. Gallagher, and almost all from the young woman. Besides burns, Miss Madigan sustained a fracture of the jawbone, all her teeth were knocked out, and her left leg fractured. She was taken to Jamaica hospital, Jamaica.

Dies on Eve of Wedding Trip.

Dr. Gallagher was born in Brooklyn and was 31 years old. After attending the public schools he entered Bellevue Medical school, where he graduated in 1887. He was a widower, his wife having died seven years ago. Miss Madigan and the doctor's wife were related.

Miss Madigan lived with her father at 93 Madison avenue two weeks ago. She and her fiancé had completed plans for their wedding honeymoon.

Pittsburg Couple Lose Lives.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 21.—John J. Wallace, a well known business man of this city, is dead with a broken neck, his wife is dying at her home with internal injuries, and J. S. Henner and wife, friends of the Wallaces, are in a serious condition as a result of an accident to their automobile, which plunged over a 150 foot embankment on the road to Butler tonight.

About five miles out of this city the chauffeur stopped the car to inquire as to the direction to Butler. The car started without apparent cause, and the chauffeur jumped upon the side step of the machine, but before he could get control the machine with the entire party leaped over the embankment and landed in a big tree. Wallace was dead when picked up. The others were unconscious.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO COLLISION.

Two men and two women were injured last evening in an automobile collision in Evanston.

The Injured.

JOHNSTONE, R. L., chauffeur; bruised about head and body.
KLINE, F. L., 1782 Sheridan road, automobile agent; bruised about the body.
MINER, MISS SADIE, 25 years old, 2207 Sherman avenue, Evanston; scalp cut and bruised about shoulders.
MINER, MRS. J. F., 45 years old, Auditorium hotel, wife of F. J. Miner of Miner & Co., brokers; bruised about body.

Mrs. Miner, Miss Miner, her sister-in-law, and the chauffeur were driving east in Noyes street when the car containing Kline and Dr. H. J. Gaskee, 1698 Sheridan road, struck their machine as it was crossing Orrington avenue and overturned it. Miss Miner was thrown forward over the first seat and partly through the glass wind shade.

"Loan" Takes Place of Bail.

Fifteen automobilists were arrested in the afternoon in Wilmette and Evanston for speeding. In Wilmette they were allowed to leave "deposits" on fines of from $5 to $8. In Evanston Justice Boyer refused to accept deposits, but in one case received a "loan" of $15.

The exception was L. McAdams, 4553 Oakenwald avenue, chauffeur for F. E. Purcell, Rogers Park.

"Can I leave a deposit?" Mr. Purcell asked.

"I am accepting no deposits," Justice Boyer replied.

"I would come hear tomorrow for a hearing if I did not have important business outside of the city," Mr. Purcell said.

"Too bad," Justice Boyer replied. "I would like to help you, but it is quite impossible. But, say, could you loan me $15?"

Mr. Purcell looked at the justice in astonishment. Then light dawned and he made the loan and departed.

Others who were arrested are:

Henry McDonald, Glencoe; owner.
R. L. Williams, 1901 Wrightwood avenue; owner.
A. E. Jetter, chauffeur for E. H. Reynolds, Chicago.
D. Jones, chauffeur for D. C. Briggs, Chicago.
B. F. Sawin, chauffeur for M. Umstock, Chicago.
A. I. Wilkins, 823 Southport avenue, motor cyclist.

C. B. Richards,	E. Simons,
Robert Wheelman,	E. Bustner,
F. Lundberg,	R. M. Kalkins,
O. F. Spalding,	S. S. Tanner.
C. C. Kervin,

Stolen Auto Recovered.

William J. Blake was going to take an auto ride with his family at 5:30 in the afternoon, but left his machine standing in front of his residence, 6576 Greenwood avenue, a few minutes, and when he wanted to use it it was gone. Four hours later a Woodlawn policeman found the auto overturned in a ditch at West Fifty-ninth street and Western avenue.

BIG OCEAN FLYER KEELS OVER

Kaiser Wilhelm II. Turns Half Turtle in Bremerhaven.

COAL INSPECTORS AT FAULT.

Failed to Notice Vessel Was Not "Trimmed"—Tide Does Rest.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1907: By the New York Times.]

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, July 21.—The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II., while coaling at 10 o'clock last night, listed suddenly and in a few minutes was lying on its side at the bottom of the harbor.

The first report was that the accident was due to an act of revenge on the part of the striking seamen, but this was disproved by an official investigation.

The officers of the steamship company say the accident was due to carelessness on the part of the inspectors of coal stowing, who failed to perceive that the vessel was not properly trimmed, because, as it was partially aground, it kept its equilibrium.

Goes Over as Tide Rises.

When, however, it began to refloat with the rising tide, it suddenly went over on one side. Hundreds of tons of water poured into the bunkers and boiler compartments through the open coal ports, and the vessel careened and lay on its side on the bottom.

When the tide was low its bow rested on a bank, but with the rising of the tide it slipped from that position and keeled over.

Some delay was experienced in getting the pumps started to free the vessel of water. The cabins were not badly damaged, as little water reached them, but the ship cannot be ready to sail, the company announces, for several days at the best.

Passengers in Sorry Plight.

Meantime the Kaiser Wilhelm's full list of passengers for Tuesday's sailing must be transferred to other liners. Some of the first cabin passengers were received aboard the steamship Bremen, and the remainder will be accommodated on the ships of other lines.

Arrangements have not yet been fully made, as it is not easy in this crowded season to place the Kaiser Wilhelm's 400 first class passengers. Many of the west bound steamers have full bookings for months ahead.

The second class and steerage passengers will sail on the Trave, a fourteen day boat.

Sister Ship Ready for Sea.

A sister ship of the Kaiser Wilhelm II., the Kronprinzessin Cecelie, which is being built for the North German Lloyd by the Vulcan Shipbuilding company of Stettin, is almost completed.

Its trial trip will be run between Stettin and Swinemunde on July 27, and the new steamer is scheduled to sail for New York on Aug. 6.

ELEPHANT CHEWS $200 INTO A MASS OF WET PULP.

Bridegroom Shows Money in Zoo and Gets Back "Cud" That May Not Be Legal Tender.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—Gunda, the financier elephant of the Bronx zoölogical park, who collects pennies with his trunk and hordes them in a bank up above his head, put through a big deal today. It netted him between $200 and $300.

James Henchcliffe and his bride, Martha, who were married at Pawling, N. Y., on Friday, stood in front of Gunda, when the bridegroom pulled out a roll of bills he carried for his honeymoon journey. He wanted to make sure the pickpockets hadn't got it.

Gunda's trunk reached over, deftly absorbed the roll and transferred it to his mouth. He was munching placidly when the bride's screams and Henchcliffe's calls for assistance brought the keepers. They prodded the elephant, but he wouldn't give up the money. Finally he was coaxed to spit out the greenbacks.

There was only a single dollar bill that looked passable. The tens and twenties were a mass of pulp. Henchcliffe said he had money enough to get to Pawling, anyhow, and tomorrow he will take his pulpy mass of currency down to the subtreasury and see if he can get any part of it redeemed.

FORSAKES PASTOR FOR JAP; ARRESTED AND IS FORGIVEN.

Wife of Seattle Minister Provided Bail by Husband Whom She Left for Former Servant.

Seattle, Wash., July 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. H. C. Robinson, wife of the rector of St. John's Episcopal church in West Seattle, deserted her husband last week for a Japanese servant who had been in the employ of the minister's family for a year. The police found the couple in the Japanese quarter today and arrested them. Mrs. Robinson has been forgiven by her husband, who provided bail for her and the Jap.

LONG FIGHT WINS EARLSHIP.

Former Stamp Clerk in Pueblo, Colo., Postoffice Proves Right to Title and Estate.

Pueblo, Colo., July 21.—[Special.]—Dwight Lawrence Bathurst, formerly stamp clerk in the postoffice here, who has been working years to establish his claim to the estates and title of the earl of Bathurst, has proved his case to the satisfaction of the British government. He left this morning to secure his patrimony.

ACTOR DEAD ON THE STAGE.

James R. Davis of Chicago Expires in Butte, Mont., Opera House in Full View of Audience.

Butte, Mont., July 21.—James R. Davis, aged 23, an actor in the Grand opera house stock company, while speaking his lines during today's matinée, was suddenly seized by what was pronounced as heart failure, and fell to the stage a corpse. The audience was at once dismissed. Davis came to Butte from Chicago about three months ago. He leaves a widow and a 3 year old child.

PLAN TO OPEN BIG FIGHT.

Pennsylvania Democrats Will Begin Campaign Simultaneously in 2,000 Points in the State.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 21.—[Special.]—The democrats of Pennsylvania are preparing to open the campaign by simultaneous celebrations in 2,000 points. The slogan "Thou shalt not steal," referring to the recent scandals, will be announced by 6,000 speakers.

BRIDGE GAMBLING NEWPORT'S CRAZE

Younger Set at Nation's Richest Summer Colony Insane on Subject of Whist Game.

WOMEN DO LITTLE ELSE.

Older Set, Alarmed by Danger of Girls' Madness, Plans a Reform Crusade to Save Health and Wealth.

Newport, R. I., July 21.—[Special.]—Newport has the bridge whist craze. So has Narragansett Pier and Bar Harbor, but it is at Newport that the epidemic is most virulent.

Here pursuit of the game has become an obsession. Big sums of money are won and lost every day at the tables. Women in most instances are the most inveterate of the gamblers. The flushed face of the woman gambler can be seen daily in carriages that flash along Bellevue avenue. Her nervous, eager manner betrays her. At ordinary social functions she waits impatiently for the outsiders to depart in order that the elect few may creep away to the boudoir of the hostess for an hour at bridge.

Bridge is not the only game. More than one splendid villa here now conceals a dainty roulette wheel and a private faro layout for the delectation of the elect.

Older Set Getting Alarmed.

To such an extent has the passion for play gone that some of the older heads are seriously discussing the organization of an anti-gambling crusade. The effect of gambling on the nerves of some women in the younger set, as well as on their pocketbooks, is creating alarm. A woman in the highest society recently said to a friend:

"I have been compelled to send my girls away from home for the summer to spend their vacations where I believe they will not be injured by contact with the class of people they meet here every day. Down here there is nothing but gambling from morning till late at night. It might not perhaps be so bad if the games were friendly and for inconsiderable stakes, but the evil has grown to such an extent that the sums being wagered I fear are beyond the means of many. The women are the worst offenders, for they insist upon the stakes being high."

Last year the pretty little log cabin bungalow in Ocean avenue built by the late William B. Travers became the rendezvous of a coterie of the smart set, who organized themselves into a bridge whist club. Membership was limited to the elect, but before long stories of the losses sustained by the women of the club became so current in Newport that the Rev. Walter Lowrie, rector of Trinity church, was moved to preach a sermon on the evils of gambling. Lowrie did not return to Trinity as rector this year, and simultaneously the Bungalow Whist club was found to have fallen so far behind the needs of the times that the residence of James Gordon Bennett, Stone villa, has been turned over to the club as headquarters.

Gambling Saves Golf Club.

Meanwhile the golf club claims attention. The golf club had run to seed. It was so far away it didn't offer any particular diversion after one had made the long journey out to the place. Of late, however, unwonted prosperity has come to the club. Bridge whist did it. Confronted with a situation that spelled ruin for the club the managers appointed a women's committee to take matters in hand. The committee turned to bridge whist. Now the golf club has become one of the most popular institutions at Newport. Members even occasionally play golf as a recreation after several hours of enervating play at the tables.

Here it is that the passion for bridge is seen at its height. On a recent afternoon there were eight tables going. Refreshing breezes swept in from the ocean. Half a dozen of the best known women in New York and Philadelphia society lounged outside on the terrace. Within at least twenty young women and a few men toiled feverishly at bridge.

Among the stories they tell sub rosa at the golf club is one of a young woman who has won enough during this season to buy a handsome automobile, and another young woman who lost so much that her father threatened to cut off her allowance and refuse to stand responsible for any of her debts if she does not quit the game. There are other stories of matrons who are heavily in debt to their fellow players, and of a couple of men who practically support themselves by means of their winnings.

Make Wagers on Anything.

Bridge is not the only form of gambling indulged in. At the Casino in the morning one can see the younger set bet heavily on the outcome of singles and doubles at tennis. Some more of them play the game of "odds and even," at which little Italian urchins on the east side amuse themselves. Others wager on which of two designated persons will emerge from the surf first. These are simple pleasures of the rich, it may be said.

Among the more wealthy the play is always high. It is hard for the younger set to keep up the pace, but they attempt to and there ensues one of the great evils. How long, it is asked by many here, will the nerves of society women who are keeping pace with the times stand the test? How much is her time foreshortened by the passion for gambling in which she is indulging herself?

MORE FAME FOR FAIRBANKS; COCKTAIL BEARS HIS NAME.

Delicious Concoction Served as a Frappe, in Tall Thin Glasses, Appears in a St. Louis Cafe.

St. Louis, Mo., July 21.—[Special.]—St. Louis has the Fairbanks cocktail. It was invented last night at McTague's. It is to be served as a frappe and is as cool as Fairbanks, and it has a cherry in it, too.

It was suggested not by the cold water dip the Vice President took in saving a waitress a watery grave, but by that one lone cocktail the Indiana man took at the dinner given to President Roosevelt.

Henry Hoffman, who wears a white apron, is the inventor. His formula is as follows:

One glassful of cracked ice, one third part of French vermouth, two thirds of dry gin, three dashes of creme de noyoux, a dash of orange bitters, a real cherry, and then some more ice—because it's a Fairbanks cocktail.

In honor of the vice president it is served in tall, thin glasses.

SLAYS FAMILY; IS KILLED.

Michigan Man Murders Son, Wife, and Her Foster Father.

TRIES IN VAIN TO END LIFE.

Razor and Poison Fail; Neighbor's Aim Brings Him Death.

Muskegon, Mich., July 21.—[Special.]—Crazed by financial troubles, and worry over his son's health, Henry Scutcheon, a farmer living near Nunica, Mich., today ran amuck with an ax, killing his invalid son, his wife, and her foster father. Later, after trying to kill himself, he was killed by Henry McClellan, a neighbor, whose life he also sought.

The Dead.

Begins Murder Without Word.

The Scutcheon home had apparently been a happy one, except for the cloud caused by the son's ill health, and Scutcheon had never been guilty of any acts of violence.

There was no warning of the tragedy today. Shortly after the son had finished breakfast in his bedroom, his father rushed in. The mother heard the sound of a struggle. She ran into the room and saw her boy dead on the floor and his father still raining blows on the prostrate form.

Mrs. Scutcheon rushed from her home crying at the top of her voice, "He is killing my boy!"

Fells Wife; Tries to Die.

Behind her, ax in hand, came Scutcheon. He overtook her in the roadway in front of the McClellan home.

He caught her by the hair, and, crying in some unintelligible jargon, struck her down with his weapon. The blow was a glancing one and she dropped, but was stunned only.

Scutcheon evidently thought he had dispatched his wife, for he hurried back into his house and slashed both his wrists with a razor and then swallowed a quantity of paris green.

While waiting for his own death he looked out in the road and saw his wife wasn't there.

Kills Woman in Road.

By intuition he seemed to know where she was, and at top speed he came to find her. He tried the door, and then hurled himself through the window.

McClellan had long before gone for help, and Mrs. McClellan took refuge in a corncrib. Mrs. Scutcheon managed to drag herself through the back door, and was almost to her home once more when Scutcheon caught her. With one blow of his ax he crushed her skull. The slayer dragged her body into his home and stood guard over it for a few minutes.

Kills Old Man.

Green had hobbled out into the backyard, when he saw Scutcheon's mind had left him and that two had fallen before him, but his crippled body, propelled by crutches, could not move fast enough for the slayer. He hit the old man one blow on the back of the head and death was instantaneous.

Killed by Neighbor.

Again Scutcheon tried to end his life and slashed his throat with a knife.

At that juncture Henry McClellan returned with a neighbor. The two spied Scutcheon coming toward them armed with his death ax. McClellan emptied both barrels of a double barreled shotgun in Scutcheon's breast.

McClellan was not arrested and will not be, though he says he will give himself up any time he is wanted.

SIX CARS OF CHICAGO TRAIN DITCHED; 2 PORTERS HURT.

"Golden State" Limited Derailed at Pasturn, N. M.—Passengers All Escape Injury—Traffic Delayed 15 Hours.

El Paso, Tex., July 21.—While running thirty miles an hour, the Chicago and Rock Island "Golden State" limited, bound to Chicago, was wrecked today at Pasturn, N. M., 225 miles north of here. Six out of the seven coaches composing the train were thrown from the track and the engine partially derailed.

The passengers were badly shaken up, but only two negro Pullman porters were seriously hurt.

The track was badly torn up and delayed traffic fifteen hours. The wreck was caused by spreading rails or a broken brake shoe on the baggage car.

COLOR LINE RENDS U. OF C. SORORITY.

VEILS SECRET FIVE YEARS

Expensive Dress Stirs Jealousy of Chums; Startled by Discoveries, Society Is Disbanded.

Sorority circles and the social set at the University of Chicago are aghast at the revelation of the identity of one of the school's most prominent women students. Received into a secret society, made a belle at the proms and dances, the girl has been found to be a mulatto.

Miss Cecelia Johnson is the girl. She was a member up to a year ago of the society now known as Pi Delta Phi, popular among the fraternity men, a scholarship student, and attractive generally. She wore diamonds, paid her sorority's bills promptly, and spent money lavishly. Then her chums began to suspect. But they searched in vain to ascertain the sources of her money, then struggled internally, and disbanded.

Sister of Negro Gambler.

It developed yesterday that Miss Johnson is not a white girl. She is a sister of John "Mushmouth" Johnson, Chicago's negro gambling king and a saloon keeper. "Mushmouth," who has a saloon in the South State street levee, resides in an elaborately furnished house at 5830 Wabash avenue. At the home it was admitted that Cecelia Johnson was his sister.

Miss Johnson shows few of the negro physical characteristics. She is dark complexioned, has brown eyes, wavy brown hair and a good figure. There is scarcely a trait in her countenance which would indicate negro blood. Her mother is said to have been at one time a nurse for Mrs. Abraham Lincoln and to have been present when Robert T. Lincoln was born. Her father is said to be dead.

For five years Miss Johnson has been a student in the university and during all this time she has been able to conceal her identity. Several of her sorority chums went through the Englewood High school with her and were not aware that she did not belong to a white family. She attended nearly all the social affairs at the university, a white student always accompanying her.

Expensive Dresses Cause Jealousy.

Miss Johnson's expensive dresses and large expenditures generally proved her undoing. She had an amazing lot of new gowns from time to time. She bought the best editions of school books and never went into the university library if she could purchase the reference book she wanted. During the street car strike she rode to the campus daily in a carriage with a liveried coachman. She always paid her chums' street car fare and bought theater tickets "for the crowd."

Feminine jealousy began to arise in the sorority because she made the biggest "hit" of the society at the dances. This grew into suspicion gradually, and finally the girls got together to thrash out what began to seem to them to be a huge mystery. They never came to a point near solution. Some of the closer friends of the girl in the society "thought the matter was going too far."

Studies for Master's Degree.

This immediately provoked discord in the sorority. Nearly three-fourths of the girls insisted on demanding an explanation of Miss Johnson, but the other fourth stood by her and a deadlock ensued. The result was the disbanding of the society. Those who were angry at Miss Johnson, however, got together later and reorganized, leaving out Miss Johnson and the others. They called their club the Pi Delta Phi.

Miss Johnson received her bachelor's degree a year ago, and it was thought she would leave school, thus offering an easy way to patch up the sorority troubles. She remained however, and now is a graduate student, studying for a master's degree. Although up to a short time ago, nothing was known definitely about Miss Johnson, she still retained many of her friendships.

Identity Is Discovered.

Miss Johnson's real identity became known to one of the sorority girls a short time ago by reading the newspaper. She read the story of "Mushmouth" Johnson's declaration that he was bankrupt and was going to Africa. In the article Johnson was quoted as saying the only piece of property he had left was a residence at 5830 Wabash avenue, in which he lived, and which he would give to his mother.

The girl recognized the address immediately and went to work to verify her suspicions. She found Miss Johnson was not white, that she was a sister of "Mushmouth" Johnson and that she had played an amazingly clever game with her university friends. The girl, however, did not inform the other members of the society of her discoveries.

Questioned at her home last night, however, she consented to tell the story of the mystery.

Old Friend Tells Story.

"I dislike exceedingly to say anything about Cecelia, because she is a fine girl and I really don't believe she meant to deceive any one," declared the young woman. "Of course, we would never have taken her in if we had known more about her. She was initiated in the fall of 1904 and was made president of the society late in that quarter.

"Cecelia always had a pocketbook brimming with money and she footed bills right and left. She wore so much fine jewelry and so many elegant dresses we naturally began to wonder where she got all her money. The rest of it you can guess. We fought and finally disbanded. In the reorganization Cecelia was left out.

"We never for a brief moment suspected she had colored blood in her veins. I remember one time Cecelia was absent from school several days. I received a phone message from her mother to come to see her. It was the first time I was ever in the house. A negro maid opened the door and I was ushered into a well furnished parlor with beautiful oil paintings.

Pictures of Colored Persons.

"Soon a white nurse appeared and took me to Cecelia's room, which was darkened. I thought then I saw the picture of a colored man on the wall, but it was too dark to say definitely. I did not meet any of the members of her family then. I was invited back in a few days, and I saw our picture hanging on the wall in the library, surrounded by several colored persons.

"I was surprised, of course, but I did not think much of it, as I had heard her mother was a nurse of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln's, and I thought it likely she might have become acquainted with negroes at that time. But after I read that article in the paper about 'Mushmouth' Johnson, I knew she was related in some way to him.

"Cecelia has had the best of everything, and I am sure she is a fine girl. It's too bad, but I suppose it would have to come out sooner or later."

High Rank as a Student.

Miss Johnson recently won a scholarship for excellent work in the history department and received an "honorable mention" for work in the senior colleges a year ago. She was one of the best players in the mandolin club. In 1906 she graduated from the Balatka Musical college with first honors in instrumental music.

During the time she was a member of the society now known as the Pi Delta Phi her closer friends included Misses Edith Markley, Bess Markley, Mary Ingals, Ella Wangeman, Elsie Denker, Nell Wakely, Helena Bassett, Mary Bassett, Beulah Church, Edwina L. Doreland, Eva Jessup, Muriel Schenkenberg, Letha Armstrong, and Helen Thompson.

Miss Johnson Admits Identity.

Miss Johnson last night admitted she had been a member of the Pi Delta Phis and intimated that she still was a member.

"I belonged to Englewood house, the original society," she said.

"Did you belong to the Pi Delta Phis?" she was asked.

"Yes, I belong to the Pi Delta Phis," she answered.

"Do you belong now?"

"Well, why not?"

"Are you a sister of John V. Johnson—'Mushmouth' Johnson?"

"Certainly."

TWO WHO JUMP IN WRECK DIE: TWO WHO DIDN'T JUMP UNHURT.

Second Pere Marquette Wreck in 24 Hours Causes Death of Trainmen, Who Are Buried Under Coal.

Sebewaing, Mich., July 21.—In the second wreck on the Pere Marquette railroad in twenty-four hours two trainmen were killed near here early today. An engine drawing an extra freight train on the Saginaw, Tuscola and Huron division, with its tender and one car was ditched by running through an open interlocking derailing device, and Albert J. Kelly, conductor, and John O'Leary, engineer, both residents of Saginaw, were buried under the coal from the overturned tender and suffocated. Brakeman Dearing and Fireman McGinnis also were in the cab when the engine left the rails, and saved their lives by not jumping. Kelly and O'Leary jumped into the ditch when they felt the engine leaving the rails, and were buried under the coal, while the two men in the cab extricated themselves uninjured after the engine struck the ground.

Salem Wreck's Dead Total 31.

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—The death list as a result of yesterday's collision near Salem between an excursion train and a freight train stands tonight at thirty-one, but among the 100 injured in this city and Ionia eight are reported to be in serious condition and not out of danger. There are sixty-one injured people at their homes in Ionia and forty-two were brought to the hospitals in this city for treatment. Of the long list of suffering persons at Ionia but one, Mrs. M. During, whose husband and son were killed, is reported tonight to be in dangerous condition. Seven of the injured in the local hospitals are not yet out of danger.

This has been a day of grief and mourning in the little city of Ionia, which is located 130 miles west of Detroit. Mayor John N. Bible says he estimates that one in every fifty of the city's inhabitants was either killed or injured in the wreck. All of the city's normal activities have practically been suspended and every one is devoting attention to the wreck victims.

One of the most pathetic cases of suffering is that of the Hass family, which lost the father and two sons. They were the bread winners, and a widow and six children are left nearly destitute. All but five of the dead lived in Ionia.

Four Hurt in Trolley Wreck.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 21.—Four persons were injured, one of them seriously, today when a construction car collided with a heavily loaded passenger car on the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor and Jackson trolley line, two miles west of this city, at the bottom of a steep grade. The Rev. John Ryerson of Chelsea, grand chaplain of the Michigan lodge of Elks, is one of the injured.

Train Hits Driving Party.

Lancaster, Tex., July 21.—A fast Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train today struck a carriage containing J. R. Lavendara, a merchant; Ethel and Ruby Fondren, and two little girls named McCallum. Lavendara was so badly hurt he died shortly afterward, and Ethel Fondren, aged 12, had her skull crushed and may die. The others were more or less injured.

HARTJE PLANNING BIG FIGHT TO CLEAR HIMSELF OF CHARGE.

Pittsburg Conspiracy Trial, Sequel to Sensational Perjured Evidence in Divorce Case, Promises Bitter Struggle.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 21.—[Special.]—What promises to be one of the greatest legal battles in the history of Allegheny county will center around an effort to save Augustus Hartje from the penitentiary. Hartje, John Welshons, his friend, a rich hardware dealer, and Clifford Hooe, a negro, are indicted for conspiracy in preparing false testimony against Mrs. Hartje, which was used at the famous divorce trial. The case, after a year's delay, comes up on Sept. 1 and the defense will attempt to reopen the divorce case by introducing a new alleged corespondent.

John L. Welshons will become a martyr to Hartje's cause by asking a separate trial and will endeavor to be tried first, in order to afford Hartje as much time as possible. Detectives employed by Mrs. Hartje have located a 16 year old brother of Clifford Hooe, who is said to have important information concerning the relations of his brother with Welshons and Hartje in securing evidence against Mrs. Hartje.

Hooe is in the pentitentiary as a result of the deposition he made against Mrs. Hartje. The conspiracy case will not only include this famous deposition, but will bring out sensational testimony concerning incidents mentioned in the divorce complaint but never aired in court.

GIVE $2,500 AT Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

Wealthy Summer Residents at Geneva Lake Respond to Appeal for Subscriptions for New Buildings.

Delavan, Wis., July 21.—[Special.]—At the public service held this morning at the camp of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. institute and training school at Geneva lake, President G. Burt announced that plans had been completed for a new reception hall and administration building at the camp to cost $7,000. The building, he said, will be erected in the fall if subscriptions amounting to $5,000 can be obtained this summer. Subscriptions were then solicited conditioned upon the required amount being obtained. Nearly $2,500 was subscribed. It is thought that $2,500 more can be secured before September. N. W. Harris and other wealthy summer residents in the vicinity were present and gave liberal amounts.

DENEEN'S FUTURE RESTS WITH FOUR

Junket on Governor's Yacht Will Be Closely Watched by Politicians.

M'EWEN WITH THE PARTY

Busse, Campbell, and Reddick Plan Quiet Trip to Consider Situation in Chicago.

Gov. Deneen is nothing if not magnanimous. Whether he is too magnanimous will be determined by the outcome of a little political junket of four Chicago republican leaders, including an anti-Deneen candidate, which will take place this week. It will be watched with keen interest by every politician in the state.

While on their outing the four leaders, including the candidate, will discuss the advisability and feasibility of swinging Chicago against the governor in the state convention. It therefore will appear as a delightful political amenity that the four bosses will be considering these plans while being the official guests of the governor.

Party Chiefs Seek Seclusion.

The four leaders are Mayor Busse, Postmaster Campbell, County Chairman James Reddick, and Judge Willard M. McEwen, who on Saturday announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor in opposition to Mr. Deneen. They will leave Wednesday morning for a trip of several days down the Illinois river aboard the Illinois state fish commission's steamer, which has been placed at their disposal by the governor.

The fish commission's steamer is as near as the state comes to furnishing an official yacht for the governor. It is so considered, however, to a considerable degree, and the governor frequently retires to the craft for seclusion in his work and occasionally for pleasure cruises.

A few weeks ago Postmaster Campbell asked Mr. Deneen to place the boat at his disposal and the governor readily consented. He instructed Fish Commissioner Cohen to extend every courtesy to Mr. Campbell and his party while aboard the boat.

Excursion Plans Leak Out.

The plans for the excursion were being kept tightly under cover and leaked out only yesterday. It was given out Saturday night that Judge McEwen had gone to Ephraim, Wis., for a two weeks' vacation, and that there would not be much doing in the way of political business till his return. But one of the judge's friends let out the information that he would return to Chicago tomorrow night for the purpose of joining the Campbell junket.

The party will board the boat at Peoria and cruise down the river for two or three days. Outside the politicians there will be no persons but the crew on the boat. In the seclusion and freedom from annoyance thus afforded the governor's guests will fish and thrash out the problem of how they are going to line up in the governorship fight.

Although the governor will be represented in the situation by the joan of a beautiful and well appointed yacht, it is conceded that Judge McEwen, being present in person, will have the rival at a disadvantage in dealing with the three leaders whose decision will deliver Chicago to one or the other candidate. In fact, there are those who believe the presence of Judge McEwen in the party signifies that Mayor Busse, Postmaster Campbell, and Chairman Reddick virtually are pledged to support him.

Will Push McEwen's Campaign.

Elbridge Hanecy, who is one of Judge McEwen's campaign chiefs, said the jurists canvass, instead of being confined to Chicago as at first given out, will be made extensive with the entire state. He said McEwen primary petitions would be put out for circulation in every county this week. An effort will be made to get the first batch out tomorrow. Mr. Hanecy did not state who was going to take charge of the circulation in the country.

For some reason which Mr. Hanecy did not see fit to explain, the petitions will not be circulated in Chicago at present. It is assumed they will be held off till after the fishboat junket.

With the announcement that McEwen would invade the country came the companion bit of information that Speaker Shurtleff would announce his candidacy today and would invade Chicago with primary petitions.

Shurtleff to Invade Chicago.

Gov. Deneen said last night in Springfield that the organization of Deneen clubs in the country is progressing favorably and that he would have some reports of his strength to make public in about a week. He will come to Chicago the latter part of the week for a conference on the matter of circulating his petitions in this city.

DEMOCRATS BAR ALL ORATORY.

No Speeches but Plenty of Sports at Annual Picnic of County Organization.

Robert Emmet Burke and a score or more of faithful followers sweltered yesterday afternoon with rolled up sleeves and pitchers of ice water handy in the headquarters of the County Democracy. By 5 o'clock they had all the arrangements made for their eighteenth annual picnic next Saturday afternoon and evening at Brand's park, Belmont and Elston avenues. For the first time in the history of the organization political addresses will be barred and the orators take a rest.

Out of deference to the baseball fans, who couldn't get away Saturday afternoon for a mere picnic, most of the sports will be between 7 and 8 o'clock, with a wrestling match later between John J. Rooney and the "Greek Demon." A tug of war between teams from the police and fire department will be held for a silver cup.

Mayor Busse will act as presiding judge and will also referee the tug of war and other events.

Among other contests scheduled are three legged races, sack races, potato races, fat and lean men's races, and a footrace for newspaper men only.

Music will be furnished by De Baugh's County Democracy band and by the County Democracy quartet.

FIRE AGAIN HITS WANAMAKER; LYNDENHURST STABLES BURN.

Second Blaze on Estate in 1907 Entails $100,000 Loss—Former Caused One of $2,000,000.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 21.—The stables on John Wanamaker's estate, Lyndenhurst, near Jenkintown, a suburb, were destroyed by fire today, entailing a loss estimated at $100,000. Lyndenhurst, Mr. Wanamaker's country home, was burned in February last, causing a loss of $2,000,000.

At the time of this fire valuable paintings, bronzes, statues, and bric-a-brac were stored in the stables. The paintings had since been removed, but many articles remained.

Flames were discovered late in the afternoon and a fire apparatus from this city and companies from nearby suburban towns were hurried to the scene, but nothing could be saved.

Three horses were burned in their stalls.

BRYAN GUEST OF ROGER'S MEN

Nebraskan Hoodwinked by Sullivanites at Danville.

EATS AT TABLE WITH THEM.

Followers of Westerner Suck Thumbs with Republicans in Corner.

Danville, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—To be banqueted and entertained by members of the Sullivan clique of the democratic party while the old Bryan wheelhorses were forced to take back seats and gaze on the Nebraskan from obscure corners of the room was the situation which William Jennings Bryan, the avowed enemy of Roger Sullivan, faced here today.

Under the guise of being Bryan democrats, the Sullivan crowd took the speaker about the city and entertained him royally. It was not until late in the day that he learned the true state of affairs.

Sullivan Men Are Crafty.

The announcement was made some days ago that Bryan would be here to address the Chautauqua assembly, and at once W. H. and James Dwyer, two leaders of the Sullivan faction, prepared to entertain the visitor, and reserved places of honor for their friends.

Bryan when making the engagement intimated that he would have nothing to do with the Chautauqua assembly if the Sullivan democrats were concerned in the gathering. He was assured that everything would be satisfactory to him.

He arrived here early today and was met and escorted to the hotel by the Sullivan crowd. One table was reserved, and at this sat the guest of honor and the Sullivan followers, while in a dark corner of the hotel sat William Cunniff, a personal friend of Bryan, and several other Bryanites.

In the circle with them were seated several republicans.

Declines to Talk at Banquet.

During the course of the banquet some one suggested that Bryan speak, but he declined to take the floor. He explained that he had decided to say nothing other than what he said in his regular speech at the Chautauqua grounds.

After the banquet, which lasted more than two hours, W. H. Dwyer, who planned the scheme to foil the Bryan men, escorted Bryan to the Chautauqua assembly and introduced him to the crowd.

Mr. Bryan spoke on "The Old World Ways."

FRANCE KEEPS HATCHET RED

Talk of Understanding with Germany Evaporates.

TEUTONS REQUESTS BARRED.

Bankers' Financial Alliance Is Blighted by Politics.

PARIS, July 21.—The recent talk of a rapprochement between France and Germany appears to have little chance of realization. The prince of Monaco has been the prime mover in the scheme to induce the two neighbors to bury the hatchet and he seems to have impressed certain politicians at Berlin, and possibly the emperor himself, with the idea that by means of an arrangement with France, Germany could emerge from the circle which has almost isolated her.

There also is a considerable faction in France that believes France should cease to play England's game and that her surest guarantee of the peace for which she strives would be a frank understanding with Germany.

The present controlling political powers in the French government, however, would consider anything in the nature of a rapprochement with Germany nothing short of treachery to the alliance and the series of friendships France has so industriously built up in recent years.

France Would Consider Points.

It is authoritatively expected that with due regard to her alliance and friendship, France could and would be willing to make a special arrangement with Germany covering some particular point of difference. And for that purpose M. Jules Cambon, the French ambassador to Berlin, is ready to receive any communication the German government may care to make.

The last source of a special difference disappeared with the adjustment of the Moroccan question by the act of Algeciras. The only possible basis of an understanding, therefore, would be financial. France, as the general world banker, is always in funds for investment, and many French bankers have long believed that the best way to insure peace with Germany was to induce heavy French investments in German industrial enterprises.

Politics Separate Countries.

It is along these lines alone that some sort of an understanding seems possible. But here, too, at the outset, political considerations enter. Germany is willing to have French capital embark with German money in the Bagdad railroad, but only on condition that England and Russia are excluded.

For France such conditions are impossible of acceptance. It must also be borne in mind that Clemenceau is a strong partisan of the British-French combination, and as long as he has the helm nothing is likely to be done which would be remotely prejudicial to English interests. The indications, therefore, are that nothing in the direction of a rapprochement with Germany will be accomplished for the present.

PARIS STIRRED BY ARMY SHIFT.

Gen. Delacroix's Selection as Head of Forces in Case of War Bitterly Criticised.

PARIS, July 21.—Gen. Delacroix will succeed Gen. Hagron as commander in chief of the army in case of war. Gen. Charles L. Tremeau, commander of the Sixth army corps, has been appointed simply to take Gen. Hagron's place on the general staff. While there is universal recognition that Gen. Delacroix is the most brilliant officer in the army, Gen. Hagron's retirement is an open protest against the wisdom of the new two year service law and the discharge of the conscripts of 1903. The anti-government papers, especially the reactionary organs, say that the present socialistic régime is willing to sacrifice even the interests of national defense for political capital. The independent conservative papers also severely criticise the cabinet for supporting laws which reduce the army to the danger point.

REVOLT FROM COCOS GROVES

Cuban Patriotism Stirred When Americans Plant Trees.

BLOODY FRAY IS AVERTED.

Rifles Dropped When Plan for Beautifying Morro Is Explained.

HAVANA, July 15.—[Correspondence.]—Upon what ticklish terms the business of Cuban pacification is occasionally conducted is shown by the particulars which have just leaked out of a projected uprising in Oriente, which recently gave Gov. Magoon some anxious hours.

At the palace absolute ignorance is professed of anything in the shape of disturbance, but the interesting fact remains that an uprising was projected to take place on July 12, and would doubtless have been started had it not been for the vigilance of United States army officers detailed on secret service.

Nothing could better illustrate the irritability of some of the Cuban leaders than the triviality of the incident which started the movement.

All the trouble arose from the efforts of Capt. Robert Alexander, Eleventh United States infantry, quartermaster of the American garrison in Morro castle, Santiago, to beautify the grounds about the old fortress by setting out trees.

"Cocos" Prove American Plan.

Unluckily he selected cocoanut palm for the purpose and having secured from an acquaintance 100 young trees had them properly placed.

While the captain was congratulating himself on his efforts to improve Cuban property without cost, for all the work of planting was done voluntarily by the soldiers of the garrison, the rumor went flying through the whole province that the Americans were planting cocos on the Morro, and, as it takes six years for a coco to come into bearing, it was of course obvious that the Americans intended to remain for at least that period.

Patriots met in secret and decided to invoke the counsel of Gen. Lownaz del Castillo of Havana, who is in a condition of chronic agitation over the question of the duration of the American occupation, and that warrior dispatched two emissaries to Santiago to investigate.

They visited the Morro and with their own eyes saw Capt. Alexander's cocos. There they were, and nothing could be plainer than that the Americans were determined to remain forever.

Patriots Arm for Fray.

The excitement increased; more meetings were held; arms were distributed to the number, it is said, of seventy-five rifles, with ammunition, and a rising was set for July 12, under the leadership of one Rodrigues of Santiago and Gen. Camacho of San Luis.

The plan was to begin operations by "rushing" small isolated posts of rural guards, massacreing the men and then, as the insurgent ranks increased, to attack Santiago itself and if possible wipe out the American garrison.

That there was trouble in the air was soon evident, and Lieut. Dougherty, the American officer in charge of the rural guards of Santiago, made ready to meet it and sent a requisition to Havana for a big lot of cartridges.

Lecture on Free Culture Avails.

The secret service officers also went to work and exposed the whole plot several days before the date set for the uprising. To the leaders they read a lecture on the subject of arboriculture as practiced by American soldiers in Cuba with a solemn warning to abstain from any interference therein. This sufficed to check their patriotic ardor, and now peace reigns throughout the Oriente.

TWENTY-FIVE PERSONS HURT BY NORTH DAKOTA CYCLONE.

Woman and Child Blown 100 Yards by Wind Near Williston—Fifteen Dwelling Houses Destroyed.

Williston, N. D., July 21.—A terrific wind, hail, and rain storm last night injured twenty-five persons, two of them probably fatally, destroyed fifteen dwelling houses, and did much other damage to property in this city and the surrounding country.

Those believed to be fatally hurt are a man named Holmes and Mrs. Collinson. Mrs. Collinson and her baby were blown out of their house for a distance of about 100 yards, landing against a wire fence. Their house was entirely destroyed.

Most of the houses demolished were in the suburb of West Lawn and were small structures. The courthouse, schoolhouse, and Union block sustained considerable damage.

Storm at Elkhart, Ind.

Elkhart, Ind., July 21.—[Special.]—A terrific electrical and wind storm today destroyed the plant of the Elkhart Bridge and Iron company, damaged part of the Pierce Specialty company, and destroyed the residence of Jonas Macklin.

Tornado in Wisconsin.

La Crosse, Wis., July 21.—A tornado swept over the vicinity of Viroqua today. Telephonic communication in all directions is cut off. Serious washouts occurred on all five railroads entering La Crosse, and traffic is at a standstill. It is feared loss of life will be reported when communication is reestablished.

Trains Stalled at Sparta.

Sparta, Wis., July 21.—Severe rain and wind storms today washed out the Sparta and Viroqua railroad near Cashton and destroyed the high iron bridge on the Northwestern road and three other bridges in this city. No trains will be able to leave Sparta until tomorrow.

ESCORTED BY HIS PARENTS, WILLIE SEES SHOW ARRIVE.

Mrs. Smith Is Reminded of When She Was a Girl, but Failed to See Buffalo Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith took William Jr. out "to see the show come in" yesterday afternoon. Of course, neither Mr. nor Mrs. Smith was at all interested in the matter, but they went along, so they told each other, to see that little Willie didn't get into harm's way.

"The sun was so hot and the street cars so crowded," she told Mrs. Jones, who lives in the flat upstairs, "but it reminded me of when I was a girl.

"Yes, there was a big crowd out there, and Mr. Smith nearly had trouble with the man on the water wagon. Willie wanted a drink and Mr. Smith tried to get it for him. The men putting up the tents cursed each other, their horses, and the canvas all the time.

"You ought to have seen those poor Cossack men. They were wearing heavy overcoats and boots and heavy woolen turbans. It was a shame. I felt right sorry for them, but they didn't seem to mind it.

"Willie wanted to go over and see 'em unload at Sixty-first street and the Lake Shore tracks, but I wouldn't go. No, sir; I couldn't stand the heat. It was bad enough where we were. A man told Willie they came in during the morning from Fort Wayne.

"No'm, we didn't see Beefo Bull—I mean Mr. Bill Buffalo, or whatever his name is. They said he was down at the Auditorium Annex."

Two performances will be given daily at Sixty-third street and Drexel avenue all this week. Later the Buffalo Bill organization will exhibit on the west and north sides.

EX-COREAN RULER BUSY WITH PLOTS

Old Emperor's Influence Over New Gives Alarm to Japanese Officials.

ABDUCT HIM TO TOKIO?

People Believe Hayashi Is Planning Forcible Removal of Troublemaker.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SEOUL, July 21.—Although the day passed without serious disorders, the crisis provoked by the enforced abdication of the emperor is still full of menace.

The two government arsenals are guarded by Japanese soldiers, although the number is not large. They are under orders to explode the magazines if they find themselves unable to defend them.

The Corean troops are frequently harangued by civilian agitators who take up their stand at the entrances to the barracks. The Coreans possess 90,000 rounds of ammunition, of which Gen. Hasegawa, who has only 2,300 Japanese troops in Seoul, has been unable to demand the surrender.

The Pingyang regiment, which was yesterday reported as having been disarmed, still refuses to surrender its arms or ammunition.

The Japanese commander is not yet able to assure safety in the streets, but he is making the best use possible of his men while awaiting reinforcements which are now on their way from Shimonoseki.

Marquis Ito, the Japanese resident general at Seoul, will not consent to the enforcement of martial law, but he is regarrisoning the country as far as possible as a precaution.

Deposed Ruler Still Plotting.

The Japanese are tonight agitated by reports of the ex-emperor's intrigues since his abdication July 19. Military anxiety has been increased by the aggravation of the political situation.

The disturbing factors are, first, the enigmatical presence in Seoul of Japanese Foreign Minister Hayashi, whose mission is believed by the people to be the abduction of the former emperor and his removal to Japan. Second, domiciliary contact with the new emperor and control and manipulation of the throne by the ex-emperor.

The situation is such that Japan is able to establish any interpretation of it whatsoever, and unless Minister Hayashi's mission and Tokio's intentions are declared through Marquis Ito to the nation, the Corean throne will easily dash itself to pieces. Marquis Ito's ability to temper the fate of Corea is virtually unknown.

Forecast of Japan's Demands.

Japan's demands on the new emperor probably will include the revision of the Japan-Corean treaty or new Corean constitution. In either case the power of the Japanese resident general would be so extended that he can intervene in Corea's internal administration, including the judiciary.

The demand also will be made that the court be distinguished from the administration, making confusion between the two impossible.

Another plan is to give the resident general direct control of all departments and make the cabinet responsible to him, the emperor retaining the power of formal veto. In any case, the Corean military system will be abandoned.

At the suggestion of Marquis Ito the various consulates have accepted Japanese guards. It is reported that three American warships and an English cruiser are expected at Chemulpo this afternoon and may land marines to the protect consulates.

Corea Ready to Fight Japan?

New York, July 21.—"Knowing as I do the Corean temperament and the policy which Japan has pursued in the peninsular, I am able to predict that Japan will secure peace there only by the decimation of the people."

This is the opinion of Homer B. Hulbert, for several years intimately associated with the Corean court and a confidential adviser to the deposed emperor of Corea. Mr. Hulbert, who has just come to America, is thoroughly familiar with the situation at Seoul at this time and with the policy pursued by Japan in Corea, which he says brought about the abdication of the old emperor.

"It is hard to arouse the Coreans to the fighting point," continued Mr. Hulbert. "They are almost infinitely patient, but drive them to desperation and they will turn on their tormentors as they did in 1592 and then nothing but extermination will give Japan peace there. But to exterminate 18,000,000 people, or even to beat them into quiescence, will be no easy task.

"Many believe the Coreans have not enough virility to turn upon the Japanese, but those who know them best think differently. The Coreans are fast approaching the turning point and despair will arm them to resistance, even though it be suicidal. The Corean people thoroughly aroused could carry on a guerrilla warfare that would bankrupt Japan in three years. The enormous vested interests of Japan in Corea would fall to a shadow of their present value.

"The manner in which the abdication of the Corean emperor was brought about demands some explanation. Marquis Ito denies any connection whatever with the event, but no Corean cabinet would dream of proposing to the emperor such a plan as this without being driven to it by the threats of the Japanese."

Arkansas Editor Tries to Die.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 21.—A. J. Kendrick, a newspaper editor of Fort Smith, Ark., attempted suicide here today. He shot himself twice and may die at any moment. He has been ill for some time and came here for treatment.

Three stores: Chicago—Minneapolis—St. Paul. Money cheerfully refunded.

SOMETIMES it's really a little puzzling to us to know which of our good things-to-wear we ought to say most about. The two most impressive facts are the blue serge stock; and the special sale of suits at $15.

The serges are very timely; you'll wonder you've lived without one after you wear one of these. Quarter, half, three-quarter and full lined with silk, alpaca, mohair; best serges ever woven anywhere; very thin and cool, $18 to $35. Some beautiful gray serges, also.

At $15—a sale such as you don't see often; $30, $28, $25, $22 suits in fancy fabrics, light and medium weights; sort of a clearing-up of slow and broken lots.

We almost forgot our outing clothes; cool, easy-to-wear things; "zephyrs" they call some of them: $18 to $40.

MAGILLS ON WAY TO FACE CHARGES.

Clinton Banker and His Girl Bride Speeding Home with Sheriff.

LITTLE HOPE TO CONVICT.

Prosecutor Holds to Belief That First Wife of Prisoner Was Killed; Proof Lacking.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Clinton, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—New life was injected into the Magill mystery today when State's Attorney A. F. Miller received word that Sheriff Campbell had left San Diego, Cal., at 8:30 o'clock this morning with Fred H. Magill and his bride, and expected to arrive here Wednesday afternoon. The sheriff reported that Magill and his young wife, Mrs. Faye Graham Magill, arrested for the alleged murder of Mrs. "Pet" Magill, the banker's first wife, were anxious to get back to their home and face the charges. He expected no trouble, and the prisoners were not talking about the case at all.

Mr. Miller was informed, also, that the sheriff had received the coveted "suicide letters" which the state must prove were forged in order to convict the pair.

Interest in Case Revived.

Despite the torrid heat of the day groups of citizens gathered at the hotels and in the courthouse square to discuss the home coming of the prisoners.

These questions flew from group to group of farmers: "Will Magill's daughter, Marguerite, return with her father and stepmother?"

"What side will her testimony help?"

"Will Fred Magill escape punishment, after all, on account of the slim nature of the evidence possessed by the state?"

Sharp Legal Moves Expected.

The lawyers broke the Sabbath and held conferences during the afternoon. Beyond the attempt which the authorities will make to get the prisoners into the jail secretly some sharp legal moves are contemplated.

The return of the murder warrant will be made before Justice Donahue, but a change of venue will be asked, in all probability, to Circuit Judge W. G. Cochran, who will be in the city Wednesday, and can sit as examining magistrate.

There is also a strong likelihood that the state's attorney will ask for a special grand jury this week and at once seek the indictment of Magill and his wife. He has been advised that this is his only chance of holding the couple under the present evidence.

Little Chance to Convict.

The chances of Magill's escaping the legal punishment for his wife's death appear to be good. Attorney John Fuller, representing Mrs. Faye Magill, claims that Marguerite will appear with the party and give hitherto hidden evidence which will free both her father and his girl wife. Marguerite's whereabouts are unknown at present. Prosecutor Miller maintains his first opinion, and is determined to press the charges.

"I do not think there is the slightest doubt but that the evidence will bring the man to trial at least," he said today.

Concerning the charges against Faye Magill is not so positive, and there is a well defined understanding in some quarters that the state will not press the charges against her.

Trio Led a Merry Life.

Evidence regarding the merry life that Fred Magill, Faye Graham, and Marguerite Magill led, both before and after the death of the unlamented Mrs. "Pet" Magill, continues to come to light. The latest authenticated story covers a trip which the man and the two young girls made to a small town ten miles from Clinton on Nov. 29 last. Fred Magill registered the three names himself. The register is in the hands of the detectives. It shows the three were assigned to separate rooms. The proprietor of the hotel remembers the party well. He says they spent money with a lavish hand and drank far into the night, causing some disturbance around the hotel.

Marguerite Magill is a problem that few can unravel. How she agreed to her father's relations with Faye Graham and saw her mother's neglect and decline, even perhaps entering into the knowledge of the contemplated suicide, remains a mystery.

Hypnotic Power Suspected.

By some it is accounted for by the same uncanny hypnotic power which Fred Magill held over his wife. The girl fell in with all her father's plans and agreed to the wedding five weeks after her mother's death.

The trip on the interurban sleeper to Springfield the night Magill and his daughter and Arthur Merwin, the gambler, left for Denver to carry out the secret marriage plan throws a strong side light on the situation.

The conductor of that sleeper remembers the party. He testified that they drank beer and created a scene, and said that from the actions of the men toward the girl he had no idea that one of them was the father of the girl.

Marguerite assented to the plan of having Faye Graham live in her father's house during Mrs. Magill's last trip to Ohio.

Magill was appealed to by his relatives to let his daughter go away, or else break the blind infatuation, which was bringing the talk of scandal around Marguerite's name as well as Faye Graham's.

"No, I will take care of her myself," he said.

One Clinton man said today: "I believe before God that Marguerite Magill is as good as my own daughter."

Another said: "I have not known much about Marguerite for the last five months. Up to that time I never doubted her womanhood. She may have changed in that time. One thing is certain that if she remains with her father five months more it will be a miracle if she does not change."

POLICE LOOK FOR PHYSICIAN.

Victim of Criminal Operation Died at German-American Hospital Without Giving the Desired Name.

Police of the Sheffield avenue station are trying to learn the identity of a physician who is said to have performed a criminal operation on Mrs. L. Talsrah, 21 years old, 1310 North Whipple street, who died yesterday morning at the German-American hospital. The woman was taken to the hospital late Saturday afternoon and Dr. H. J. Hasleton was called in to attend her. The physician discovered evidence of the operation and notified the police. Dr. Hasleton endeavored to learn from Mrs. Talsrah who had performed the operation, but she refused to tell him.

FAMILY OF FIFTEEN ON OUTING

West Sixty-seventh Place Looks Like Deserted Village.

TIED TOGETHER ON STEAMER

Papa and Mamma Sherwood Get Children Safely Across the Lake.

West Sixty-seventh place is like a desert. The Sherwoods have gone on their annual vacation, and the population of the thoroughfare is drained to the extent of thirteen youths in knee breeches, girls wearing their hair in braids, kilted boys, and infants, and two grownups. The grownups are Mr. and Mrs. Henry George Sherwood. They are taking their thirteen heirs away from their six room flat at 635 West Sixty-seventh place to Bangor, Mich., for an outing.

Mrs. Sherwood prides herself on her family, especially the latest addition, who is a girl 3 weeks old. She has not written to President Roosevelt yet, but probably will when her family assumes greater proportions, she says. Two daughters, aged 23 and 25, are married, making fifteen children living in all. Two have died.

Parental Authority Divided Up.

Some time ago the house of Sherwood was divided. It was agreed mutually that Papa Sherwood should be the head of the masculine side of the family and Mamma Sherwood the feminine commander in chief. Mrs. Sherwood did not think much of this division, and she still insists that she is the old woman of the shoe, who had so many children, etc.

"Getaway" day for the Sherwoods was a great occasion, residents of the street relate. Mamma Sherwood had spent most of the previous day in cooking hard boiled eggs, frying chickens, making sandwiches and pie for the trip on the big boat across the lake to South Haven. On the morning of the departure Papa Sherwood hired a grocery wagon, and in that the Sherwoods proceeded to the wharf.

On board ship the grownups had their hands full. They attempted to segregate their children from the rest of the passengers, but, after being an hour out, they decided to tie them together in chain fashion and fasten three of them to the boat's fixtures. This provoked a violent outburst of youthful disapproval.

Get Busy on the Farm.

All weathered the rough voyage and arrived safely at the farm near Bangor, which is a few miles from South Haven. Immediately the larger of the boys searched for the swimming hole, while some of the younger ones got out their ball and bat. The girls built a swing in a nearby willow. Mamma Sherwood calmly sat down with her sewing and Papa Sherwood lit his pipe, gathered his rod, and went fishing.

Next week the Sherwoods will return, and West Sixty-seventh place will resume its wanted activity.

SQUALL STRANDS MOTORBOAT: FIVE PERSONS SWIM TO LAND.

Commodore William Weise and Four Companions Narrowly Escape Drowning in Storm on the Lake.

In a violent squall off the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, a Chicago motorboat, the Rough Rider, was driven on a sandbar a mile south of New Buffalo at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. Its five occupants, forced to take to the water, swam 200 feet to shore.

In the boat were the owner, Commodore William Weise, of the Illinois Moterboat association, Capt. O. N. Hanson of the Pioneer; Dr. L. Read Brown, and Rudolph Bauer, all of Irving Park, and J. T. Fitzgerald, 575 West Madison street. They had started at 11 o'clock in the morning from St. Joseph to examine the proposed course for a motorboat race next month between St. Joseph and Michigan City.

The squall came up with great rapidity. In two minutes, the men said, the lake was changed from calm to tumult. On shore trees and fences were swept down by the wind.

Reports that a small yacht had capsized in the lake off Fortieth street, shortly after 10 p. m., caused Capt. Carland and members of the life saving crew to make a hurried trip in search of the yacht, but they were unable to find it, and concluded it had reached shelter.

WORSHIPERS IN SHIRT SLEEVES HEAR CAMPMEETING SERMONS

Men in Desplaines Congregation Allowed to Discard Coats When Women Are Told to Take Off Hats.

Men may not be married in their shirtsleeves, according to a recent decree of a Chicago judge, and masculine shirtwaists are frowned on in restaurants and elsewhere, but it's all right to take off your coat at a Methodist camp meeting. This joyful information brought relief to many at the Des Plaines camp ground yesterday. At the same time that a request was made for the women to take off their hats, permission was given by Presiding Elder M. E. Cady to the men to peel off their coats.

Many in the audience took advantage of the privilege and some went so far as to remove their vests. One minister on the platform pulled off his coat, but the others sacrificed comfort to dignity.

At least 5,000 persons were on the grounds in the course of the day. Fifteen services were held in the two large canvas tents and the frame and steel tabernacles.

FAIRBANKS IS TO ADDRESS BIG CONVENTION OF FRATS.

Will Speak at Opening Session of Phi Gamma Delta Reunion on Wednesday in Mandel Hall.

Vice President Fairbanks and 300 other "Fijis" will arrive in town tomorrow to attend the fifty-ninth annual convention of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, one of the oldest of the college secret societies, which will hold a three days' session at the University of Chicago. Mr. Fairbanks will deliver the opening address Wednesday morning in Mandel hall.

Fifty-six colleges will be represented by delegates, who will come from nearly every state in the union. Many old alumni also will join the festivities, among them being Meredith Nicholson, the novelist; S. S. McClure, Senator Patterson of Colorado, Congressman John R. Stirling, Bishop McDowell, Bishop Hartzell, E. A. Stillman of New York City, and Prof. John Merle Coulter of the University of Chicago.

The university will give the fraternity a smoker Wednesday evening. The following night the banquet will be held at the Del Prado hotel. The closing session will be on Friday.

ROBBED AND PUT IN ICE BOX.

Three Patrons of Saloon at Western Avenue and West Monroe Street and Proprietor Are Victims.

The ice box method of disposing of victims after they had been robbed was used successfully last night by three armed robbers, who, after taking the money they found on three patrons of a saloon at Western avenue and West Monroe street and the proprietor, locked them in the refrigerator. The robbers escaped before the imprisoned men could release themselves and give an alarm. Those robbed were:

Tubio Peronias, owner of the saloon, lost $25.

Joseph Kane, 149 Western avenue, lost $22.

H. Burns, 1027 West Monroe street, $2.50.

J. E. Stark, 147 Western avenue, $16 and a gold watch.

PRETTY PHONE GIRL RESCUED

Man Accused of Negotiating Sale to Resort Is Arrested.

EXPOSED BY FIGHT IN STREET

Myrtle Burns Admits She Ran Away from Home in Forty-Eighth Avenue.

Myrtle Burns, a 17 year old telephone operator, who disappeared from her home, 519 South Forty-eighth avenue, a week ago, was rescued from the clutches of Joseph McCauliffe, alias "Harry Love," who was arrested by the Harrison street police last night. The girl is being held at the station a prisoner.

Although the disappearance of the pretty operator was reported to the police some time ago, it was not until last night that Sergeant Brouder and Detective Fitzpatrick obtained a clew that led to the arrests. It is charged that McCauliffe was negotiating for the sale of the young woman to a resort keeper in the south side "levee" when he was captured.

Shortly before McCauliffe, accompanied by the girl, had left the Savoy hotel, State and Congress streets, and engaged in a quarrel in front of the place. Enraged when an aged man walked past in hearing of the quarrel, McCauliffe hurried after him and felled him to the street.

Escapes During Excitement.

The attack was seen by Sergeant Brouder and the detective, who arrested McCauliffe. In the excitement that followed the girl escaped and her companion denied that he knew her.

"I just met her a few minutes ago," McCauliffe told the police, "and I did not learn her name. She is a resident of this district, anyway."

The Burns girl was found in State street some time later by a messenger, who carried a decoy letter, asking her to visit McCauliffe in his cell. She was questioned by the police and then held prisoner.

"I met McCauliffe in State street some time ago," she told Sergt. Brouder. Since then we have lived at the Savoy hotel, but Joe quarreled when his money gave out. He spent the $40 that he had when I met him, and then squandered what little I had. He told me to tell the police, should I ever be questioned that I was more than 18 years old. 'You will get off easier that way,' he warned me, 'than by admitting your right age.'"

Confesses She Ran Away.

For a time the girl denied her identity and asserted she was 19 years old. After a few minutes' questioning she broke down and confessed she had run away from home. Until a week ago she was employed as an operator at the main telephone exchange. For more than a week every policeman in the city was looking for her, and it was feared she had met with foul play.

McCauliffe is 23 years old and until six weeks ago worked for the Western Electric company.

"We have evidence that McCauliffe was contemplating the placing of the Burns girl in a resort," said Sergt. Brouder. "Had it not been for the quarrel in the street it is likely the little telephone operator would have been out of the way, for a time at least."

POLICE READY TO JOIN IN CRUSADE AGAINST VICE.

Inspector Backus Says Judge Sadler Will Be Helped in Every Way Possible to Put Check on Evils.

The warfare declared by Municipal Judge Sadler against vice conditions on the west side will have the active coöperation of the police. Judge Sadler and Inspector Backus of the Desplaines street station are determined that disreputable resorts, cheap dance halls, and fruit stores where young girls are schooled in vice and crime shall be put out of business.

"Any move that Judge Sadler may make will receive the hearty coöperation of the police," said Inspector Backus. "We stand ready to help him in every way. Plans are being considered for a crusade against disorderly houses. We also will take action to prevent young girls and boys from congregating in fruit stores and chop suey joints late at night."

Letters will be sent by Judge Sadler to a number of ministers requesting them to preach sermons on the dangers young girls are exposed to by visiting places of questionable repute. The ministers also will be asked to warn the parents against allowing their daughters and sons to contract "night owl" habits.

ACCOSTS WRONG MAN; IS SHOT.

Dancer Mistakes Stranger for Acquaintance, Tells Him He's Had Wife as Partner.

Frank Kilder, 32 years old, 6254 Paulina street, was shot in the left side and probably fatally wounded late last night when he mistook a man of the name of Cushka, for a friend and told him that he had just been dancing with his wife. The shooting occurred in front of a saloon at 4820 Elizabeth street, at the rear of which a dance was in progress. Cushka's wife is said by the police to have been dancing in the place, and the husband, believing Kilder's statement to be true, fired at him. Cushka escaped.

FOUR HURT FIGHTING FLAMES

Four Hundred Carloads of Ice Fail to Save a Warehouse.

PATROL HORSE DROPS DEAD.

Colored Boy Sleeps in a Shed and Is Found Burned to a Crisp.

Four firemen were injured while fighting flames which consumed the icehouse of the Grand Trunk railroad and melted 400 carloads of ice yesterday afternoon.

One of the injured men was being driven in a patrol wagon from the New City station at high speed to the hospital, when one of the horses dropped dead from heat. The wagon was stopped so suddenly it was nearly overturned.

Early in the day a colored boy was burned to death at 5009 Dearborn street.

The Injured.

DONOHUE, LIEUT. WILLIAM T., of Truck company No. 8, injured about the face and hands; not serious.

GRACE, JAMES, 26 years old, 3006 Archer avenue, fireman of Truck company No. 8, injured by falling wall; spine fractured and internally injured; taken to the Lakeside hospital.

KESSRADICK, JOHN, 32 years old, 5303 Justine street, Engine company No. 49, fell from a platform, fifteen feet; removed to his home by the New City police.

MYERS, FRANK, pipeman of Truck company No. 8, injured about the face and hands; not serious.

Cars Burn; Ice Melts.

The icehouse destroyed was a three story brick building at Forty-ninth street and St. Louis avenue. It contained 400 carloads of ice. Cakes of ice that escaped melting were eagerly gathered and carried away by hundreds who witnessed the fire.

The Fifteenth street police sent their patrol wagon to convey the injured man to the hospital. Policeman Dennis O'Connor of the New City station, in charge of the wagon when a horse fell dead, was knocked the length of the wagon and sustained slight injuries.

Loss from the fire was estimated at $40,000.

Boy Burns to Death.

John Clark, 12 years old, colored, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed a shed at the rear of 5009 Dearborn street. His charred body was discovered in the ruins of the shed by a policeman while firemen who had extinguished the blaze in the shed were fighting flames that had ignited the house in which his parents were asleep.

Ragtime Songs Stop Panic.

A panic which might have resulted in serious injury to many persons was averted last night by the singing of "ragtime" songs in the Rialto café, where nearly 100 patrons were eating when it was learned fire threatened the five story building in which the café is conducted at 73 Clark street. An explosion of chemicals in the drug store of John Krone, above the café, caused the fire. The loss was small.

Lamp Explodes in Woman's Hand.

A lighted lamp exploded in the hands of Mrs. Cornelius Mahoney as she was carrying it to her bedroom at 2900 Cottage Grove avenue shortly before midnight. She was slightly burned and her husband in putting out the flames was severely burned about the arms, shoulders, and chest. Both were taken to Mercy hospital. Police gave the opinion that the lamp contained gasoline.

BOYCOTT FOR GOMPERS TO BALK TRACTION GAIN.

Labor President Hit by Labor Blow Aimed to Strike Company Under Union Ban.

Kokomo, Ind., July 21.—[Special.]—Seeking to stop the traction company from gaining by fares of those who would attend his meeting, union labor boycotted Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, when he reached here today. Less than half a hundred persons heard his address at Chautauqua park.

Before coming here he had written to representative laboring men to meet him on his arrival, but no one paid him this courtesy.

The labor organizations of this city have declared a boycott against the Kokomo, Marion and Western Traction company, and some days ago the Central Trade union resolved not to extend any official courtesies to Gompers, claiming that the traction company would benefit by the attendance of laboring men at the meeting. The boycott was not aimed at Mr. Gompers himself, and he did not take it as a personal affront to himself.

FOOTBALL "HERO" A REAL ONE.

"Tom" Thorpe, Captain of the Columbia Eleven, Rescues Young Woman from Drowning.

Freeport, L. I., July 21.—[Special.]—Miss Violet Atwood, a young women of 19, was dragged from the surf this afternoon by "Tom" Thorpe, the Columbia football captain, while in danger of drowning. Among those who went to his aid was O'Connell, the Columbia pitcher.

DEFEND GEESE IN GRAYLAND.

Residents, Old and Young, Ready to Defy Enemies of Fowl.

FLOCKS HERDED IN PRAIRIE.

Aged Woman Criticises Those Who Consider Her Pets a Nuisance.

Goosey, goosey, gander,
Where dost thou wander?
Upstairs, downstairs,
In my lady's chamber.

This section of the familiar Mother Goose rhymes adequately describes the situation in the picturesque northwest side settlement known as Grayland, where the Goosetes have thrust defiance in the faces of the Anti-Goosetes by allowing their favored poultry to run at large in spite of the protest filed with Corporation Counsel Brundage.

The army in favor of the geese was swelled materially through the circulation of a rumor that the city council would include small bad boys with other "wild animals" in the new dog catching ordinance.

Villagers Protect Their Pets.

Vincent and Francis Gilligan, 6 year old twin sons of Michael Gilligan, 1205 Henderson street, kept close to their pets the greater portion of the day for fear some city official might molest them.

"Nobody shall touch our geese," said the lads in unison, and by that remark voiced the sentiments of any other little boys and girls who prefer geese to cats or dogs.

In the prairie off Milwaukee avenue, near Forty-fifth avenue, was a woman bent with age herding her flock of sixty-five geese. She said her name was Mary Ann Weaver and that some of the geese in the flock had been residents of Grayland long before the people who are complaining against them.

"Ah, they're society ladies—aristocrats—who are kicking against the fowl," said Mrs. Weaver. "Sure, they lay eggs, are good eating, and make nice goose grease, and I see no harm in them having a bit of grass from the fields."

Old Goose Stops Speeding Trolley.

But one flock of geese came near causing a panic on a Milwaukee avenue car. The car was speeding east when an old mother goose with her four little ones started across the track. The motorman suddenly reversed the power, thereby blowing out a fuse and causing women and children to scream, but the geese were saved even though the passengers were jolted and frightened.

CHILD KILLED BY STREET CAR ON HER WAY TO BUY CANDY.

Esther Carlson, 3 Years Old, Run Down in Sedgwick Street—Motorman in Collapse, Revived by a Physician.

Attempting to cross the street in front of a Sedgwick street car last evening, Esther Carlson, 3 years old, 1316 Wellington street, was struck and killed. Motorman Walter J. Nostram was overcome by the excitement when he failed to stop the car in time to prevent the girl's death. He was revived at a physician's office.

Other persons riding on the front platform screamed and drew back in horror as the fender struck the child, threw her beneath the wheels, and dragged her more than 100 feet before the car was stopped. When Conductor J. Burtzen with Richard Howard, 134 Sedgwick street, and Ben Wilson, 121 Sedgwick street, reached the body of the girl they were unable to remove it from beneath the car. It was necessary to hoist the trucks to extricate the mangled form.

The child was on her way to buy candy. She and her mother had been spending the day with friends at 111 Sedgwick street.

In an attempt to recover his hat, lifted by a gust of wind, Isaac Olbridge, 54 years old, 400 North Paulina street, was crushed in the afternoon between a North avenue car and the temporary bridge over the north branch. Three ribs were fractured and his spine injured.

PICNIC PARTY STRUCK BY CAR.

Wagon Overturned at Western Avenue and Forty-first Street and Three of the Occupants Injured.

A dozen persons were thrown from a wagon and three of their number were injured late last night when the vehicle was overturned by a Western avenue car at Forty-first street. The party had attended a picnic held on the south side and were returning home at the time of the accident. Those injured were:

McDonald, Thomas, 2818 Loomis street; bruised about the face and body.

Schaaley, Edward, 2817 Seeley avenue; cut about head and bruised on the body.

Baker, John C., 2538 Lime street; left arm badly bruised and cut on side of face.

Schaaley was driving when the wagon was crossing the tracks and before he was aware of the danger the car crashed into the wagon. All the injured were taken home by friends.

UNIONS ABANDON LABOR DAY MARCH

Chicago Central Organizations Declare Monster Parade Is Too Expensive.

COSTS $500,000 ANNUALLY.

Money Formerly Spent on Display to Be Saved for Gigantic Defense Fund.

Chicago has seen the last of its Labor day parades, at least for several years to come. The annual long march through the streets by thousands of unionists, wearing the picturesque uniforms of their trades, was abandoned yesterday by the federation of labor as being an "antiquated and luxurious" method of displaying labor's strength before the public.

While the federation was putting the parade on the shelf, the Associated Building Trades was also going through the formality of dispensing with this unsatisfactory style of demonstration. With the two leading labor bodies against the project, there is no possibility of a parade this year or next.

President John Fitzpatrick of the federation led the opposition to the parade. He advised the unions to save the money which they would expend in buying uniforms, banners, carriages, and bands, and put it into a big defense fund, with which, he said, labor "may keep a stiff upper lip and talk as saucily as it pleases to employers."

Waste $500,000 Every Year.

"About $500,000 is spent annually by workingmen of Chicago in these parades," said President Fitzpatrick at the federation meeting. "That money is wasted. Let us take the $5 which each union man probably would expend on his uniform and build up a strong fund. We can use it to defend labor, as we did in the teamsters' trials, which cost us $60,000 more. Thus we can accomplish better results than by flaunting our numbers in a swaggering march on labor day.

The older labor leaders supported Fitzpatrick in his contention. Delegates from the carpenters, the cigarmakers, the printers, and some of the other pioneer unions in Chicago asserted that they were tired of the parades. They said they doubted if a corporal's guard could be induced to join another march.

Delegate Leland P. Smith of the Paperhangers' union suggested a fall labor festival covering a period of four days as a substitute for the parade, but this was rejected also.

New Charter Is Denounced.

The federation devoted several hours to an attack on the new charter, finally adopting a lengthy report which branded the instrument as a "rehash of the old charter, inconsistent, absurd, and contradictory in its attitude toward existing statutes." Delegate J. A. Jarvis of the street car men read the report.

"Aldermen are given four year terms under the new charter," said Jarvis. "That will allow them plenty of time to consummate any piece of rascality that their owners may conceive as being profitable. Any alderman who is on the make can feather his nest nicely in four years of freedom from interference."

The proposed new apportionment of wards was referred to as a "rank gerrymander, which gives thirty-two wards to one political party, fourteen to another, leaving four wards to the people." The power vested in the mayor under the charter was described in the report as monarchical because of the unlimited administrative powers given to that official. Other clauses with which the federation found fault were the civil service, revenue, and education sections.

The federation voted to send representatives to the meeting next Sunday at the Jefferson club, when it is planned to select a large committee to fight the charter.

KEY TAPPERS AGAINST STRIKE.

Agitation for Radical Action in Chicago Squelched by Telegraphers—Small Upheld.

The telegraphers' strike scare apparently subsided entirely yesterday. The Chicago operators met at Brand's hall, North Clark and Erie streets, and decided to assume a conservative attitude, at least until President Small arrives from San Francisco. Danger of local troubles was said to have passed.

A message from Small advising moderation had the effect of quieting a few radicals in the meeting. Several resolutions, censuring the national executive board for "giving up the fight," were introduced, but were promptly voted down. In answer to Small, the local union sent a telegram of congratulations upon the peaceful outcome of the San Francisco trouble.

"There is no longer any possibility of the strike breaking out again," said Secretary Ulerich. "We have determined to obey President Small and assist him in carrying out his program."

It is said that a few grievances remain here against the Postal company, but that these will be taken up later. The grievances of the Western Union employés were declared to have been settled.

MORE POLO PLAY IS IN PROSPECT.

Post-Series by the Championship Winners for Valuable Trophy Expected.

TOURNEY ENDS THIS WEEK

Sport Said to Have Been Known to the Persians at Least 2,500 Years Ago.

BY E. G. B FITZHAMON.

Though the national polo tournament now in progress at Lake Forest will be concluded this week, there is said to be good prospect for a post-series game between the winners of the junior and senior championships for a handsome trophy donated by a coterie of wealthy Chicago enthusiasts.

It has not been decided definitely, but it was talked about freely at Onwentsia yesterday, and it is asserted such a trophy certainly will be offered in event of the Onwentsia team winning the junior championship.

Should such a post-tournament game be arranged it will be a handicap game. That is, the difference between the rating of the two teams will be figured and the winners of the senior championship will have to concede to the junior champs such a number of goals. Should the senior champions be a thirty point team and the juniors be a fifteen point team, the latter would receive fifteen goals, in accordance with the rules of the National Polo association, which rates the players from season to season.

Chance for the Onwentsias.

Under such conditions some of the members of the Onwentsia club believe their players would have a good chance to win an interchampionship game and trophy.

Fifteen or sixteen goals may seem to be a large handicap, but it really is not so much for a first class team to concede. Saturday's game showed that. The Bryn Mawr team could have conceded the Fort Riley officers twenty goals and still have won; probably they could have conceded twenty-five goals if forced to.

The polo enthusiasts of Chicago, who have supported the game with little public encouragement for over a dozen years, hope the holding of the national tournament here this year will bring the sport many new admirers.

Probably no game played today can claim a prouder lineage or a more ancient origin than polo. Never has it been tainted with so much as a suspicion of professionalism, and it always has been played for the sport's sake.

Ancient Origin of Polo.

Polo is supposed to be of Persian origin, as it has been established that they played the game—in a primitive way, of course—2,500 years ago. Some years ago an old painting of Persians playing polo was discovered in the palace of the kings of Oudh, India. A queer looking lot they are, most of them mounted on piebald stallions. The players present a curious appearance, the painter of those early times depicting them in "stained glass" attitudes and flattened out as if merely stuck on to the background. They are playing with long sticks crooked at the end like a hockey stick and with a large ball. In lieu of modern boots and trousers they are arrayed in curious plaited skirts.

There is no telling how far back polo's origin dates. It is easy to imagine that when primeval man first caught, tamed, and rode the wild horse he found some amusement in pursuing on its back a round stone or rude wooden ball, which he smote with a stick.

When one comes to think of it it is surprising that such a strenuous pastime should have been born in the far east, so famed for its enervating heat, languorous life, and harems filled with oriental beauties. But the ancient Persians are known to have been a people of athletic tastes and fine horsemanship.

Sport Carried to England.

From the Persians the game found its way to India, whence it was carried to the British isles by returning cavalry officers. The first real polo match in England was played in 1869 at Hounslow between officers of the British army's Ninth Lancers and Tenth Hussars, there being eight players on each team, four of them being goalkeepers. The other players had no particular places, but rushed about the field in a mob. Ponies were small, there was no pace, and every one got in the other's way frightfully.

When the backhand stroke came into vogue the game was quickened appreciably, because the quick return caused the tide of play to sweep to and fro with a rapidity that put much life into the game, and speed and handiness in ponies became indispensable. Also many more mounts became requisite and the expense of playing increased greatly. The number of players was cut down and the goalkeepers were reduced to one on each side. Later he was called into the game and played as a back, and then four men became the regulation team, which still prevails.

First International Match.

The first international polo match was played at Dieppe, France, early in the '80s between an English and a French team, although the latter included two Americans, Messrs. Storer and Ridgeway. An enormous crowd was present, and the ground had to be kept clear by a regiment of infantry. It is recorded patriotism and enthusiasm ran so high that when the mimic cavalry battle was going against the French some excitable Gauls would rush on to the field, pick up the ball, and hurl it towards the English goal, while "sacres," "parbleus," and "diables" flew about thickly, accompanied by much shouting and gesticulation. But in spite of the fiercest rooting imaginable the hated Britons won a crushing victory by eleven goals to none. And in those days eleven goals constituted a large score.

Brought to America in 1883.

Polo found its way to this continent in 1883. In the east it quickly found favor with the smart set, and as early as 1886 a Hurlingham team was invited to come over and play a series of matches for a challenge cup. Foxhall Keene, who is expected to play on the Rockaway team against Buffalo at Onwentsia next Thursday, was a member of that first American team, of which Thomas Hitchcock was captain and W. K. Thorn and R. Belmont the other members.

After the visitors had won two games the series of matches fell through. The excellent team play of the English and the superiority of their ponies enabled them to win too easily for the games to be interesting. But it was not long before Mr. Keene developed into a first class player, and the United States has boasted others equally good in Mr. Cowdin, the two Waterburys, Mr. Agassiz, "Bobby" Shaw, R. La Montague, and a few more of like caliber.

Soldiers Play Again Today.

Today's game will be between the Fort Riley team and Bry. Mawr II., and it looks as if the soldiers are in for another trimming. The army entered the same team for both championships, and it was put out of the senior championship Saturday by Bryn Mawr. Today the soldiers will be playing for the junior championship against the same team that they met Saturday excepting the captain, Charles Wheeler, one of the east's high class players. By withdrawing Mr. Wheeler and substituting L. L. Downing, the Bryn Mawrs have a team eligible for the junior championship, because its aggregate official rating does not exceed twenty goals.

If the Bryn Mawr II. players win today, it will be between them and the Onwentsias that the final game for the junior championship will be played on Wednesday, which naturally will be an occasion of great interest locally.

Thursday the famous Rockaway team from New York, which won last year's championship, will play Buffalo's senior team; and the winner—most probably Rockaway—will meet on Saturday the senior Bryn Mawr team, which smothered the army so decisively by 23 goals to 0. This will be the last game of the tournament and will decide the senior championship for 1907. Should the two champion teams play off in a handicap game, it will be set for early next week.

Tiny Girl Causes Arrest of Burglar

HELEN BARNICLE

Helen Barnicle, 10 years old, 86 Thirty-fifth street, is friendly to all the neighborhood, and is not accustomed to angry looks. So when a strange man scowled and hurried by her she made up her mind that something was wrong about him. She saw that he carried a little iron bank and she recognized it as that of Baby Love, the 2 year old daughter of Mrs. J. Love, 3735 Elmwood place.

She concluded right away that the unpleasant man was a burglar. She followed him for a block, looking for a policeman, and then she telephoned to Stanton avenue police station giving a good description of the man.

The police got him. He gave the name of Charles Murray. That was Friday afternoon. The man with a scowl will have his trial today.

KILTED CLAN HONORS BURNS.

Wreath Placed on Monument to the Poet in Garfield Park.

MARCH TO BAGPIPE MUSIC.

Scots Observe Anniversary of Death of Their Noted Countryman.

More than 1,000 representatives of the clans of "Auld Scotia" assembled yesterday forenoon before the monument of Robert Burns in Garfield park to commemorate the one hundred and eleventh anniversary of his death and honor the greatest of Scottish poets by placing a wreath on the base of the monument. The memorial exercises were held under the auspices of the Robert Burns Memorial society of Chicago, composed of various Scottish societies.

The program was scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock and by that hour a large crowd had gathered to watch for the arrival of the members of the Clan Campbell.

In Kilts and Tartans.

The Chicago members of the clan gathered at the Van Buren opera house, West Madison street and Campbell avenue, donned their kilts, plaids, and tartans, and marched to the park to the music of "Flowers of the Forest" and the "Land of the Leal," played upon bagpipes by the clan's pipe majors, William Gunn and Duncan Forbes.

With the arrival of the Highlanders the exercises were begun.

LEGAL PROD FOR MANY CONSCIENCES

Opportunity for Fifty or More Wealthy Citizens to Pay Their Just Tolls.

BRUNDAGE ON THE TRAIL

Prosecutions Are Threatened Against Those Who Make Incorrect Schedules.

Upwards of fifty prominent and wealthy —particularly the latter—citizens of Chicago will be made the central figures in some extremely unpleasant court proceedings shortly unless upwards of fifty consciences get in some fine work during the coming week.

That is the number of citizens against whom Corporation Counsel Brundage has secured such evidence of tax dodging that he has decided to make examples of them unless they voluntarily call on the board of review and disgorge the proper sums which, according to the figures in possession of Assistant Corporation Counsel Hill, are due to the county and city in taxes.

It is probable that not more than one week will be given the owners of the lax consciences to get right with the reviewers. If they do not take advantage of this respite the corporation counsel will begin legal proceedings which, although they might add to the citizens' prominence, would leave them considerably less wealthy, as there are heavy penalties for tax dodging.

This is but a part of the crusade against tax dodgers which the corporation counsel has begun. It was conservatively estimated yesterday that the collection of the taxes which cannot be evaded because of the evidence already secured by Assistant Corporation Counsel Hill will net the city and county $500,000.

Will Watch Reviewers' Work.

Beginning with today's session of the board of review the corporation counsel's office will be represented at every sitting of the taxing body and will take an active part in the search for property which at this time of the year is mysteriously missing. The city's legal department thus will have an additional department—that of "tax experts"—of which Mr. Hill will be the head.

The chief work of the new department will be to compel big property owners to schedule their property or take the consequences of failure to do so. Heretofore it has been customary for big property holders to refuse to schedule, permitting the assessors to make any guess they saw fit. If the "guess" was far below what it should be they permitted it to stand; if it was nearly correct or above the figure upon which they saw fit to pay taxes they would hasten to the reviewers' office and demand, with more or less success, that the figures be cut down.

Mr. Brundage declined to name any of the alleged tax dodgers.

"The persons referred to know who they are," he said, "and as there are many others in the same boat against whom we have no evidence I am willing that they should have an opportunity to correct their errors. If they fail to do so then will be time enough to discuss their identity."

Big Increase in Values Shown.

The assessors concluded a hard day's work by exhibiting totals for north and west towns, which show an increase of $80,257,185 in the real estate values in these towns for the year. This is the greatest increase in real estate values for that portion of the city in any one year since the fire.

The total assessed value of the property in the two towns, as compared with last year's figures, is as follows:

	Assessors, 1906.	Reviewers, 1906.	Assessors, 1907.
West town...	$74,566,712	$74,826,684	$ 87,007,061
North town..	21,910,573	21,814,158	25,521,761
Totals ...	$96,477,285	$96,140,842	$112,528,822
Increase in West town.....			$12,440,249
Increase in North town.....			3,611,188
Total increase.....			$16,051,437

As these figures represent only the value taken for taxing purposes, or one-fifth of the actual value of the real estate in the two towns, the actual increase in values is five times that sum, or $80,257,185.

South Town Totals Delayed.

The south town assessments have been slower in coming in and the totals will not be completed until some time today. It is likely that real estate values in the south town have taken as decided a jump as have those in the west and north towns, which would show a total increase for the entire city of about 15 per cent.

M. C. M'DONALD ABLE TO SIT UP.

Former "Gambling King," Made Ill by Wife's Arrest on Murder Charge, Is Improving.

Michael C. McDonald, former "gambling king," who has undergone a long illness at St. Anthony's hospital, sat up yesterday for the first time in several weeks. He has been suffering with heart trouble and a general breakdown, brought on by anxiety over his wife, now under charge of murdering Walter S. Guerin.

"Mike is considerably better and I think he will pull through," said Edward S. McDonald, a brother. "The report that his former wife visited him at the hospital was a mistake. Myself and wife visited him on Saturday, which probably accounted for the report."

Attorney Shaffner said the former Mrs. McDonald could make no legal claim to Mr. McDonald's property, in case of his death, as he obtained the divorce.

LOFTIS MAY DROP CHARGE.

Uncertain What Action to Take Against Brother Joe.

HEARING IS SET FOR TODAY.

Continuance Expected as Wounded Man May Not Be Able to Appear.

Joseph S. Loftis, who shot and slightly wounded his brother, Samuel, president of Loftis Bros. & Co., in a business quarrel Saturday, will be arraigned before Judge Fake this morning in the Harrison street branch of the Municipal court. The charge against him is shooting with intent to kill.

Samuel Loftis, who was at Mercy hospital last night, has not decided whether or not he will press the charge against his brother. This is what his wife said. Whether he will be able to be in court this morning or not she could not say.

In any event it is considered probable that one side or the other will obtain a continuance for ten days.

Joe Had No Revolver.

If the case comes to trial the revolver will play an important part in the testimony. Mrs. Joe Loftis said that her husband had no weapon when he went to the directors' meeting. She said the revolver was one that his brother always kept on his desk. The intimation is that there was a scramble for the weapon and that Joe got it first.

"I was afraid there would be trouble at that meeting," said Mrs. Joe Loftis. "I called Sam up the night before and begged him not to arouse Joe's quick temper. He talked reasonably and I was reassured."

Says Sam Ousted Three Brothers.

Mrs. Joe said her husband was the third brother Sam had ousted from his diamond company. The other two, she said, were Clifford J., who made the same charge himself on Saturday, and Frank, who died five years ago.

"Frank died of a broken heart after being kicked out by Sam," said Mrs. Joe.

In reply to these charges Samuel said:

"That is not true. Joe is the only brother who ever had an interest in the business. Clifford never was anything but an employe."

PERSONS LEAVING THE CITY WARNED BY HEALTH OFFICER.

Attention Is Called to Danger Involved in Drinking Water from Polluted Lake and Streams.

The city's chief medical inspector has issued a warning to persons who leave the city for summer rest or recreation.

"These seekers after rest and happiness," he says, "are liable to drink polluted surface water in lakes and streams. Open wells are often infected with typhoid fever germs and are among other sources of typhoid fever.

"Each year in August there is an increase in typhoid fever cases, and the investigations show that about one-fourth of all our city cases are contracted in the country, where the victim has been spending his summer vacation. Typhoid fever is a preventable disease. There is safety in boiled water, pasteurized milk, and cooked vegetables.

From present indications this month will be a record breaker in its low death rate. The rate for the first twenty days of the month was 11.86 per 1,000 population. The lowest previous July death rate in thirty years was 11.95, in 1904.

LOAN SOCIETIES MERGER PLANNED

Fifty Small Associations in Chicago to Be Amalgamated Into Group of Ten.

IS MEASURE OF SECURITY

Assistant State Auditor William Pishzak Gives the Project His Approval.

Amalgamation of fifty building and loan associations of Chicago was agreed upon yesterday at a meeting of men interested at the Palmer house. The organizations to be merged to have total assets of $6,000,000, which will be concentrated under control of ten associations.

The movement has been fostered by the Cook county league of the associations and sanctioned by William Pishzak, assistant auditor of the state of Illinois, who is in charge of building and loan association accounts.

The plan of consolidation will be submitted at the convention of the Illinois League of Associations at the Palmer house Wednesday. It means the retirement of boards of directors of forty associations and the beginning of a movement to discourage the formation of new associations in Chicago until the 127 which will remain in existence after the proposed consolidation is effected have reached an average of $250,000 assets.

The idea of strengthening the building and loan system in Chicago by merging the smaller organizations is favored by the managers of the most prominent associations, among them Paul Kraemer, secretary of the Cook county league.

State Examiner Urges Merger.

Attorney Pishzak, in his capacity as examiner of the associations' books, has strongly urged the consolidation project, and he believes the time now opportune to put the new economical movement into effect. Speaking at the meeting yesterday afternoon Mr. Pishzak said:

"The ideal building and loan association is one of $250,000 assets, operated at a cost of $2,500 a year. At that cost it is possible to have the constant and uninterrupted services of a secretary and to maintain an office to be open at hours convenient to the workingmen who are members of the association.

"Associations larger than that are not to be adversely criticised. Those smaller range in efficiency downward, ordinarily in proportion to their assets. There should be no encouragement for the formation of new associations. They are not a good thing for the men in whose interest they are projected, the small wage earners of Chicago."

Plan Is Pronounced Legal.

Secretary Kraemer said it is his conviction, based on study of the situation for six years, that the consolidation ought to be effected. M. D. Rider, treasurer of the league, also spoke in favor of the proposition. Twenty men attended the meeting.

H. E. Tinsman, president of the Cook county league, and Julius Stern, former president of the United States league, both of whom are lawyers, have pronounced the plan feasible and in accordance with the state laws.

There are now 167 building and loan associations in Cook county, with total assets in excess of $13,000,000, and more than 15,000 shareholders.

The United States league of 501 associations will meet at the same time as the annual convention of the Illinois league. The United States league, which has 10,000 associations, is headed by Charles F. Bentley of Grand Island, Neb., and the Illinois league by John N. C. Shumway of Taylorville.

TRIES TO BE BIRD; BECOMES A CORPSE

Christian Scientist, Who Thought He'd Fly on Night Air, Falls to Death.

THUGS KILL IN DAYLIGHT.

Physician Is Slugged, Robbed, and Drugged While Walking in New York.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. New York, July 21.

After telling his wife that he was going to fly out in the night air like a bird, Eugene Howe, a Christian Scientist, aged 28 years, early today leaped in his nightdress from a third story window and dropped like a stone to the pavement below. His skull was fractured and he died in the hospital an hour later.

Thinks He Can Fly Like Bird; Tries; Dies.

Howe and his wife are caretakers of the residence of Dr. Gregory Costigan, 63 West Thirty-eighth street. Near the Costigan residence is the Second Church of Christ, Scientist. Howe had gone there occasionally, and became interested in Christian Science. He had tried to interest his wife, but failed. She says that after her husband began to read Mrs. Mary G. Baker Eddy's "Science and Health" he gave up smoking and changed most of his habits of life, and not long ago he decided eating breakfast was all a mistake.

About midnight last night, his wife says, Howe began to act in a manner queer even for him. He finally made for the front window, climbed out on the sill, and announced he was going to fly out on the night air. Mrs. Howe ran to the window and managed to grasp her husband's ankle just as he leaped. She held the weight with all her strength, but finally, with a shriek that aroused the neighbors, she fell back into a faint.

Dr. Costigan, who was in the basement, heard the woman's scream and made for a small door opening into the areaway. Just as the physician opened the door, Howe, clad only in his nightclothes, came down on the flagging. People living across the street saw him land on the stones.

Flies he leaped from the window Howe had carried with him Mrs. Eddy's book. It wasn't found until late this afternoon. Dr. Costigan located it on top of the bay window of the opposite second floor house. The book was covered with blood, showing Howe had struck the top of the window in falling.

Robbed and Beaten to Death in Daylight.

Dr. Edwin J. Russell, physician, 1032 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, was found unconscious this morning in a doorway in Lexington avenue, near One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street. He was removed to the Harlem hospital, where he died tonight. In an autopsy statement to Coroner Acritelli, Dr. Russell said he had been beaten and robbed in broad daylight Friday evening. Six young men surrounded him, beat and robbed him, and then forced some sort of drug down his throat.

There were five so-called "dips" in the Desplaines police court today in consequence of the instructions from Police Commissioner Bingham to the detective bureau. The instructions were the result of complaints that the pickpockets had transferred their operations in a great part from the surface lines to the elevated roads.

Chief McMullen and several other sleuths left early this morning and went to the West Second street station of the Third avenue elevated. There they saw Joe Goldberry riding the passengers. After locking him up they went to the Thirty-fourth street station and found four old acquaintances pushing about among the crowd. They were Charles Phillips, Barney Goldberg, Charles Eller, and Max Fleischer. The four were arrested.

When the prisoners were brought up Phillips said:

"Say, Judge, I can't put my nose on the street but I'm pinched. The cops are just beating me. I'm going to move to Chicago, where a fellow has got a show for his life."

Edward McLoughlin, aged 11 years, of East Orange, N. J., was arrested today on a charge of stealing a horse from Peter Burns of West Orange. He got a companion, about his age, and the two started out for a day of pleasure. The police captured them in Bloomfield.

"Be wild me as you will," he said, with the air of a western desperado. "Never will it be said that Six Shooter Eddie, the terror of White street, took water when the sheriff's guys nipped him wid der goods."

The police expect to deliver the "terror of White street" over to his father, who, it is understood, has some goods he wants to deliver to Eddie.

Mrs. George C. Wiedenmayer of Newark received word from Rochester, N. Y., today that she will receive $179,122.63 as her share of the personal property left by her father, Henry Bartholomay, the Rochester brewer, who died in Germany last March. Mrs. Wiedenmayer's husband is a son of George W. Wiedenmayer, a Newark brewer. This is the second fortune Mrs. Wiedenmayer has inherited from her father. He was a wealthy man, and several years ago divided property worth $5,000,000 among four sons and three daughters. He also paid the expenses of each on a trip to Europe every year, leaving them to stay as long as they pleased.

dent Roosevelt and Secretary Root to have the American representatives at the Hague withdraw unless Russia and Roumania agree to certain specified regulations regarding the treatment of the Jews living within their borders.

According to Louis Friedman, who is one of the leaders in this movement, an appeal has been made to Cardinal Gibbons in Baltimore, and it is hoped he will lend his influence to the movement.

There will be a meeting tomorrow of the presidents of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation, at which President William E. Corey, who returned from Europe on Saturday, will preside.

Steel Leaders to Meet; Corey Will Preside.

It was said by a prominent director of the steel corporation that there was absolutely no significance in the meeting or in the fact that it is to be held coincident with the return of Mr. Corey from Europe. Mr. Corey has declined today to those who called to see him.

The final crowding away from the New York streets of horse drawn stages began today, when five green automobile omnibuses were installed in Fifth avenue and all but four of the dingy old coaches withdrawn. Although the new motor stages are anything but objects of beauty, they are extremely popular, and their roofs were crowded with men and women, and, though the fare was 10 cents instead of 5 cents, as in the case of the stages, the old vehicles carried but few passengers.

Bride-to-Be of "Sherlock Holmes" Author

Miss Jean Leckie.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the creator of "Sherlock Holmes," is to be married to Miss Jean Leckie, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leckie of Monkstown cottage, Crowborough, England, in September next. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is a widower, his first wife, to whom he was married in 1886, when he was a medical practitioner at Southsea, having died a year ago, leaving two children. It was at the Crowborough residence of his fiancée's parents that Sir Arthur wrote his famous defense of Edalji, the man who was sentenced to eleven years in prison on circumstantial evidence that he had mutilated cattle, and whose release the author of "Sherlock Holmes" secured recently by applying Sherlock Holmes logic to the case.

Chicago broke some summer records yesterday in the matter of weather conditions. Although the maximum temperature was one degree lower than on at least one former occasion, the day was the hottest Sunday of the year; and one of three days on which the mercury reached the 90 degree mark.

A shower in the afternoon brought the total number of downpours during July to fourteen, thus establishing this month as the wettest as well as the hottest of the summer.

Uncomfortable atmospheric conditions drove thousands to the "cool spots" early in the day.

Excursion Boats Crowded.

There was a dash for the parks and breathing places in the city, and the excursion boats were crowded to their capacity, many of them making extra trips on the lake to accommodate patrons. The bathing beaches were especially popular. The list of heat victims was comparatively small.

Mrs. Hattie Hamlin, 55 years old, colored, died at her residence, 5118 La Salle street, from heat prostration.

Mary Mindekowka, 15 years old, 37 Haddon avenue, was prostrated while playing in Lincoln park.

The temperature ranged from a minimum of 70 degrees to a maximum of 90 degrees in the afternoon, and was soaring steadily, when its rise was checked by the rain. A heavy shower at 10 p. m. brought it down to 80 degrees.

Hot Weather to Continue.

According to the weather bureau prediction Chicago probably will have to face several other equally warm days. After consulting his charts last night Official Forecaster Garriott said the hot wave was hovering over Omaha, Kansas City, and other western cities and was scheduled for a protracted stay throughout the middle western district.

"Lake Michigan may come to our relief tomorrow, with a refreshing northeasterly breeze," he said, "but the temperature probably will not change much."

Showers are expected this morning, but their arrival is by no means a certainty. Tomorrow will be fair and warm.

TWICE SAVED, GIRL DROWNS.

River Death Claims Young Woman Despite Efforts of Escort—Companions in Canoe Escape.

DROWNINGS OF THE SEASON.....378

St. Louis, Mo., July 21.—After being saved twice by her escort, who placed her on the bottom of an overturned canoe, Miss Ruth Ledwigge, 18 years old, of 4066 Washington boulevard, was drowned in the rapids of the Merrimac river near St. Louis at dusk today while her escort was saving a companion, Miss Olive Winenow, 19 years old, of 2615 Clarke avenue.

The canoe, containing the girls and Ross Denham, aged 24, of 5320 Wells avenue, was overturned while Miss Ledwigge was tying her shoe. Denham managed to place both the girls on the overturned canoe, which turned, throwing them into the water a second time. Denham placed Miss Ledwigge a second time on the boat, and, while he was struggling to save Miss Winenow, the canoe was swept into the rapids, into which the party had drifted.

Miss Ledwigge's body has not been recovered.

FENCE FIGHT CAUSES DEATH.

Neighbors of John Wijas May Be Arrested on Murder Charge.

SKULL BROKEN WITH HAMMER

Inquest Today Is Expected to Determine Responsibility.

As the result of a difference over the question of a dividing fence, John Wijas, 48 years old, formerly a foreman at the Deering Manufacturing company's works, is dead, and Michael Nischik, his two sons, Joseph and Lawrence, and John and Aaron Tomas, may be called upon to answer to a charge of murder.

The Wijas and Nischik families are neighbors and live at 123 and 121 Pleasant place. The houses are separated by a narrow areaway, and at the rear of the house close up to the dividing line Wijas has planted a little garden. On April 28 Wijas observed from his house that his neighbors were building a high picket fence along the dividing line with the boards on his side and in the garden.

Skull Fractured with Hammer.

"What are you doing that for? You are spoiling my garden," he is said to have shouted from the rear porch.

"Come down here and we'll show you," was the response.

As Wijas approached the men, it is said, the elder Nischik remarked to the others: "Now we've got him. Kill him."

Joseph Nischik struck Wijas several times on the head with a hammer, crushing in his skull. As Wijas lay on the ground, Lawrence Nischik, it is asserted, beat him across the chest with a piece of timber and the Tomas brothers also beat him with boards about the arms and body. The Logan square police were called in. Wijas was removed to St. Mary's hospital, and the others, with several members of Wijas' family, were taken to the station and charged with rioting and disorderly conduct.

Injuries Followed by Death.

Wijas lay in the hospital for eight weeks and then was removed to his home, improved. He engaged Attorney Alexander Collins to take up his case, and about two weeks ago Judge Butler of the Logan Square court was asked to issue warrants for the arrest of Wijas' assailants, but he refused to do so.

Wijas died yesterday. Dr. Warren Hunter, coroner's physician, made a post-mortem examination of his body and reported that death was caused by injuries received on April 28, together with a complication of diseases. An inquest will be held this morning. Up to last night none of the assailants of the dead man had been arrested.

Mrs. Macauly to Address Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Fanny Caldwell Macauly will speak informally at the chapel exercises at the Young Women's Christian Association, 285 Michigan avenue, at 7 o'clock this evening.

PLEAD TODAY FOR HAYWOOD'S LIFE.

Argument in Defense of Miner Chief to Picture Him as Victim of Orchard.

VERDICT DUE SATURDAY.

Summing by the Federationist's Counsel Will Be Followed by State's Final Demand.

Boise, Idaho, July 21.—Argument in defense of William D. Haywood will commence tomorrow morning, and for the next two or three days E. F. Richardson and Clarence Darrow will plead for the life of their client, who, they assert, is innocent of any connection with the murder of Frank Steunenberg, the former governor.

The Denver lawyer, who with Clarence Darrow of Chicago has taken a leading part in the defense, expects to speak eight or ten hours. It is probable therefore that Mr. Darrow will not commence his closing argument before Wednesday morning. The last word will come from Senator Borah, who probably will speak on Friday, closing the state's side of the case. Judge Wood will charge the jury on Friday afternoon or Saturday morning, and a verdict is expected by Saturday night. Opinion is divided as to the probable result.

Orchard Story Chief Topic.

The decision of Judge Wood taking from the jury all evidence relating to deportations in Colorado and the employment of detectives to harass the Western Federation of Miners, constituting the shooting by the defense of a counter conspiracy, has necessarily limited the arguments of the defense to the evidence introduced by the state corroborative of Orchard and the impeachment of Orchard by the defense.

Mr. Richardson will take the position that his client, Haywood, had not been connected with any of the crimes to which Orchard has confessed, and that the alleged co-conspirator has not been corroborated, as is required by the law of conspiracy.

This will involve a review of all the evidence, from the period of trouble in the Coeur d'Alene district of Idaho in 1899 down to the murder of Steunenberg by Orchard in 1905.

He will present the legal side of the position of the defense at every point, and dissociate Haywood and the western federation from all knowledge of or participation in the crimes in which Orchard earned the title of "Boss Killer."

Attacks Slayer's Veracity.

Mr. Richardson will argue from the evidence that Orchard was not present at the blowing up of the concentrator at the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine in 1899, and that therefore his evidence in this matter is impeached and worthless.

He will claim that the explosion at the Vindicator mine in Colorado and the killing of Beck and McCormick was an accident with which Orchard had no connection; that the blowing up of the Independence depot in Colorado, where fourteen men were killed, was the result of a scheme to create public feeling against the striking miners, and that the killing of the nonunion miners was not intentional; that Orchard had no connection with it, or if he had that Haywood had no knowledge before hand of what was going on.

The killing of Lyte Gregory in Denver, Mr. Richardson will lay to the door of personal enemies of Gregory, who was engaged in strike breaking.

Bombs of Minor Importance.

The Goddard and Gabbert bombs, concerning which so much has been said, will not be considered by the defense as seriously bearing on the case, but at the same time they will claim that if such bombs were made and planted the Western Federation of Miners had nothing to do with them.

The same disavowal of connection will be argued as to the Bradley explosion and the Steunenberg murder itself.

From first to last Mr. Richardson will take the ground that Orchard, having murdered Steunenberg, has woven the members of the western federation into his story at the behest of Capt. James McParland and Gov. Gooding of Idaho, under promise of immunity.

As the end of the case approaches, the town of Boise is even more quiet than it has been at any time during the trial. Most of the witnesses have been paid off and dismissed, but many people are coming from long distances to hear the arguments. This is especially true of members of the bar from neighboring states.

Stand Aside for Justice.

The people of the town themselves are also taking much interest in the arguments, and the courtroom is filled at every session. There is, however, the same absence of discussion of the case in public places and the same determination to avoid anything that might create feeling or in any way bring discredit on the community.

Among the permanent residents of Boise, or those who might almost be considered citizens by reason of long attendance on the trial, there has not at any time been any show of discrimination or evidence of difference of opinion. It is a question for the court to decide, they say, and the decision of the jury will be the decision of the people of Idaho.

LIGHTNING BARES ELEPHANT'S STARE AND WOMAN DIES.

Sudden Appearance of Huge Beast in Covered Bridge Cause of Fatality—Pushed Auto Aside.

Bethel, Me., July 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Fanny Mercier died early this morning from an attack of heart disease brought on by sudden fright when the huge head of an elephant loomed up during a flash of lightning under a covered bridge here last night.

A circus was in town, and just before the show ended a thunder storm ripped the tent canvas. A great many spectators sought refuge from the downpour under a covered bridge, among them being Mrs. Mercier, who was in an automobile with friends.

The circus man started the elephants for the train by way of the bridge. One of the biggest animals of the lot pushed the automobile to one side to make a passage for himself. When Mrs. Mercier saw the head of the elephant she gave a scream and fainted. She did not recover consciousness.

FACES HIS DESERTED WIFE.

Man Known as 'Lord' De Moleyns Returns a Prisoner.

INSISTS UNCLE BEARS TITLE.

Looks to Wealthy Friends to Furnish Bail Until Given Trial.

Cecil Worthington Everleigh-De Moleyns, formerly known in Chicago as "Lord" De Moleyns, arrived from New York last evening a prisoner, to answer the charge of wife abandonment.

He denies emphatically statements made to the police ten days ago by the Hon. Edward De Moleyns, son of Lord Ventry, to the effect that Cecil is not a real De Moleyns, but a former valet of one, impersonating his former master. The prisoner claims to be the son of William De Moleyns and a nephew of Lord Ventry of Ireland.

"Neither the Hon. Edward nor his brother Richard, both of whom are my cousins, ever had a large enough income to employ a valet," said the prisoner. "Furthermore, I would like to meet my cousin Edward and talk with him just long enough to tell him he is mistaken. Poor old Lord Ventry is about 80 years old, and I am sorry that such stories have been printed for his sake. He is a grand man and is my father's brother."

Met by Deserted Wife.

A short time after Detective Kane entered the Central station with his prisoner Mrs. De Moleyns entered carrying her 17 months old daughter Viola. The wife and daughter were accompanied to the police station by Mrs. Jennie Allen, a sister. Mrs. De Moleyns lives at 496 Forty-seventh street. Since her husband deserted her she has been supporting herself and child.

Several detectives who saw the meeting between the husband and wife said from the actions of the two they would become reconciled.

Hopes to Secure Bail.

De Moleyns was indicted April 22, 1908, for wife and child abandonment. He will be transferred to Sheriff Strassheim's care today and will be held in the county jail unless he is able to provide bonds for his release. He claimed he had some wealthy friends who would assist him, and hoped to secure bail today.

According to his story De Moleyns came to America twenty years ago after he had served with the Egyptian cavalry of the English army under Lord Kitchener, who then was a major. After a time in New York he said he opened a private stable in Forty-seventh street, Chicago, and was married here in 1901 to his present wife, who was a widow.

DOG FINDS ROOSEVELT'S PEW BUT GETS LITTLE SYMPATHY.

Cur Wanders Into Church While President Is at Service, but He Doesn't Budge.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 21.—[Special.]—Immaculately clad in his white "purity" suit, President Roosevelt sat stiffly with his family in one of the front rows in St. John's Episcopal church at the morning service today and never blinked an eyelash from beginning to end.

It was a magnificent exhibition of self-control under circumstances which easily might have upset the presidential poise. The morning service had reached the sermon stage when there was a stir at the back of the church and a little wave of unrest and shuffling that rolled forward from row to row.

Dr. Washburn looked over his congregation rebukingly, then he said mildly:

"I must pause here to repeat a request that I have made more than once before. It is that members of the congregation do not bring their dogs to church."

That's what it was, a dog—a little black dog of no particular pedigree—and he sat in the aisle at the president's feet looking up into his face and wig wagging greeting with his tail. The president never budged, even while sextons wrestled with the dog at his feet.

JOHN D.'S PASTOR SCORES THE RICH

Who Has the Right to Luxury While So Many Starve in Sight of Plenty?

DEEM DOLLAR PILING SIN.

Imported Fifth Avenue Preacher Says Things That May Make Oil King Think.

Chautauqua, N. Y., July 21.—[Special.]—"What right have we to luxury while others starve in sight of plenty?" asked the Rev. C. F. Aked, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church of New York, John D. Rockefeller's church, in his sermon before 10,000 people at the Chautauqua assembly today.

"What of our myriads of brethren, pent up in mean streets, prisoners of counting house and shop, slaves of mill and mine, poor and heavy laden of every nameless class?" he asked. "Christianity cannot rest while such mortals live, disfranchised of their right to rest and happiness. While such poverty remains, while such evil conditions sadden and appall us, what right have we to our holidays, our happiness?

Play the Selfish Life.

"Can we sit at our feast blindfolded or dare we open our eyes? What right have we to any feast while our brothers starve in sight plenty? None. Our lives are wrong. If we are living for ourselves, thinking, planning, toiling, accumulating, enjoying, for ourselves."

Conventionality in worship was denounced roundly by Dr. Aked.

"Let us have done with the solemn hypocrisies of conventional worship," he said. "There is no virtue in misery. Melancholy is not righteousness. We shall not go to heaven for our tears or to hell for our smiles."

Americans Living Too Fast.

"The American people are living a faster life than any people ever lived before. There has been no day in the history of the world when the counsel, 'Come ye to yourselves apart and rest awhile,' was needed more than today.

"We live too fast. We live faster than people have ever lived before. We live more than twenty-four hours in the day and more than seven days in the week. We burn the candle at both ends, for fear our neighbors should get ahead of us; we light it in the middle, too. We are consumed by the fever of living. We exhaust our vital energy in stress and strain.

"Even our holidays, many of them, are senseless, foolish, and vulgar. We come out of them worn and exhausted. The great majority of us are as capable of flying as thinking."

Conventionality of worship was also scored by the New York preacher.

"Let us have done with these solemn hypocrisies of conventional worship," he said. "There is no virtue in misery. Melancholy is not righteousness. We shall not go to heaven for our tears or to hell for our smiles."

VOLIVA TO REMAIN IN ZION.

Announces That He Has Abandoned His Plan to Go Elsewhere and Establish a Community.

Closing his feast of tabernacles at Zion City yesterday, Overseer Wilbur G. Voliva announced that all plans for removal from the city Dowie founded and the establishment of a new community for his followers had been abandoned.

"I shall stick to Zion City," he said. "I believe God wants me to stay here."

Voliva announced also that he would establish a great industrial school, utilizing 500 acres of land which Receiver Hately has been attempting to sell. A massmeeting of all investors has been called by Voliva for Wednesday evening to get an expression of opinion as to the policy of the receiver.

The rival feast of tabernacles, conducted by Deacon Lewis, Dowie's designated successor, terminated with special services.

LARGEST 2 CENT CIRCULATION IN THE WORLD.

MONDAY, JULY 22, 1907.

The Duties of a Picnicker. Picnicking is a pastime that never goes out of fashion. Other and more violent out of door joys have their day and go their way, but as long as people like to eat and to be in the open air the happy combination of the two joys that picnics afford will always be popular. But, as William Morris long ago pointed out to the British workmen, there are certain duties devolving upon the person who eats out of doors, and one of these is that he should leave no evil traces of his gustatory delights behind him. A picnic at a certain stage in its development, when the covers are laid for individuals and for insects, is an edifying sight, but too frequently the wayfarer who happens upon the scene a few hours later finds the edibles without the edification. It is not impossible for the out of door diner to cover up the traces of his gastronomical pleasures and he should feel that he owes it to the landscape as well as to possible and prospective enjoyers of this landscape not to mar the beauty of the place by any material reminder of the fact that men must eat in order to live.

LIGHTER OPERA.

One of the two competing operatic impresarios in New York has just returned from Europe and made public his schedule of performances for next season. It is interesting to note in this connection that in addition to a reasonable number of "grand" and Wagner operas he will produce operas by Breton, a Spanish composer, Charpentier, Massenet, and other opera comique composers, also one of the Offenbach bouffe works, as well as one by Victor Herbert.

This announcement has a certain significance. The same impresario last season ventured a step in the direction of light opera and evidently was so encouraged that he now proposes to venture several steps farther.

And why not? There is a great store of most excellent light operas which has not been drawn on by the managers. The French, German, Bohemian, and Slavic repertories are full of them. They have engaging stories, graceful, tuneful melodies, and offer ample opportunities for spectacular display. Both the opera comique and opera bouffe are rich in material for the stage, which can be produced without in the least lowering the standard of operatic performance. If they could be given a hearing at the hands of competent troupes they would soon become favorites and take their places among the standard works, just as they did half a century ago—and, what is greatly to be desired, they would soon relegate the present musical comedies to the limbo of dead music.

THE SIGNBOARD.

England and New York have made progress this summer toward the abolition of signboards. The house of commons has passed an act permitting local authorities to prevent the disfiguring of the landscape by advertising, and in New York an ordinance of the city of Buffalo prohibiting the erection of billboards above seven feet in height has been upheld by the United States District court.

The court holds that there is no constitutional right to use property so that it will become a nuisance to the general public. The courts in Illinois have repeatedly upheld ordinances which forbid offending the senses of hearing and smell. There is precedent for the constitutionality of an ordinance protecting the sense of sight. A boiler factory or a livery stable in a residence block may be no more offensive than a billboard. It may be a difficult and delicate matter to decide just when a sign painted on a house, barn, billboard, or other private property is a nuisance, but that question may be safely left to a jury when once the principle is recognized that if it is a nuisance it may be suppressed. The present Illinois statute permits the painting of signs upon rocks and other natural objects if the consent of the owner is obtained. Signs painted on rocks are always a nuisance and a defacement of the landscape, even more than billboards, and a law absolutely prohibiting such use of land would not be in conflict with constitutional guarantees of the right of private property. There are many laws and ordinances restricting the use of land or buildings and holding the owner responsible for violations of the law. If the decision of the District court in the Buffalo case is supported by the Supreme court legislatures will be encouraged to pass more restrictive laws.

The English law referred to allows two years for the removal of objectionable signboards and the like. If signboards produce anything like the financial returns which their perpetrators expect they will more than pay for themselves in the two years allowed, and the owner is thus compensated fully for the money expended upon them. It is stated, however, by experienced advertisers that at best any such form of advertising is an expensive substitute for the publicity to be obtained through well chosen periodicals, daily, weekly, or monthly, while at the worst it may be a positive injury to sales.

In Switzerland this offensive form of advertising has been fought effectually by a boycott of all goods so advertised. In other countries where the scenery is not so much of an asset the matter is not taken so seriously, but in no place can the profit of the maker of the goods advertised be great enough to warrant the continuance of a practice so offensive to good taste.

COTTON THREAD.

If street car fares were to be jumped to 7 cents and then to 10 cents the entire community would be up in arms. If the price of the glass of beer were to be advanced thus there would be wild indignation among the beer drinkers. To the woman 5 cents is as much the natural price of a spool of cotton thread as to a man 5 cents is of a glass of beer. The price of thread, raised a short time ago to 7 cents a spool, has been put up to 10 cents. Will the women of the country submit uncomplainingly, or will they call upon the men to join with them in demanding a return to the old price?

There are women who will protest against the advance in price not because they will feel it but "as a matter of principle." There are other women who will be hard hit. The garment workers who buy their own thread will earn a few cents less a week. That will be no trivial matter, for their earnings are scanty enough at the best. With them every cent counts. When the coin which used to buy two spools of thread buys only one they feel it keenly. Their finances are disarranged.

Raw cotton costs more than it did a few years ago. There have been recent advances in the wages of the cotton spinners. But as an offset there have been improved processes of manufacture and a rapid increase in the volume of sales. Whatever net increase there may have been in the cost of production is not enough to justify a 100 per cent advance in price. There would be no such advance if there were any real competition in the manufacture of cotton thread. The industry is practically monopolized by one great concern, and it is utilizing its monopoly for the oppression of poverty stricken sewing women.

The women of the country do not take a deep interest in the prosecution of railroads which pay rebates or of such industrial concerns as the tobacco trust. If the government were to attack the cotton thread monopoly they would all sing the praises of the department of justice.

Perhaps they will be gratified. It was reported recently that the law officers of the government had started a preliminary inquiry into the affairs of the American Thread company with an eye to beginning legal proceedings. It is generally believed that while the company bears an American name it is controlled by foreigners. The Coatses and Clarks, who are British manufacturers of cotton thread, are understood to dominate the affairs of the English Sewing Cotton company, which in turn controls the American Thread company. It is not pleasing to be dictated to by a domestic trust. It is even less so when an alien trust exploits American consumers.

There is nothing to justify the recent sharp advances in the price of spool cotton. They are made only on the principle of charging all that the traffic will bear. The trust believes the consumers can pay 10 cents a spool and the intention is to make them pay it.

THE AMERICAN ARMY.

A few words by an army officer have attracted considerable attention of late. What he had in mind when he said, "There is something wrong with the army," is not clearly apparent. But the words have furnished the text for a good deal of discussion. It seems to be a constant problem how to get men into the army and how to keep them after they have once enlisted.

The ornamental poster which is displayed in government buildings and in other conspicuous places shows a group of officers and men in fine uniforms, apparently living an enjoyable sort of life. It may have influenced some to enlist, but complaints are heard that the ideal and the real are by no means identical. The pay of the private is said to be too low and that of officers inadequate. A captain's salary is less than the amount received by a California plumber or house mechanic. The handsome uniform of the picture poster is not so often seen as are overalls and jumpers, which are needed for the hard mechanical work which has to be done.

Instead of heroic charges against the enemy there are long and tiresome practice marches on short rations under the hot summer sun. If a young man is attracted by a neat uniform he can wear it in the navy with a much pleasanter life than that of the soldier. The result of all these influences is seen in the increasing difficulty of keeping the army anywhere near to its legal complement of men.

The principal complaint seems to be that the pay is inadequate. The minimum figure is the historic "$13 a month." Wages everywhere are so high that good men hesitate to enter the army. Those who do join decline to reënlist when their terms expire. The only thing to do, so the army men declare, is to raise the pay.

There is another side to the case. The minimum wage appears to be small. But it carries with it a home where room and board are provided. The pay increases slightly with each reënlistment. There are no periods of idleness when the pay stops. There is no anxiety regarding means of livelihood. There is provision for care in time of sickness. There is provision for retirement after a certain period of active service with an allowance sufficient to keep one in comparative comfort in the later years of life. If there is some hard and disagreeable work at times, the average man has to endure the same thing. From such a point of view the army life is not so unhappy an existence after all.

These features of the case may appeal to the ordinary private. But an ambitious man who gets technical training in special service, such as that of the signal corps, soon finds that he can command much higher wages from private parties because of the skill acquired in the government employ. The result is refusal to reënlist. There is something the matter with the army. An investigation is being made to find out what it is. It may be a matter of wages. It may be that army life is not popular in America, where the majority of people seldom see a soldier or feel his need. At any rate, the facts seem to show that those in charge of this arm of government service are finding increasing difficulty in securing acceptable recruits. Army life, when there is fighting going on, is one thing. Army life in piping times of peace is a different proposition.

TEXAS AND INSURANCE.

The new Texas law requiring insurance companies doing business in that state to deposit in Texas 75 per cent of the reserves on Texas business does not meet with the approval of twenty-one large companies. These companies withdrew from business there on July 12, the day on which the new law went into effect. The ground for objecting to the law is that increased taxes, amounting virtually to double taxation, destroy the profits of a company complying with the law. The companies pay now a tax of 1 per cent on gross receipts in the state of Texas. Securities deposited within the state would be subject to a combined state, county, and city tax amounting to .27 per cent, while the companies claim that they are already paying taxes on those securities in their home states.

The withdrawal of the companies means many hardships for Texas policy holders. Payments of premiums must be made by mail to an agent in New Orleans. Examinations for reinstatement after the lapse of a policy must be made outside the state. In the case of a dispute over the payment of a policy it would be necessary to transport witnesses to a distance and conduct a lawsuit at long range. Policy holders wishing to borrow money on their policies are required to apply at the home office in New York or wherever it may be. Other persons desiring loans on mortgage or other securities also find no representative of the companies with whom to do business in Texas. The only official representative of any kind is one lawyer authorized to accept service in the case of suits. Many of the poorer or more ignorant policy holders have already lost money through misunderstanding the situation and allowing their policies to lapse or assigning them at a heavy discount.

The companies, of course, hope to bring about a repeal of the law through the general dissatisfaction which will follow their withdrawal from the state. In a test of endurance they probably can stand it as long as the state can. Yet it seems that somebody, through obstinacy, is throwing money away. If the conditions imposed by the legislature are actually unendurable, there is no other course open to the companies, and they are not to be blamed. If, on the other hand, the law merely cuts down to a small extent the profits of the companies with a view to securing more revenue to the state and exercising greater watchfulness over these trustees of the money of Texas citizens, the companies are injuring themselves as well as their policy holders by withdrawing. The whole situation is an argument for the national regulation of insurance companies.

There are still some companies doing business in Texas. It is likely that their business will increase greatly in the immediate future. The experience of the next two or three years will determine whether the remaining companies can thrive under the new law. Then it will be clearly known which side has injured itself through obstinacy and spite, the state of Texas or the twenty-one companies.

The Reason.

"When I was a girl," said grandma,
"We never went bathing with men
At the ocean shore, for girls were more Modest and maidenly then.

"And our bathing skirts came to our ankles,
And none was so bold as to wear
The sort of gown that is cut 'way down,
With the neck and the shoulders bare."

"When you were a girl," said Polly,
"If you never went bathing with men,
For that sort of dress there's excuse, I confess—
What use was the short skirt then?"

Upon his accession to the throne of Norway King Haakon VII. was appointed colonel-in-chief of a certain Scotch regiment. While dressing for parade duty an enthusiastic subaltern was communicating this information to a fellow soldier:

"McDonald," said he, "have you heard that the new king of Norway has been appointed colonel of the regiment?"

"Indeed?" queried the Scot. "That's a verra fine thing now! But will he be able to keep both jobs?"—Harper's Weekly.

THE SHEPHERDESS.

[Archibald Sullivan in Smart Set.]

If I could choose my path of life
From out this world of tangled ways,
I think I'd sooner live and tend
A little flock of all the days.

Upon the bluest hills that are
The fairy hills of Dreams Come True,
I, shepherdess, would tend the flock,
My bread a rose, my cup the dew.

And all the timid days of May,
The blustering days of winter weather,
The burning days of August time
Would wander wide with me together.

And ere the sun made silver lace
Upon the pillow of the sky,
I'd call a little day to me,
And kiss its mouth—and say, "Good-by."

And to the world that lay so far
Away from those my pastures blue,
Each morn I'd send another one
From those dear hills of Dreams Come True.

And as the weeks crept slowly by,
And as the months went drifting on,
I, shepherdess, upon the hills,
Would find my flock was nearly gone.

And then when there were fewer still—
Perhaps just only two or three—
My ravished flock upon the hills
Would be exceeding dear to me.

When one December day was left,
A little day of grief and snow,
I'd place my kiss upon its brow,
My last farewell—and bid it go.

Then would I quietly creep away
Behind the sunset's amber rays,
To dream how I had tended well
My little flock of all the days.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1907: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LORD CURZON, whose engagement to Miss Mary Curzon has just been announced, is not the former viceroy of India, but the only son and heir of Earl Howe, while his fiancée, who made her début last year, is a cousin, being a daughter of Col. the Hon. Montague Curzon, half brother of the late earl.

Lord Howe has been exceedingly anxious that his son should wed early. For, in the event of his dying unmarried, and of the earl himself, now a widower, contracting another matrimonial alliance, the family honors and the extensive estates would eventually pass to the now 10 year old Chambré Curzon, son of Lord Howe's only brother, the Hon. Frederick Curzon, by his marriage with Miss Ellis Jeffreys, the actress, who is almost as well known on this side of the Atlantic as in London.

This union has been severed by a divorce, and the boy is being brought up by his mother, to whom his guardianship was awarded by the courts, and to whom the Curzon family feels bitterly.

Lord Howe is sometimes described as the chief of the house of Curzon. This is not the case. The head of the family is the venerable Lord Scarsdale, father of the former viceroy of India.

The Curzons are descended from a Norman knight of the name of Giraline de Curzon, who received a number of manors in Oxfordshire and Berkshire from William the Conqueror, and who founded three lines—namely: the Curzons of Croxhall, the Curzons of Kedleston, and the Curzons of Waterperry.

The Curzons of Croxhall became merged into the house of Sackville through the marriage of Mary Curzon, last survivor of the Croxhall line, to Edward Sackville, earl of Dorset. The Curzons of Waterperry are extinct.

But the Curzons of Kedleston still exist, being able to trace back the descent of their family in an unbroken male line to the founder of the house. The head of the Kedleston branch in the reign of Henry VI. was John Curzon, high sheriff of Nottingham and of Derby, and surnamed "John with the White Head."

King Charles I. conferred a baronetcy on the Curzon of Kedleston of his day, and the second baronet, Sir Nathaniel Curzon, married Sarah, daughter of William Penn of Penn house, Buckinghamshire, and heiress of the latter, and through her Penn house passed into the possession of the Curzons, and is today one of the country seats of Lord Howe. Within the limits of its park is the old Quaker burial ground called the Jordans, in which repose the ashes of William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania. The fourth baronet, Nathaniel Curzon of Kedleston, had two sons, the elder of whom, Nathaniel, was elevated to the peerage as Lord Scarsdale, while the younger, Assheton, was created Lord Curzon in 1802. Lord Curzon's son married Sophia, Baroness Howe, daughter and heiress of the famous Admiral Lord Howe, and niece of the two generals of the same name, one of whom fell at the battle of Ticonderoga, while the other was commander-in-chief of the British forces in America at the time of the declaration of independence. The son of this lady by her marriage with Lord Curzon's son became Viscount Curzon through the death of his paternal grandfather, and Lord Howe through his mother, being subsequently advanced to the dignity of Earl Howe.

The famous Admiral Lord Howe, known throughout the navy by the name of "Black Dick," on account of his swarthy complexion, and his two brothers, the English generals of the American war of independence above mentioned, were reputed grandsons of King George I. and of that Hanoverian countess, Kilmansegg, who was created by that sovereign countess of Darlington, and of whom Thomas Carlyle gives such an unflattering description.

The countess of Kilmansegg's daughter, Mary, married the second Lord Howe, and thus became the mother of "Black Dick" and of his brothers.

The present Lord Howe is not only a close friend of the king and queen but likewise lord chamberlain of the latter, and has been connected with the royal household for a number of years. His wife, who died last year, was a sister of the late duke of Marlborough and of Lord Randolph Churchill, and was one of the most famous four-in-hand whips in the united kingdom.

Gopsall house, the principal country seat of Lord Howe in Leicestershire, belonged to the Curzon family in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, but then passed out of their possession, and had a number of owners during the subsequent 300 or 400 years, until it was acquired in the eighteenth century by a great ironmaster of the name of Jennens or Jennings, hailing from Birmingham.

It was Charles Jennings who built the present mansion, about 160 years ago, with a frontage of over 200 feet, and he was the friend and patron of Handel, who spent much of his time at Gopsall, where he wrote the "Messiah" and "Israel in Egypt," many of his original scores being preserved there in the library.

Charles Jennings died without issue and without leaving any will. It seems that a few days before his death, at the age of 97, he went down to his lawyer's office for the particular purpose of signing his will, but on reaching there found that he had left his spectacles at home, and so put off the matter until a later date, being meanwhile overtaken by the grim destroyer.

His entire property went, in consequence thereof, to his niece Esther, daughter of his only sister, Elizabeth, and of her husband, William Hanmer of Flintshire. Esther Hanmer married the first Lord Curzon, and that is how his lineal descendant, the present Lord Howe, is master of Gopsall and of all the great Jennings fortune today.

It is hardly necessary for me to add that the Curzon earls of Howe have not been allowed to remain in undisturbed possession of the Jennings fortune. It has formed the subject of repeated and prolonged legal proceedings that are stated to have furnished to Charles Dickens the inspiration for his "Jarndyce versus Jarndyce" in "Bleak House."

The courts ultimately decided in favor of the earls of Howe, and confirmed them in the possession of the Jennings estate. But, in spite of this, people are constantly cropping up who imagine that they have a claim to the fortune, and there is no knowing how many credulous people of the name of Jennings in this country blessed with an ancestor of the name of Jennings have been induced to part with good American dollars for the alleged purpose of enabling more or less honest lawyers to prosecute mythical claims to the Jennings estate. This, too, in spite of the fact that the statute of limitations, which, of course, runs from the death of Charles Jennings in 1798, has long since rendered any proceedings for the recovery of the property entirely useless, even if the pretensions were well founded.

The last time that the matter came actually into court was about twelve years ago, when a man of the name of George Willis undertook to prove that the first Earl Howe of the present creation, that is to say, the grandfather of the present earl, was not really a son of Lord Curzon and of his wife, Esther Hanmer, niece of old Charles Jennings, but a supposititious child, the illegitimate offspring of a maidservant of the name of Anne Oates, and who had been passed off by Lady Curson as her son after the death of her eldest boy, George Augustus.

The case of Mr. Willis was thrown out of court not only on the ground of the statute of limitations and his inability to furnish adequate legal proof of his story, but also in consequence of its being discovered that he was an undischarged bankrupt, and could not sue save with the coöperation and sanction of the trustee of his bankruptcy, who absolutely declined to move in the matter.

Fortunately, Lord Howe is rich. For there is no knowing how much money he and his father, his uncle, and his grandfather before him have spent in resisting claims to the Jennings estates. And it will scarcely be believed that, in spite of all that has passed, few weeks go by without the earl receiving demands in writing for the surrender either in part or in entirety of the Jennings property, a majority of these communications coming from America.

Stung!

"Let me kiss those tears away!" he begged, tenderly.

She fell for it, and he was busy for the next fifteen minutes. And yet the tears flowed on.

"Can nothing stop them?" he asked, breathlessly sad.

ABBE LAUDS CHRISTIAN UNITY

Felix Klein of Paris Speaks at the University of Chicago.

WORLD'S HOPE IN AMERICA.

Energy, Optimism, and Liberty Seen in Western Civilization.

Abbé Felix Klein, instructor in literature in the Catholic institute at Paris and one of the leading churchmen of Europe, delivered his first address in America yesterday, speaking to 2,000 persons in Mandel hall, at the University of Chicago. The subject of his sermon was "The Common Creed of Christendom."

"We who are Christians can come together whatever the differences are that separate us," he said. "We do not deny that these differences exist, and so our friendship is not based upon a misunderstanding. But we all know that these divergences of view do not prevent us from agreeing on many common points.

Summed Up in Apostles' Creed.

"We know that we have the same holy scriptures, and that our moral system, our ethics, is equally based on the decalogue and the gospel. And, above all, we know we can recite together, with one heart and one voice, the apostles' creed, that sublime and simple summary of Christian doctrine.

"What a joy it is, in spite of so much lamentable separation, for us to be able to make our common profession of faith in the same terms as did our fathers nineteen centuries ago. Not only stronger, but more durable, has been this creed of ours than the Roman empire.

"At the end of the middle ages the creed reigned over all Europe, and bold missionaries were zealous to carry it to all the known world. There came a day, one of the most beautiful days which God has destined for the regeneration and development of mankind, the day when America was discovered. With marvelous rapidity she was civilized, she grew great, she reached or surpassed the greatest nations of the old world, and it is to her that, from the ends of the earth, men look for lessons in energy, optimism, and liberty.

"The world has been overrun in every direction by the Christian faith. But glorious as have been its conquests, its greatest glory lies in itself. All our dogmas led up to the one single affirmation and the one immense phenomenon, of which they are separately only phases or aspects. This phenomenon consists in the participation of the world with the life of God."

Lesson in Religious Parliament.

Recalling the parliament of religions held in Chicago in 1893, Abbe Klein said:

"The most striking lesson of that parliament for open minded men was not a lesson of skepticism, nor that absurd notion that one religion is as good as another in spite of their differences, or that they are all equally right in spite of their contradictions; but on the contrary it was that precious and consoling idea that all mankind, differing as it does in all its dealings with God, tends irresistibly towards relations with him in this world and union with him in the life to come."

Referring again to the apostles' creed, the speaker said:

"I pray that your faith in this admirable apostles' creed may grow and increase day by day—that creed which remains for us all, in spite of separation, the last and ineffaceable symbol of fraternity between all the disciples of Christ, the sacred banner of victories won and to be won over skepticism and incredulity, the pole star which guides our march towards our common fatherland, and which is so high in the heavens that it may be seen by all.

THE RAKING OF THE GREEN.

[From the Woman's Home Companion.]

Many years ago there was observed a unique custom in the little town of Guilford, Conn. On one day in the fall of the year the women of the town assembled on the village green. Each carried a wooden rake, decorated with her favorite color, and each was dressed in white, decked out with colored ribbons. It was a day of fête, and it was called "The Raking of the Green."

Then with song and laughter and with many a jest this band of women cleaned the village green of all the leaves and refuse and dirt of a year's accumulation. When the job was done they adjourned to the town hall, where they were joined by their husbands, and brothers, and the village fathers. A public banquet celebrated the occasion.

While this was not the first chartered village improvement association in the country, it was probably at that time the most enthusiastic, and had perhaps the largest attendance. New Haven, Conn., can rightly claim the first effort in village improvement, while Stockbridge, Mass., should be remembered as offering the second.

More than a hundred years ago James Hillhouse of New Haven, organized what he called the "Public Green association." He raised $1,500 for grading the green and for planting elms. One man is said to have donated five gallons of rum for this purpose. James Hillhouse was also United States senator for twenty years. Almost every one has forgotten what he did at Washington, but no one is ever likely to forget his services in making the city of New Haven classic by the beauty of nature's gothic architecture. The whole country owes him a debt of gratitude that can only be paid by planting elms in his memory.

Magnet Lifts Six Tons.

[From the Technical World Magazine.]

Electro-magnets are much used in connection with cranes and other conveyors for lifting heavy pieces of iron and steel. The Illinois Steel company has a magnet weighing 1,200 pounds which lifts six tons. In Belgium magnets are used to lift tons of hot metal in foundries and rolling mills.

The power of the electro-magnet is regulated by the switch controlling the current. The magnet is lowered to the object needed with the current turned off. When the switch is closed the magnet becomes active, holds the articles to be lifted while they are raised and transported to their destination. When they are lowered the switch is opened and the magnet immediately releases them. As the operator of the crane controls the action of the magnet through the switch, this one man can attend to all the details of transferring heavy metal objects. No assistant is needed to attach them to the conveyor or to release them when they reach their destination.

Another use to which the electro-magnet is put is in breaking old castings so that they may be melted and utilized. To accomplish this the magnet is made to lift and drop a steel bell weighing from one to six tons.

Walrus Whisker Toothpicks.

In the Chinatown of every city the grocers sell toothpicks made of walrus whiskers. These are excellent toothpicks, and in China no fashionable dinner is complete without a bundle of them.

From either side of the mouth of the walrus, whiskers, at once stiff and pliable, project. They are about four inches long and the older the walrus the stiffer and more elastic are these hairs and the better toothpicks they make.

When the Alaskans kill a walrus they pluck out the whiskers carefully with tweezers, and, bundling them up in neat packets, they ship them, when there are enough, to China.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Courage and Dandyism.

There still exists in many minds the ridiculous notion that the man cannot be manly who pays more than the ordinary amount of attention to the adornment of his body. Tribune building and boys at Room 2?? Tribune building.

Tickets will be mailed to children sending checks to THE TRIBUNE office covering the amount of tickets wanted.

According to the plan of giving commissions on the sale of tickets, a boy or girl may buy ten tickets for 80 cents. When these are sold for $1, at the rate of 10 cents each, the child will have capital enough on hand to buy another book of ten and a profit of 20 per cent on the first batch.

Prize Winners to Be Announced.

Even if a prize is not won, it should not be difficult for the ambitious child to make $1 or $2 a day, and at the same time know that he or she is contributing a share toward saving the lives of the sick babies of the tenements. The names of the winners of the daily prizes will be announced each day, together with the ranking of those competing for the general prizes.

In addition to winning prizes which are worth competing for the children who do not know what it means to be sick and have no one to care for them will have the chance to help save the lives of the babies of the tenements and outreach a helping hand to the suffering. In addition to helping the babies and winning a reward the children who sell tickets at 10 cents each will be selling the largest measure of fun ever put on the market for a dime, as extra attractions will be offered at every concession at White City on TRIBUNE Babies' day—Friday, Aug. 2.

BRITAIN'S M. O. CAR LINES BEHIND AMERICAN SYSTEM.

National Civic Federation's Experts Report Result of Investigations—One Upholds Theory of Municipalization.

New York, July 21.—The operation of British street railways by municipalities and privately owned corporations respectively is considered in great detail in two reviews of expert reports on the subject made to the National Civic Federation Commission on Public Ownership. The reviews are based upon technical reports compiled by expert engineers, who, with the reviewers, spent several months in the British cities, where the several lines are operated.

The reviews are by William J. Clark of New York, as an opponent of municipalization, and Prof. Frank Parsons of Boston, as an advocate of public ownership and operation.

Mr. Clark compares the tramways of Great Britain with the private enterprises of the United States, much to the advantage of the latter. He declares that the American traction systems under private ownership are more progressive than those of England, Scotland, and Ireland; that they give far better suburban service; that cars are less crowded and that lines are being extended with far greater rapidity.

This he attributes to the absence of restrictions in the United States as compared with Great Britain, where, he says, private traction enterprises are given franchises only on almost prohibitive terms. The difference of rate of fare in the two countries, Mr. Clark says, is more than offset by the great number of free transfers given by the American systems.

Prof. Parsons, on the other hand, expresses the opinion that municipal ownership of British tramway systems has been successful from every point of view.

The comparisons he makes are between British publicly owned and privately owned companies, and in this connection he declares that the British plants must be measured by British and not by American standards.

The conditions and habits of the people are different, he says, and these differences must be taken into account in the judgment of the management of tramways. Prof. Parsons also notes that in England the payment of a fare means that the passenger has a seat and not merely the right to transit.

Mr. Clark takes up the charge that the traction cars in the United States are overcrowded and declares that on the basis of passengers carried per car per year the American car averages only 93,585 passengers per year as against 182,463 per year carried by the average car in the united kingdom. While the Briton paid an average of 2.?? cents, against an average of 3.76 cents in the United States, the writer points out that the former's facilities for travel were from 12 to 15 per cent of those enjoyed by the American passenger.

From 1890 to 1902 the length of tramway line (not track) in the united kingdom increased 536 miles, or from 948 to 1,484 miles, while in the United States in the same period there was an increase of 10,755 miles, or from 5,783 to 16,538 miles. This great extension of service in the United States resulted in an actual decrease in the number of passengers carried per mile of line.

A comparison of rates of wages per hour paid by British municipal traction systems and by certain companies in New York state is made by Mr. Clark showing a range of from 7.2 to 15 cents per hour for conductors and from 8.4 to 15 cents per hour for motormen in Great Britain against 20 to 25 cents per hour for conductors and motormen in the state of New York.

BAND LEADS WAY TO CHURCH

Street Parade, with Music and Banners, Attracts Crowd.

ATHERED BY FAMILIAR HYMNS.

Man Who Haven't Attended Service for Years Follow the Throng.

The man who hadn't attended church for almost many years, not, in fact, since he came to Chicago from a small country town to seek a fortune, stood at the corner of North Clark and Division streets last night.

It was a warm night and he didn't know where to go. The park was tiresome and the gardens no longer attracted. Just then a brass band came east from Wells street. It was a band of thirty pieces and it was playing some familiar air. The man recognized a church hymn that he heard long, long ago, in the little white church on the hill with the lilac bushes around it.

Following the band was quite a parade. Men carried banners. On two sides of the middle horse he could read plainly the single word "Come."

Old and Young in Parade.

There may have been 250 persons in the parade. A good many young men, clerks perhaps in some of the big downtown stores, and the lives in the hot, uncomfortable boarding houses on the north side. Elderly men and women, too—motherly appearing women who somehow reminded the man of his own mother, down in a little Indiana town where the electric cars hadn't come yet. And young girls in white dresses. All marching along with earnest, happy faces. It made the man homesick.

"I felt kind of foolish for a minute," he said, "but I just joined in that procession. I went down as far as Washington square and then back to the Chicago Avenue church, and with it. Outside the church the band stopped and played a short time. Then a preacher began talking just like a barker at an amusement park to get the people in.

Barker Praises Services.

"'We want you in there,' he shouted. 'We don't want your money. We want you. The best choir in town! You'd pay 50 cents or $1 to hear one not any better downtown! Come in and hear the Rev. James M. Gray. Step up these stairs, people!'

"And he kept waving his arm the way they do out in front of the shows at the amusement parks, and he got the people in, too, among them.

"The choir was a good one. There were thirty men in it, mostly young men, though there were two old fellows with white hair were among them. About the same number of girls. It was a well trained choir and it sung several times. A tall man, inclined to be fat, preached and he suffered a good deal from the heat.

Text from Railway Signboard.

"The Rev. Mr. Gray took for his text—what do you think?—the sign at a railroad crossing: 'Railroad crossing. Stop; look; listen.' He talked about Moody church having held out the danger signal for a good many years, and how people came in there to be saved. It was one of those sermons that are easy to understand."

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

The women of the Evanston Country club are planning to give a garden party at the club grounds on July 30. The affair promises to be one of the most attractive of its kind given in Evanston and the work of making arrangements for the fête already has been begun. Mrs. Marshall M. Kirkman, chairman of the women's directorate, which has general charge of the affair, and Mrs. William Holabird is vice chairman. Committees will be named from the members of the club during the week.

The Waupansen club will give its annual garden party at Wildwood tomorrow. In the afternoon there will be games of all kinds, including the usual outdoor-indoor baseball game, "Bachelors vs. Benedicts." The evening will be devoted to dancing in the casino pavilion, to be followed by a trolley ride in specially chartered open cars.

The marriage is announced of Miss Irene Ogden Stevens and Mr. Charles Fayrer-Hickey, son of the late Maj. Robert Fayrer-Hickey of the One Hundred and First Bengal Fusiliers, India. The marriage took place at Grace Episcopal church on July 17. Mr. and Mrs. Fayrer-Hickey will reside in Chicago.

KISSING JAP BACK IN CITY; SAID TO HAVE SEEN FIANCEE.

Goichi Katata Silent About Mysterious Absence Which Alarmed Friends and Started Search by Police.

Goichi Katata, a Japanese merchant, living at 5406 Drexel avenue, whose sudden departure from Chicago on July 9 caused his friends alarm, returned to the city yesterday, but, so he said, been unaware of any mystery connected with his disappearance.

"I was greatly surprised to learn that the police were looking for me," he remarked. "But where I have been I don't think would be of any interest to the public. My disappearance for a while was strictly on account of my personal affairs, and had nothing to do with the public. I should like to ask you not to publish anything further about me. It is only my personal reputation greatly."

Friends of several Japs who room at 5406 Drexel avenue said Mr. Katata made a flying trip to San Francisco.

"He has a fiancée in Japan," it was explained. "We really supposed he went to see her, for he received frequent messages from her just before he left."

"We were greatly alarmed at Mr. Katata's disappearance," said Mrs. W. L. Beebe, the landlady. "He didn't even take any extra clothes with him, nor leave word with any one. He hasn't explained his absence, and I haven't asked him. He has a sweetheart in Japan, who, it is said, is coming to this country soon."

For Each Woman, According to Her Needs.

IN THE NURSERY

Remedy for Nervous Children.

Nervousness frequently is found in children and parents have no idea why this should be so. The brain grows rapidly during the first year, as much as all the rest of life. This fact alone makes it apparent that quiet surroundings are required. Infants who are naturally nervous should be left much alone, should see but few people, be played with little, and never should be quieted with soothing decoctions. Babies should not be played with until they are 4 months old. The less of it the better, for they are made nervous and irritable, sleep badly, and suffer in other respects. Much harm is done to infants by the use of calomel, paregoric, whisky, brandy, and other drugs and preparations given for temporary relief. This practice often results in incurable diseases or death. Few children need medicines, if they are cared for properly, but if medical attention is needed consult a physician and not the surrounding neighborhood.

MRS. W. H. WOODRUFF.

Amuse Baby on Rainy Day.

Materials—Some stiff paper or flexible cardboard; tissue paper, assorted colors; an old magazine from which to cut out "the pretty ladies;" a pot of paste; a brush and a pair of shears. Cut the stiff paper in pieces, about nine inches long, making them three and a half inches wide at one end and seven inches wide at the other. Paste the two bias edges together, forming a foundation skirt that will stand alone. After that the tissue paper may be cut and pasted on in any style to please the embryo modiste. A piece of pasteboard pasted on the back of a pretty lady after she has been cut off at the waist line will make her stand up straight and she may change her skirt as often as she chooses.

MRS. N. C. MITCHELL.

Oilcloth Bib.

Buy three-quarters yard of white oilcloth. This will make two bibs three-quarters of a yard long. Cut them like the front of a long sleeved apron. Bind the neck with white tape and place button and buttonhole on binding. Fasten around the child's neck, extend down into its lap, and lay over on the table. This will save the child's clothes, the tablecloth, and the carpet. The cost is 15 cents.

MRS. CORA C. HAMMOND.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

Prolong Life of Stockings.

When the knees become shabby from many darns, as they generally do before a hole appears in the feet, cut the stocking off just below the ankle. Shift the top part around so the front is in back, sew the parts together again with darning cotton. Do not lap the cut edges, but sew over and over loosely, darning to prevent ripping and raveling. When the stockings are put on again this seam comes below the shoe top, the darned places that used to be in the knee are wrinkled together in the hollow at the back of the leg, and the whole front of the stocking is practically new.

H. R.

Use for Old Stockings.

When the "grownups" wear out the feet of plain stockings, don't throw them away. Cut off the feet, put a buttonhole loop at the top, and you have a good, inexpensive pair of tights for the small maid.

G. W. W.

Dress Suit Bag.

Make a large oblong bag of black cambric, leaving it open at the bottom. Cut a hole in middle of the top to push suit hanger through.

MRS. C. S. GREENBAUM.

IN THE SHOPS

Lingerie Dresses.

The newest effect in lingerie dresses is the simple, straight skirt with broad tucks of graduated width extending almost the entire length of the skirt, the fullness of which is set in the waistband with deep, stitched plaits. The waists also are simple, with yokes, collars, and cuffs made of the material, finely tucked. The elaborate lace trimmed and hand embroidered and frilled lingerie gowns so popular last season are being superseded in the smart shops by the simple hand and machine tucked skirts and waists of equal simplicity.

Now That Tulle—

Is worn so much as the trimming foundation of a hat, and the damp air is so destructive to it, a milliner gives this bit of advice:

On coming in from the night air remove the hat and hold it over the lighted burner of the gas range. Great precaution should be observed to have the burner turned down as low as possible, holding the hat far enough from the flame to permit only of the warm air penetrating well through the tulle. When the tulle feels perfectly dry put the hat away, and the next time you go to get it you will be surprised to see instead of being faded and matted the material is as fresh as new.

New Ice Cream Freezer.

A new ice cream freezer is made with a fiber bucket and a metal can. There is no crank to turn and no dash to remove. Unlike most other freezers made in a similar manner, the cream, ice, and salt are put in and no repacking, remolding, or spooning is necessary. It is the simplest thing in the world making cream in one of these new freezers and proves a great labor and time saving device for the busy housekeeper. The freezers come in four sizes, ranging in price from $1.50 to $3.

Strawberry Huller.

This little arrangement is made on the principle of candy tongs, with depressions for the thumb and finger at the long ends. The hulls can be easily removed without staining the fingers or tearing or crushing the fruit. These hullers cost 5 cents.

Teddy Bear Brooches.

DAILY FASHION HINT.

In The Office

Working for "Whiter Years."

Through a trusted partner, a few years ago, we lost all of our money. It seemed as if bad luck followed us, and everything which my husband attempted failed. Still he was too proud to let me work, but I was too proud to do without what seemed necessities. So, while he was away working, much against the wishes of my mother-in-law, I took a position in a store. My brother-in-law, who considers it no disgrace for his wife to take boarders, came and told me I had disgraced the family. However, I kept my position, and by studying the customers and their calls was enabled to be of more than an everyday help to my employer, and my pay day envelopes have increased several times. I finally overcame the prejudice of my husband against wives working, and we are getting on, systematically laying aside a little each month for the whiter years to come. I am far happier and healthier than staying at home regretting the things of the past.

DEBBY DEE.

Clerks Often Help Purchaser.

My observations are different from those of the woman who writes that the department store clerk is generally foreign born. I have clerked in middle class and high class stores in Chicago and recall but one foreign born girl. She was English and came to this country when a child. I have never met a kinder or more refined girl. We worked together a year, and instead of insulting shabbily dressed customers she sympathized with them and assisted many a woman in making a wise purchase. If she could look into my room she would see on the wall a "genealogical record" of my family for the last 300 years. It has been that time since my ancestors first settled in America, so I believe I have the right to call myself an American, and think also that the majority of girls employed in stores are Americans.

G. R.

Run Houses on Outside Advice.

The scarcity of domestics is often due not only to the treatment they receive now, but principally in the past. Where you find one woman who minds her own affairs and runs her own household you would find the other nine being influenced by the advice of some woman who tries to run other homes as she has her own. I once took a position in a family of four. After I had been shown around and told as to what was expected of me, the lady added: "After your work is done your time is your own, to do as you like, and I would advise you to go out a little while every day for your health. Every one needs fresh air. I want you to do just as you would in your own home." I took the greatest interest in planning and keeping everything in order and without any orders from her, unless some special thing she would speak about. She acknowledged the house was run better and cheaper than when she had charge of it herself. I was happy, and while I had taken the position for a few months only to help earn a business education, I had almost decided to remain. Then all at once a woman who had noticed the privileges I had of going out or doing anything about the house I thought might please the household of my own accord, thought to give the little lady some advice as to how a domestic should be treated. As a result my freedom was gone. I would get orders every morning what should be done that day. I was to have to myself only one afternoon and one evening a week. This change decided me at once as to what business I would follow. The sooner women will learn not to let outsiders interfere in their household affairs the sooner they will have plenty and a better class of domestics.

N. Y.

In the Boudoir

Sunburnt Skin.

Wash the face carefully in sour milk or, better, in the whey of milk. It will leave the skin white and smooth, all burning will cease, and no ill-effects will be left from the day's outing.

M. M.

Rinse Out Soap.

All women with heavy heads of hair know how difficult it is to rinse the soap entirely out of their hair, for no matter how thoroughly they may try, there is generally a little left in, which often comes off on the comb several days afterwards. If after a good rinsing in three waters the juice of a lemon is added to the fourth and last water, having the bowl about half full of lukewarm water, you will find the hair will dry glossy, soft, and with absolutely no trace of soap left in it.

M. C. C.

For Brittle Finger Nails.

Melt equal parts of refined pitch and myrrh; mix while warm and spread on the finger nails at night. Remove in the morning with a little olive oil.

IN THE KITCHEN

Brick Cooks Meal.

Obtain a porous brick, saturate it with kerosene, place it in the stove, and light it. You will have enough fire to cook an ordinary meal without the use of coal.

AMELIA FRANK.

Inexpensive Lard.

Put four or five pounds of good beef fat in kettle with one-half pint of water. Render over slow fire. When scraps are light brown, drain off melted fat and allow it to cool. This is an excellent substitute for lard and makes the best of doughnuts.

MRS. J. B. MURDOCH.

"Can Top" Cutter.

Make a cutter from one pound baking powder can. Cut a few holes in the bottom and use the other end for a cutter to chop up potatoes, cold meats, or anything you wish to cut fine. It will chop them quicker than a chopping knife.

MRS. O. J. ASHLEY.

Dish Wipers.

Cut table oilcloth in lengths desired for dish wipers. Place in boiling lye water, with a little soap to remove oil. Thoroughly rinse and bleach. These make excellent cloths for wipers, as they leave no lint.

MRS. M. KINGSLEY.

RENOVATING AND CLEANING

Carpet Renovater.

Eight ounces ammonia, one-half ounce ether, one-half ounce choleform, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon alum, 3 bars white soap; dissolve in two gallons of hot water. Use three cups to one pail of warm water. When using shake well and use foam with white bristle brush. Leave your windows open and your carpets will dry in twenty minutes.

MARY TYTHCOTT.

Tea Freshens Black Lace.

Make some green tea. When it is boiling hot, hold the lace over it until it is completely steamed, pulling it out with the hand during the process. When completed, iron out between two newspapers.

FANNIE CLATON.

All Around the House

Reduce the Ice Bill.

First, do not make the mistake of buying a small piece of ice every day, instead of filling the ice chamber two or three times a week. The small piece of ice does not reduce the temperature sufficiently, and the result is that each new piece melts rapidly and the food does not keep well. Do not try to economize by wrapping the ice in cloth or paper. This is all right to preserve the ice, but it will not cool the refrigerator. Do not place warm foods in the refrigerator, for by so doing the temperature is raised and a vapor produced which is bad for both food and refrigerator.

ALLIE M. BERRYMAN.

Soap Scraps.

Take a baking powder can and perforate the lid with small holes. Place soap inside, and when wanted for use put in a little hot water and shake through dish or scrubbing water.

NELLIE F. LOVELESS.

Useful Cretonne Bag.

A dainty cretonne bag made on the shoe box principle but with an overhanging flap stitched above each row of pockets and hung on the least conspicuous side of the dresser is useful in stowing away toilet accessories. Into the pockets can be slipped one's brushes and combs, the bottles and jars containing lotions and creams, and small boxes. A candy box is excellent for holding side combs, hairpins, curlers, and the thousand and one little essentials of the toilet.

M. F. PORMELIN.

In the Laundry

White Fur Robe.

Place robe in tub of warm water, washing with the hands and plenty of common laundry soap. Wring out with the hands, and after thoroughly rinsing hang on line in sun to dry, often running the fingers through the fur.

MRS. A. W. CROSSMAN.

Towel Line.

Stretch a small line on the back porch for tea towels; pin them on the line with toy clothespins, as they hold better than the larger pins.

H. H. H.

Washing Colored Goods.

Use borax instead of soap in washing blankets. It will help to keep the softness and brightness of the colored stripes. New calicoes and stockings should be allowed to lie in salt water for an hour before the first wash to set colors.

L. J. McKEE.

Keep Drying Clothes Clean.

Cut strips of white goods about five inches wide and sew them together as you would a white bandage until it is the required length. Put on the line when hanging up the clothes and when they are dry take off and roll up.

MARY GOLDMAN.

Silverware Kept from Tarnishing.

Put a piece of gum camphor in the trunk, chest, or drawer where the silver is kept.

C. M. B.

Use Toy Iron.

If one uses a large toy iron infants' dress yokes will look better and will not be damaged as when ironed with those commonly used.

MRS. SIDNEY BRIGGS.

Dampening Clothes.

Use a clean whisk broom. This will dampen the clothes evenly, all over, and make the weekly ironing a much easier task.

MRS. SWENSON.

TESTED RECIPES

Cream Pie.

Pint of rich cream in double boiler and let come to a boiling point. Remove from stove, take two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and mix with two tablespoons of flour. Put this with the cream in the boiler, beat two eggs light, with two tablespoons of sugar. Add this to the contents in boiler; remove from fire and let cool; flavor with vanilla and pour in a lower crust. Whip one-half pint of rich cream and cover the top of your pie.

MRS. J. A. MCQUISTON.

Orange Pudding.

One pint of flour, one tablespoonful of lard, one saltspoon of salt, sufficient water to make it stick together, three oranges sliced and peeled; sprinkle liberally with sugar. Scatter a teaspoonful of grated rind on it, roll, put it in a well floured bag or cloth, fastening the ends. Boil two hours, serve with lemon sauce.

MRS. C. VINTON HENRY.

Creamed Chicken.

Boil one chicken until it falls from bones; chop and season to taste. Add enough milk to liquor left to make one quart; thicken with one tablespoon of flour. Mix with chicken; put in pan; sprinkle with bread crumbs and bits of butter. Bake one-half hour.

MARION BLANCHARD.

Peach Short Cake.

Take fresh ripe peaches, peel and mash fine; add sugar to taste. Take for the cake one pint of flour, one tablespoon lard, two teaspoons of baking powder, and water to make a nice dough. Roll out thin and cut with biscuit cutter. Open and spread with peaches.

BELLE PRESTON.

Rhubarb Jelly.

Wash and cook rhubarb until tender, adding enough water to keep from burning. Strain through cheese cloth; add one cup of sugar to every cup of juice; add the juice of one lemon to every quart; boil twenty minutes.

MRS. H. H. MILLER.

Popcorn with Soup.

Instead of serving crackers with soup, use popcorn. It gives the soup a delicate flavor and does not get pasty like crackers. This looks attractive, which makes it more appetizing.

HATTIE V. READ.

Beef Tenderloin and Bananas.

Cut beef tenderloin into pieces, two and one-half inches thick; broil and season. Have gravy ready made as follows: One tablespoonful of butter; two tablespoonfuls of flour; one cup of milk; one-half teaspoonful of salt; one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper; one heaping tablespoonful of horseradish; boil and strain. Fry in two tablespoons of olive oil two large firm bananas cut lengthwise; be careful not to break. Pour one-quarter of a cup of sherry in and baste over bananas. Place two halves over each piece of meat on platter and pour gravy around.

MRS. M. L. GRIST.

Pie Crust.

To make pie crust light, flaky, and digestible, wet it up with buttermilk, into which a little soda has been stirred. You can use less lard and still have nice, rich crust which is appetizing.

MRS. FOLLETT.

Cooking Vegetables.

Drop a small piece of butter on top of the water, but do not stir in; let remain on the surface.

BESSIE STUART.

Crabapple Jelly.

When making crabapple jelly and the apples are a little too ripe or sweet, add to two quarts of juice three tablespoons of best cider vinegar and cook from ten to twenty minutes.

When a Woman Travels

The proper care of the hair in traveling is a serious problem to a woman. Fortunately there are few hotels today of any standing that are not equipped with electric light, so that the electric curling iron is a valuable accessory to a woman's traveling outfit. The heater is simple and compact and is easily attached to a socket in hotel room or even sleeper. The cleanliness of the electric curling iron as compared with the old method is alone sufficient to recommend it. The current consumed in using it is a trifle. For full particulars call Main 1280. BY SY.

After losing their fifth straight game and submitting docilely to a third consecutively superimposed coat of whitewash in the opening half of yesterday's double bill with Boston, the White Sox had a little new blood injected into their crippled and exhausted ranks in the person of James Henry Hart, more familiarly known as "Hub." With that they won the second game, putting the brakes on the parachute. The score of the defeat was 3 to 0 backward and of the victory 4 to 2.

Manager Jones sent Walsh and the expectoration ball against the enemy in the first battle, hoping to break the string of defeats, but there was nothing doing in the break line. Walsh was treated without respect by the Pilgrims, but at that would have won his game if the Sox had made as many runs as they did in the second encounter. Instead, they were helpless in the face of Winter's pitching and phenomenal support. They made something like a dozen hits, but only six of them got into the score book, because the enemy pinched the rest of them. The visitors obtained ten off Walsh, but had to have considerable assistance to make three runs with them.

"Hub" Hart Gets Into Action.

A prominent factor in the runmaking of the first game was the way the Pilgrims were able to run bases on account of Billy Sullivan's inability to make his lame back put any steam into his throws. With McFarland's arm in bad shape, too, Manager Jones elected to let the old Georgetown battery work together once more and sent White and Hart into the fray for the second half.

This must have smashed the hoodoo, for the Sox turned the tables and won a battle in which they were outhit, but not outfielded, three errors in the first inning giving them the four runs that won.

Hart not only proved a mascot but pulled off the pluckiest circus catch seen on those grounds in weeks. It was on a foul fly in the fourth inning. "Hub" did not locate it for an instant, then, starting late, dashed back almost to the visitors' bench. He could not get to the ball, so dove forward, shoved his hands under it and plowed up a couple of yards of Comiskey's tanbark with his nose, elbows, and knees—but he held the ball. While the fans and the players of both teams were applauding this feat, Hart had to retire to the bench and wash his face before he could see through the layer of dirt accumulated during his slide.

Double Plays a Feature.

Both games were prolific of double plays, the visitors making four and the Sox five. Some of them were entirely original and all disastrous to runs. The enemy made one combination in which two runners were cut off at the plate in the same continuous play. The Sox made one in which both the base runner and the batter were retired on a perfect sacrifice hit, Donohue shooting the ball to Davis and getting the runner after he had retired the bunter.

Congalton's batting was a feature, as he made five consecutive hits, three of them and a base on balls in the first half and two on his first two appearances at the plate in the second half.

The Pilgrims performed most of their porch climbing feats in the first game. In the opening round Jones singled with one out, then Donohue swatted a liner, which Ferris copped, doubling up the manager. Isbell opened the second with a clean rap, but was forced by Dougherty. Then Wagner tore back and stole a Texas leaguer from Rohe.

Pilgrims Win in Third.

The visitors won the game in the third. Winter perished on a pop bunt to Quillin. Barrett singled and stole second. Denny Sullivan singled to center, but Jones held back the run only to have a passed ball let it in. Congalton put in his second single, scoring Sullivan. But Quillin tagged Congalton out on Unglaub's rap and Ferris lined to Dougherty.

Boston's third run came in the fifth as the product of a base on balls to Denny Sullivan, his steal, Congalton's third hit, and Quillin's fumble of Unglaub's grounder. A double play by Isbell stopped the round and as Walsh allowed only two more hits in that game, the scoring ceased.

Chicago's best chance to score came in the eighth, when Rohe led with a two baser to right. Manager Jones put fresh batters into the game here, but after Hart, batting for Sullivan, had walked, Davis, who replaced Quillin, popped a fly, and Walsh, batting for himself, slugged into a double play which caused the rooters to throw away their score cards in disgust and wait for the next game.

Wagner a Real Robber.

Wagner robbed Hahn shamefully in the ninth by a one handed stab, which probably changed the complexion of things, for, after Jones was retired, Donohue cut loose a two bagger and Isbell poled a long one which Congalton just managed to pull down. Score:

Two base hits—Rohe, Donohue. Struck out—By Winter, Sullivan, Isbell; by Walsh, Barrett, Ferris, Knight. Double plays—Rohe-Isbell-Donohue; Ferris-Unglaub; Isbell-Donohue. Wild pitches—Winter, Walsh. Passed ball—Sullivan. Time—1:45. Umpires—Connolly and Hurst.

The way the Pilgrims went at White in the second game looked like a repetition of the late disaster inflicted by New York. Barrett doubled for a starter, Sullivan beat out a bunt, and Congalton smashed out a double—his fourth hit of the day. Two runs were in with none out. Unglaub fanned and Ferris flied to Hahn. Congalton here helped the Sox by forgetting how many were out. He ran for the plate, which resulted in an easy double play at second.

Sox Secure Revenge.

The Sox, in desperation, came back and ran the enemy off its feet for a few minutes. Hahn worked Pruitt for a pass. Jones forced him at second, but Isbell deposited a fly safely in right and made two bases on it. Dougherty flied to Barrett, scoring Jones. Pruitt tried to catch Isbell napping off second, but threw low, the ball escaping to center field, where Sullivan fumbled it badly. On the two slips Isbell rode home in safety, tying the score.

Before Pruitt recovered from this he had passed Davis and Donohue. Manager McGuire pulled the string and sent Glaze to the rescue. The first ball the collegian handed to Rohe George soaked into center field for a single. Davis barely beat Sullivan's throw to the plate, but when Criger let the throw escape him, Donohue followed with the fourth run.

White and Glaze Pitch Well.

That finished the scoring for the day. White held the Pilgrims back with the aid of perfect and intelligent support, and they were able to get only six more hits during the game. Glaze was even tighter, giving the Sox only three hits after the first. At that the Sox would have scored again but for that double killing at the plate by the enemy.

With one out in the fifth Hahn was passed and Jones pulled a double past first base. Isbell tried to shove a hit through the close infield, but Ferris grabbed it and nailed Hahn at the plate. Isbell kept going for second, drawing Criger's throw there, and Jones tried to go in from third on it, but Wagner whipped the leather back to Criger, who performed the feat of touching out two men in the short space of twenty seconds. NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Boston once more today.

Today's game will be called at 3 o'clock to permit both teams to catch a fast train for the east.

Quillin collided with Unglaub in a close finish at first in the third of the opener, knocking the visitor into a groggy condition for a few minutes. Umpire Hurst had to steady him to keep the player from falling, but after a short delay he recovered.

Hahn did not register a time at bat all through the second game. He was passed the first time up, sacrificed the second time, and worked Glaze for free tickets the third and fourth times. Although Hahn was on first four times during the game, he did not score a run.

Denny Sullivan alone and unaided pinched three clean drives off the Sox, any one of which would have been a hit but for him. He deprived Donohue and Hahn of hits in the first game. In the second he caught one from Jones and did farther damage by doubling up White off second.

Several thieves located themselves on the overflow seats on the first base side and as fast as the foul balls were knocked their way, calmly pocketed them in full view of the crowd and several policemen in uniform. It would be a deserved lesson to lock up a few of these "undesirable citizens."

President Comiskey will captain a team of fat men which has promised to play the fat mens' nine of St. Louis in that city on Friday for the benefit of a Mound city charitable institution. Already $7,000 worth of tickets have been sold for the exhibition, which will be a hot one even for St. Louis.

One rooter in the third base pavilion hit a fellow spectator with a carelessly tossed bottle, then got mad because the hittee demanded an apology. The crowd was so thick they could not "get together," but the other rooters finally induced a couple of policemen to throw the bottle heaver out of the grounds.

The Sox will leave today for their second invasion of the east, stopping in Altoona tomorrow for an exhibition game. This date was given Manager Irwin by President Comiskey last spring at the New York meeting as a courtesy to an old friend. With the Sox in their present shape the "old Roman" is anxious to duck exhibition games and asked to have the date called off, but the Altoona people insisted because it would be a serious loss to them.

WEST ENDS WIN OUT IN NINTH.

Play Close Game with the Elgin Nationals—Riley Replaced on Slab by Munch.

Frank Campion's long fly in the ninth inning, enabling Gus Munch to romp home, won the West Ends their game with the Elgin Nationals. Munch replaced Billy Riley on the slab in the last inning, after Riley had allowed the visitors to tie up the score on three hits and an error by himself. Four double plays were features. O'Connor and Callahan, the two third basemen, fielded well. Score:

GOOD PITCHING BY JUUL DEFEATS LOGAN SQUARES.

Oak Leas' Twirler Holds Callahan's Men to Six Hits and His Team Wins Game by Score of Five to Two.

Great pitching by Juul of the Oak Leas defeated the Logan Squares yesterday at Logan Square park by the score of 5 to 2. Juul allowed the big fellows only six hits, which he kept pretty well scattered. The visitors pounded Lindaman hard, especially in the sixth inning, when they scored three runs. Slator made a great catch of a line drive from Mike Donlin's bat. The hitting of Ray and Beyers and Donovan's catching were features. Score:

CUBS AT ALBANY BEAT NATIVES, 4-1

John of Troy Evers Gets Bouquet, Shaving Mug, and Tremendous Applause.

LEADS ATTACK WITH HIT.

Big Leaguers Bunch Their Runs in the Fourth; Minors Make Errors.

Albany, N. Y., July 21.—[Special.]—The Chicago Nationals gave the Albany [New York State league] team a lively lesson in real baseball today and defeated it to the tune of 4 to 1, in the presence of 2,700 people.

It was a well played game on both sides on the whole. In the fourth inning a series of hits by the visitors and errors by the home team enabled Chicago to make four runs. The ease with which the visiting team piled up these runs made it look as if the rest of the game would be a walkover for Chicago. In the next inning, however, the Albany team woke up again and the Chicago batsmen went out in quick succession.

A feature of the day was the presentation to Johnny Evers of a big bouquet and a silver shaving outfit by old friends from his home town of Troy. He received the tribute as he stepped to bat in the fourth inning amid tremendous applause, and promptly responded with a single, which turned the tide for his team. He stole second and came home on a single by Moran. Kockill of the Albany team started the series of errors which resulted in giving the visitors their four runs. The first gave Moran second base; he got third on a single by Slagle and came home on a wild throw by Fox. Then Kockill gave Slagle the benefit of another error, which also gave Sheckard first base. Milerick helped Sheckard to second by a wild throw, and a single by Schulte brought him home. Schulte fell to a double play by Raidy, Ingerton, and Doherty, which also put out Howard. This bungled inning gave the game to Chicago. Score:

FREAK BALL GAME ENDS A TIE

Feature of 'Semi-Pro' Day Proves Interesting.

SCORE AT END IS 3 TO 3.

Malloy Is Star in Other Events, Beating Eckersall Twice.

"Semi-Pro" field day held at Logan Square park yesterday morning proved one of the biggest successes in an athletic line ever pulled off in Chicago. A crowd estimated at 2,500 persons saw the sport and rooted for the athletes in the various contests.

The freak baseball game which was billed as a feature was played between the Logan Squares and a picked team. The rules give the batter the privilege of running to either first or third base when no one is on base, and was a popular innovation for the spectators. At the end of the third inning the score stood a tie at 3 to 3 and wound up with the same score, neither team being able to get another man across the plate. Considerable amusement was furnished by most of the players running to third base. If he was put out, the following batsmen would spring a surprise by bluffing to go to third, but would set sail for first instead.

Malloy Is the Star.

In the individual athletic stunts Johnny Malloy of the Logan Squares was the star. Even Jimmy Callahan did not know Malloy was such a fast runner, and thought his entry was a joke. But Malloy fooled them all when he defeated Walter Eckersall, the former University of Chicago athlete, in the 100 yard dash and the run around bases. He tied with "Eckie" in the race to first base, but lost in the runoff of the event, Eckersall covering the distance in :03⅗. This was one-fifth of a second faster than the two had made it in the tie.

The 100 yard dash proved a great race. Eckersall jumped away in front and for eighty yards held the lead. Then Malloy, coming with a great burst of speed, beat "Eckie" out in the last few yards. Al Demaree of the Lawndales and Jimmy Meehan of the West Ends also were close up at the finish. The time was ten seconds, but later it was discovered the distance was ten yards short.

The run around bases proved interesting. Malloy showed great speed in turning the bases, and beat the time made by Eckersall by one-fifth of a second.

Gertenrich Best "Fungo" Hitter.

Another feature, "Fungo" hitting, resulted in a victory for Louis Gertenrich of Anson's Colts with a distance of 146 yards. In the accurate throwing contest Jake Geiser of the Riverviews was the victor. Geiser in three trials threw one ball from deep center over the heart of the plate, another only two inches from the corner, and the third his first ball about five feet away. Harry Burton of the Spaldings won the long distance throwing event, in the throw off of a tie with Felix Chouinard of the same team and Joe Kutina of the River Forests. Burton heaved the sphere 129 yards and 1 foot. A summary of the events follows:

100 yard dash—First heat won by Wallace, Oak Leas; Walter Eckersall, Anson's Colts, second; Jimmy Meehan, West Ends, third. Second heat—Won by Johnny Malloy, Logan Squares; Al Demaree, Lawndales, second; Ed Slater, Oak Leas, third. Final heat—Won by Malloy; Eckersall, second; Demaree, third.

Running to first base—Won by Eckersall; Malloy, second. Time, :03 1-5.

Running around bases—Won by Malloy; Eckersall, second; Louis Gertenrich, Anson's Colts, third. Time, :14 1-5.

Accurate throwing—Won by Jake Geiser, Riverviews; Albert Wilson, Nipperstnks, second.

Long distance throw—Won by Harry Burton, Spaldings; Felix Chouinard, Spaldings, second. Distance, 129 yards 1 foot.

"Fungo" hitting—Won by Louis Gertenrich; Joe Kutina, River Forests, second. Distance, 146 yards.

Indications Point to Soft Going for Chamber of Commerce Stakes.

EVENT AT DETROIT TODAY

Chances of Horses Will Be Affected by Rain, Particularly Bonanza; Event an Open One.

BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—[Special.]—There is a chance the Grosse Pointe track will be heavy from rain tomorrow, in which event the respective chances of the horses in the Chamber of Commerce race will be materially affected, as some of them are known to be of little account in soft going. This is particularly true of the pony pacer Bonanza, the only Chicago entrant, which, in company with the others, was given light work today.

Geers will start Dan S. instead of William O., and the experts think the race an open one. A horse which is to be well backed is Major Mallow from Columbus. A train load of enthusiasts from there came to town today and a sleeping car full of notables is due in the morning. They will all root for the Major, which has worked a mile in 2:05¼. Cleveland has a good horse in The Shaughran. He is a 2:06 pacer in his work, and is expected to do better in the race. Tommy Grattan from Denver worked well today.

Aside from the stake pacers there were plenty of notables on the track, and more than 2,000 people watched them. Highball was not out, but Sonoma Girl, his conqueror, was given a five mile jog, but no speed work. It is understood that Highball will not be speeded until the morning of his race, Tuesday, and then practically kept limber until the word is given, as his curb still hurts him. If he starts free from soreness he will be the favorite, as all the horsemen like him, while the public money will be on Sonoma Girl.

Geers, McHenry, Jack Curry, and Cox will come together in the 2:14 trot tomorrow behind Pulsus, Princine, Lily Stranger, and Marechale, respectively, and a great contest is looked for, the horses being well matched. Ten starters are expected in the Chamber of Commerce, and the 2:18 trot has a fair field.

An impressive workout today was that of the 3 year old colt The Native, by Moko. At the end of a mile in 2:21½ he trotted a quarter in 32 seconds. The last half was done in 1:07. He is in all the Futurities.

GANS AND MEMSIC TO FIGHT.

Match Between Lightweights Practically Made for Los Angeles—Will Battle Twenty Rounds Aug. 16.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21.—[Special.]—After several days of difficult work on the long distance telephone, Manager McCarey today practically closed negotiations with Joe Gans and George Memsic (Jimmy Burns) to fight twenty rounds on Aug. 16.

Several days ago McCarey offered a purse of $10,000 for this match. Gans demanded all the purse as his share, win, draw, or lose. Tommy Burns, Memsic's manager, offered Gans $7,500 of the purse, win, draw, or lose, or would fight winner take all. To this Gans would not agree, and instead compromised on $8,000 for his share of the purse. Burns agreed to this when Gans would allow Memsic to weigh 133 at 3 o'clock the afternoon of the date of the contest.

Gans demanded that Jeffries referee, which is satisfactory to all concerned.

TURF WAR NOW IN THE EAST

Trouble Between Butler and the Jockey Club Menaces Racing.

STATE COMMISSION WILL ACT

Appeal of Owner of Yonkers Track to Be Considered Tomorrow.

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—The controversy between the Jockey club and the Empire City track, which will come before the state racing commission Tuesday, may be taken to Albany in due time to be passed upon by Gov. Hughes. That James Butler, the principal owner of the Yonkers track, has decided to fight the Jockey club to a finish by holding a race meeting at the Empire track Aug. 5, no matter what may be the attitude of the Jockey club, has not occasioned much surprise.

Mr. Butler's friends, who still insist he will carry the day, declare the situation, boiled down, is just this:

"The owners of the Saratoga track, which holds a meeting in August with the sanction of the Jockey club, are nearly all members or stewards of the Jockey club, which for that matter, as a whole, controls or owns nearly all the other tracks in the state. If the Empire City track is allowed to hold a race meeting in August the dividends of the Saratoga stockholders may be decreased materially. Hence, it is deemed inadvisable by the Jockey club, and incidentally the Saratoga members, to allow Butler's track to cut in with a meeting that is sure to cause a loss to the Spa."

Comes Up Tomorrow.

On Tuesday the state racing commission will decide whether Butler's track, which already has received a state license from the commission as a result of the mandamus by the Supreme court, shall be "boycotted" or not by the Jockey club, embracing all the other New York tracks.

Friends of Mr. Butler said today that while he did not want to injure racing in this state, he intended to find out whether the so-called "racing trust" could prevent him from holding a meeting at his track after the courts had secured a license for him by a mandamus. Butler's followers also asserted there would be a meeting at Yonkers next month no matter what the Jockey club might do. They declared that when owners who had been thrown upon their own resources because of the closing down of Latonia and other big tracks in that part of the country come to Yonkers in a body there would be plenty of jockey material, and all the bookmakers necessary, while the sport would be in the hands of competent officials. It is admitted there would be a lack of class to the racing, but time alone could provide the remedy.

There are many poor owners who have practically won nothing on the metropolitan tracks this year who are said to be willing to take a chance at the $5,000 a day which the Yonkers track intends to hang up in stakes and purses. The fact that work on the field stand at Empire City will begin tomorrow, while the stables all will be vacated by the owners of trotting horses, is taken to mean that Butler intends to put up a desperate battle.

Say Meeting Will Be "Frost."

Meanwhile the friends of the Jockey club insist that the Empire track will not be able to live without the official sanction of the governing body, and that if the meeting is held there it will be in the nature of a huge frost. As the racing commission will take the matter of granting a license to the Empire track to the Court of Appeals in the fall the friends of the Jockey club say that it is but natural to place all sorts of obstacles in Mr. Butler's way in order to kill time.

There will be more good racing at Brighton Beach tomorrow and the rest of the week. The stake feature on Tuesday is the $7,500 Iroquois for 3 year olds, at a mile and a quarter, for which the best eligibles are Salvidere, Yankee Girl, Saracinesca, Philander, Zambesi, Montfort, Faust, and others. The Montauk stakes, for 2 year olds, will be run on Wednesday, and the Test handicap, at a mile, on Thursday. The features on Saturday are the Seashore handicap, at a mile and a quarter; the Brighton steeplechase, and the $15,000 Brighton Junior stakes for 2 year olds, at six furlongs, for which Colin, Chapultepec, Smoker, Monopolist, Sir Cleges, King James, Ben Fleet, Bar None, Stamina, and Beaucoup are eligible.

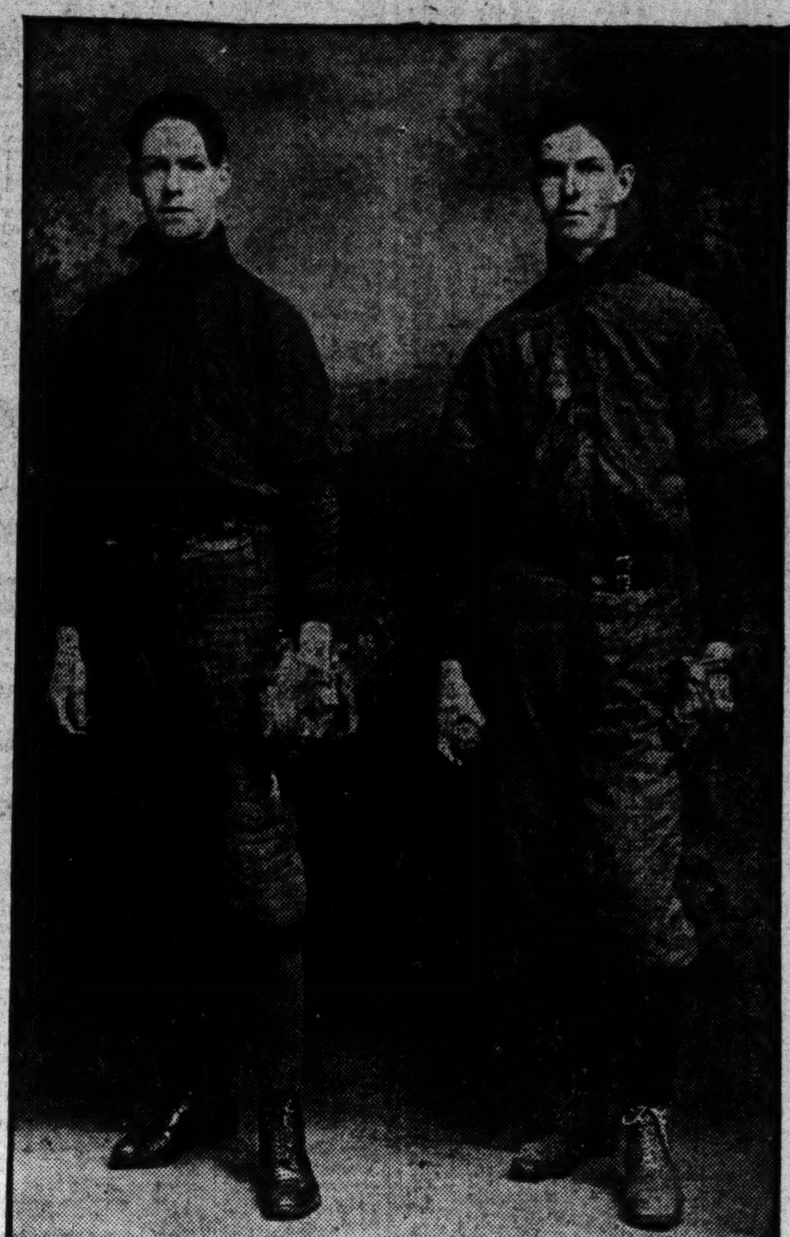
McGrath's Record Thrown Out.

New York, July 21.—The mark made by Matt McGrath in the sixteen pound hammer throw at Celtic park yesterday will not stand as a record. The New York Athletic club member won with a fling of 173 feet 9 inches, but subsequent measurement showed the hammer handle to be one inch over the regulation length of four feet. The record is 172 feet 11 inches, held by John J. Flanagan.

Querido Wins Rich Stake.

PARIS, July 21.—President Fallieres, Gen. Picquart, minister of war, and many prominent members of society witnessed today at Maisons-Laffitte the running of the prize of the president of the republic, $20,000, at one mile, 4¼ furlongs. It was won by Maurice Caillault's Querido, who was second in the French Derby, in 2:36. Nine horses started. Subsequently President Fallieres departed for his château at Rambouillet for a vacation.

Twins Form Successful Battery.



Aledo, Ill., has probably the most unique battery in baseball, in one particular. Lawrence and Lee Schaffer, the pitcher and catcher of the team, are twins. They are 21 years old, weigh 150 pounds each, and are 5 feet 11 inches tall. During the college season they form the battery for Hedding college at Abingdon.

GLIDDENITE TOURISTS ARE NOW ON THE HOMESTRETCH.

Start This Morning on the Run to Baltimore and Philadelphia—Crippled Cars Turn Up.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Bedford Springs, Pa., July 21.—[Special.]—Fifty-eight cars will start tomorrow morning on the homestretch of the Glidden tour, the three days' run through Baltimore and Philadelphia to New York. Of this number thirty-four are entered by members of the local teams contesting for the Glidden touring trophy and three are contestants for the Howe trophy. Eight are working for official certificates of performance, and the remainder are noncontestants.

Sixteen of the cars which made the start at Cleveland ten days ago have dropped by the wayside. Persons who have made the Glidden run each year declare that this year's tour has been by far the most difficult test of automobile touring abilities ever devised in America, and that the fact that a large proportion of the starters have remained in the contest is conclusive evidence that American manufacturers have now reached a point where they need yield nothing to the French and German makers.

Three cars which were supposed to be out of the running appeared unexpectedly in front of the hotel today. They were the Meteor, entered by A. L. Peterson of Indianapolis, which collided with a street car in Pittsburg yesterday; S. Black's Lozier of the Cleveland club, which came in with both front springs broken; and Wallace Owens' Penna runabout, which was abandoned in the Alleghanies with a broken steering knuckle. Each of the cars had been patched up sufficiently to continue the run.

Tonight the tourists are in a flurry procuring Maryland licenses or preparing tags with which to allay the suspicions of the Maryland constables, who are said to be particularly fond of waylaying runaway motorists. Tomorrow's run to Baltimore is over roads which are said to be for the most part excellent. There are, however, twenty-one toll gates on the way, which will retard the tourists, particularly if the cars reach the gates in groups. Ten hours has been allowed for the running, which is 140.2 miles in length.

HIBERNIANS WIN A SOCCER TITLE.

Defeat the MacDuffs in Challenge Game for Old League Championship.

SCORE, 3 GOALS TO NONE.

Irishmen Play with "Get There" Spirit, Though Lacking in Team Work.

The sturdy kickers of the Hibernian team yesterday won the championship of the Chicago League of Association Football, defeating the MacDuffs, winners of the fall series, 3 goals to 0 at Metropolitan field.

The first half was interesting more on account of aggressive than skillful play. The Irishmen, without much pretense of combination work, played with "get there" spirit. The Scotties gave glimpses of combined play.

Napier, the left full back of the MacDuffs, was unable to play on account of a strained leg, and this weakened the side.

Carroll scored the first goal after thirty minutes, getting the ball from the right wing and beating Rollo with a low short into the corner of the goal. Near the end of the first half Garvey just touched Flaw's low shot, but it went outside the post. In the second half, after eight minutes, the Hibs went to the left wing, and Dockery shot across the goal mouth, Courtice getting up and scoring. Fifteen minutes later Ward shot and Rollo kicked out to Dockery, who passed back to Ward, and another goal was scored.

Tulloch was hurt and the Scotchmen finished with ten men. Close on time Bisset hit the top of the Hiberians' bar, and this was the nearest the Scotchmen came to scoring. Lineup:

GOLF WEEK FOR YOUNG AND OLD

CAUTION— STEINWAY PIANOS AS DECOYS. We do not advertise Steinway pianos, either by newspaper advertisements or signs in our windows, at absurdly low prices to decoy you into our warerooms that we may sell you something else. In the course of active business we come into possession of many used Steinway upright pianos, and these instruments we thoroughly repair and offer at a low, fair price. They are for sale to any comer, and are not "just sold" when inquired for. You may see them, buy them without argument, and have them delivered promptly. When you start to buy a second hand Steinway and find you have been decoyed, don't be put off with something else. LYON & HEALY, Wabash-av. and Adams-st.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

MY RATE AT THE PRESENT TIME IS 5¼ PER cent interest. No commission or attorney's fees. Making loans on real estate is a specialty in which some men excell, consequently they acquire the bulk of the business. Progressive, up to date real estate men who have the confidence of investors always have funds on hand and are able to transact business quickly. A borrower should know in advance what the transaction is going to cost him. There should never be any disappointment on this score. The only point in which a borrower cannot be fully informed in advance is the cost of the continuation of the abstract at the abstract office, but as the abstract company charges all customers alike this is not a serious matter. Persons who desire building loans should bring their plans and specifications. It takes about two weeks to make a loan and do it with comfort to all parties.

WHEAT BULLS IN RETREAT.

Beneficial Rains Shift Sentiment to Bear Side.

COARSE GRAINS ARE WEAKER

Long Liquidation in All Cereals Causes Lower Prices.

General rains, covering practically all of the spring wheat area in the northwest and effectually relieving the drought in sections of North Dakota and southern Manitoba, where the dry conditions threatened to endanger the crop, were responsible for a more optimistic sentiment in regard to the outturn, and led to a general selling movement. The impending movement of new wheat, which has been delayed another week by the rains in the southwest, also affected the trade adversely, and with the almost entire lack of cash business was too much for the bulls to contend against. The result was a steadily declining market with the depreciation most severe at the end of the week, prices at the close showing declines of 2⅝c to 3½@3⅝c.

The news from the northwest throughout the week was generally of a bullish character, but the traders looked askance at advices of serious crop conditions, accompanied by selling orders. From North Dakota and southern Manitoba in particular the advices were of a character which, if confirmed, would amount to a crop calamity. The North Dakota crop was variously estimated from 50 to 75 per cent of a normal yield, with even this in jeopardy from early frost. Across the border conditions were pictured as being serious. Other sections were generally regarded as in fair condition and less was heard about the green bug, which a few days ago was threatening to devour the South Dakota and Minnesota crops.

Experts Are More Conservative.

Since the soaking rains of the first part of the week there was a greater leaning toward conservatism in estimating the crop damage, and some of the crop killers assumed a more pacific tone. Present prospects seem to indicate a fair crop, although spotted and uneven, with a decrease in area in the three states estimated from 7 to 10 per cent less than a year ago. In Canada the Manitoba crop appears to be from two to three weeks late, and the southern part has suffered much from dry weather. In the other provinces, however, the increased acreage sown this year promises to make up to a large extent for the lateness and smaller yield per acre.

Cash Demand Is Lacking.

The mos vital point in the situation in the eyes of most traders is the lack of a healthy cash demand. It seems to be a case of present plenty against a prospective shortage, with the former the most potent factor. With the full extent of the new crop movement yet to be felt, old stocks up to last week continued to accumulate, and supplies here, at Minneapolis, Canadian visible supply points, as well as abroad, are greatly in excess of those at the same points a year ago. At the same time buyers both domestic and foreign exhibit no anxiety in regard to their supplies for the year.

World's available supplies July 1 were 165,000,000 bu, compared to 133,000,000 bu a year ago. The Daily Trade Bulletin estimates that on a basis of crop this year of 645,000,000 bu, which is considered a high estimate, there will remain for export during the crop year and supplies in all positions July 1, 1908, 235,000,000 bu.

Big World's Shortage Estimated.

Foreign crop experts figure the world's wheat crop shortage this year at from 288,000,000 bu to 416,000,000 bu, the former estimate being Broomhall's. If these figures are verified by the final yields, large stocks in all positions are likely to be needed, and will not appear as large on the speculative horizon as they do at present.

Argentine supplies available for export are said to be practically exhausted, and it is expected the South American country will shortly be eliminated from the exporting countries. The exports from there last week were 1,554,000 bu, against 1,132,000 bu a year ago, however, and cables from there said the prospective wheat acreage the coming season would be about 20 per cent in excess of last year. Exports from this country are running large compared to a year ago—2,066,000 bu, against 1,536,000 bu—and there were indications that values were approaching closer to an export basis. Exporters, however, claim that the amount of wheat being sold for export is inconsequential and that bids on Manitoba wheat are out of line at Winnipeg.

New Wheat Offerings Not Heavy.

Offerings of new wheat so far have not been burdensome, but the hedging sales have been felt on account of the narrowness of the trade. Thrashing will be on again full blast this week, and receivers claim that by the first of the month receipts will be heavy. Farmers seem to be discriminating this year, and are not selling freely on the down turns. So far this month receipts of wheat have aggregated about 600 cars, against 4,000 during the same time last year.

Corn Weather Is Ideal.

Fine growing weather with plenty of rain in the needy sections, together with the weakness in other grains, was conducive to the growth of bear sentiment in corn, and led to a more or less general dumping of long property. Support was poor for the deferred futures, although there was considerable buying of September by cash interests against sales, which were large on the decline. Final prices for the week were 2⅜c to 3⅛c lower.

Great progress was reported in the corn crop during the week from nearly all sections, and some points claimed that much of the late start had been made up. In Iowa progress was made in cultivation, and in general the prospects were considered bright for an average crop, especially in view of the increase in acreage. Primary receipts for the week were 2,802,000 bu, against 2,682,000 bu last year. Clearances were 1,406,000 bu, compared to 712,000 bu last year.

Oats Reports Are Pessimistic.

Reports on oats continued to be of the same pessimistic character that has been the case for several weeks, but the weakness in other cereals and a general disposition on the part of the bulls to unload and stop loss selling caused a weak tone, with prices at the close on Saturday at 1⅜c to 2⅝@2½c lower.

Cash trade was slow, buyers waiting for the new oats which it is expected will be on the market this week. Primary receipts for the week were 2,011,695 bu, against 3,060,000 bu a year ago. Rust reports from Iowa and blight advices from Illinois helped prices at times, but the selling pressure was too strong.

Packers Boost Provisions Prices.

Provisions developed a little strong tone during the week, with packers working for higher prices and offerings light. Large purchases of loose lard—about 1,000,000 lbs—by the large packers stimulated a little buying. The market was characterized as a "muscle" affair on the part of the big packers who control the bulk of the product. The hog run was liberal, but some students of the situation profess to see indications of a let up in arrivals, judging from the quality of the receipts. Final prices were moderately higher.

Trade in Wholesale Lines.

Seasonable goods of a staple character have gone into consumption rapidly the last week, with the result that distributing houses have received many reorders, while the volume of orders received for fall and winter goods has been satisfactory. Weather conditions have been conducive to an active retail trade, which has been reflected in a more confident feeling among the buyers.

Trade has been particularly good in dry goods and wearing apparel, and there has been no undue accumulation of stocks. Buyers of white goods are sending in orders as far ahead as next spring, on account of the fear that there will be a still further advance in prices. Retailers are still calling for supplies of summer goods. This is especially true in the silk departments, the demand for summer silks having been particularly heavy. Cotton goods are high, and this is causing some buyers to withhold their orders for the time being, but there seems to be but little prospect of any immediate easing of prices, as the mills are said to be sold ahead for several months.

Demand for boots and shoes, leather goods, hardware, furniture, and other staple lines has been seasonably active, and there has been nothing to indicate a falling off in trade this fall.

In the iron and steel trade the most important transaction was the sale of about 30,000 tons of shapes and plates to Chicago and 7,000 tons of fabricated steel to the Northern Pacific. Many small orders for structural steel have been placed throughout the country, and inquiries for a considerable tonnage of structural steel for barges and packet steamers are pending in this market. Sales of bar iron are said to be comparatively small, according to the Iron Trade Review, and some of the western mills are showing some anxiety.

MARKET FEELS NEW ISSUES.

Phone Stock Breaks 10 Points as Result of Announcement.

EDISON RISES FOR A TIME.

Bank Shares Are Completely Stagnant Despite Large Earnings.

Announcements of the proposed Chicago Edison-Commonwealth Electric consolidation and a new issue of $4,000,000 capital by the Chicago Telephone company made the principal interest in the local market during the last week. The telephone announcement broke the price of its shares 10 points, and the active selling of the subscription rights indicated that there was no strong desire on the part of the stockholders to increase their holdings under present conditions.

The Edison-Commonwealth proposition was received with general favor, but did not stimulate much activity in the Edison stock. Its price was well advanced immediately following the publication of the plan, but the larger part of the gain was lost in later trading.

The local market as a whole was inactive and without much interest. Swift stock was fairly well bought and was higher in the late sessions. Subway was the leader earlier, but dropped into dullness. The street railroad and elevated stocks attracted little attention and the bond department was neglected.

Bank Statement Favorable.

The New York bank statement on Saturday made a favorable showing. It indicated fair increases in deposits, total cash and excess reserve, and only a small expansion of loans. A summary of the statement follows:

Excess reserve, increased	$2,211,025

Local Bank Shares Dull.

The local bank stock market remains lifeless. Nominal quotations are unchanged and there has been only an insignificant amount of trading. NEW YORK MARKET SLUGGISH.

With Exception of Few Speculative Favorites Little Dealings Are Done—Price Changes Small.

NEW YORK, July 21.—[Special.]—With the exception of a few special speculative favorites, the stock market yesterday was dull and the movements in prices sluggish and narrow.

Southern Pacific moved upward on the good showing made by the statement of the year's net earnings and stock in the telegraph companies sold up on the news of the settlement of the San Francisco strike. Union Pacific did not fully sympathize with its subsidiary stock and the Hill stocks also were unresponsive.

To American and European Investors

BUY STOCKS

BUY AMALGAMATED—BUY ST. PAUL

As I remarked before, there is more than one way to remove the pelt of a financial feline.

While in Europe I became possessed of information which showed:

First—A series of events, on the way, which would reverse the financial flow.

Second—Because of this reversal, the purchase of American stocks at their then low level would later show extraordinary profits.

Third—That the financial powers, whose plans my work of the past three years had thwarted, were anxious to have the coming new condition of things strike the people at large favorably—as favorably as possible.

Possessed of this knowledge it was possible for me to show finance factors that the only way—sure way—to favorably impress the people—quick—with the coming financial status was by allowing them to get in on stocks at the bottom instead of the top.

It was also possible for me to show certain finance factors that I might be able to point out to the public how this might be done.

I enlisted for a campaign.

My object—my principal object—and I frankly stated it to these finance factors, was:

That I might enhance my influence with the people to a degree which would permit me within a brief period to announce to the world:

"You see I was right. Stocks are now away up. Sell them and secure your millions in profits."

Then I can lay before the people that "remedy" of which I have written so much, but the nature of which no one suspects (barring the publishers of Everybody's Magazine, who have so loyally and royally backed my work from the beginning and another) and the people's support will quickly and successfully install my "remedy."

Along these lines I began a market and advertising campaign upon my arrival from Europe.

The result is financial history.

In two weeks the market had lifted, or, if it suits Wall Street critics better, it "had been lifted" from utter despondency and inactivity to stirring action with stocks $12 to $14 per share higher.

Then—

There was a setback.

The critics said it was because of a series of unfavorable happenings—crop report, Union Pacific funding failure, government attack on tobacco trust, sharp cut in price of copper, the metal.

They also said it was—

Because "his following had sold out on him."

Because "he abandoned his campaign."

All intelligent watchers of the market could see that the setback was because my campaign called for the selling of a large amount of stock on the eve of these bad developments for the purpose of properly buttressing the market end of the campaign.

The result of this essential move in my campaign was:

The entire series of adverse events, the halt in my advertising, my sales, the throwing over of large amounts by "street" following (at a good profit), the selling of a fairly long amount for short account, carried the market back only 33 per cent of its rise (to Wall Street's astonishment) and then (to the further astonishment of Wall Street) prices swung into line with my predictions and are still forging ahead.

Again I assert there are more ways than one to remove the pelt of a financial feline.

The object of this advertisement at this stage of the campaign is to impress upon the public:

Amalgamated and St. Paul (which I use as fair representatives of the market, one being the leading railroad stock, the other the leading industrial) are up $12 and $10 per share (92, 134½) and down only $2 per share from the highest—Amalgamated was about 80 when the campaign began, St. Paul 124.

They have been as high as 94 and 136, and their present prices are despite all sorts of market upsets, which, but for accurate knowledge of underlying conditions, would have caused them to drop 20 points lower than 80 and 124.

Second—So sure am I of my facts that I unreservedly stake everything upon the soundness of my predictions that:

"The purchase of stocks at present prices will show enormous profits."

What I stake can be seen by the following:

When the present campaign began I was at the height of my standing with the investing and speculating public.

If my predictions are fulfilled I will immeasurably increase that standing.

If my predictions are proven unsound I will forever be discredited.

I have received many inquiries as to the meaning of my apparent working with the "system." My answer is:

First—I stand today on "frenzied finance" where I have stood at all times during the past 3 years.

Second—My attitude toward the "system" and the "system's" attitude toward me is as it has been during all that time.

Third—If the "system" use me to uplift prices, it is because they must—and on my terms.

Fourth—If I am uplifting prices, it is to get the public in at the bottom that I may get them out at the top, that by so doing I may further the end I am and have been driving at for three years.

Fifth—The favorable things printed about Messrs. Rogers and Rockefeller in my recent advertisement, and which have been so widely criticised as indicating a change of front on my part, were copied from a chapter of "Frenzied Finance" written and published at the very height of the war.

Sixth—I specifically advise the purchase of Amalgamated and St. Paul because I have special information about their condition which I have not about other stocks which may advance as much or more than Amalgamated and St. Paul.

I would impress upon the public this fundamental of market making:

The success or failure of a campaign must be judged by final results. A campaign manager, to protect his following, may have to temporarily break a market to keep others from breaking it more disastrously. A campaign manager must at times abandon, temporarily, his open work for secret. Often, for the success of a campaign, a market manager must temporarily sell while his following are buying.

A market manager must smilingly and silently go long of abuse and ridicule and at all times must go short of the "street's" financial writers and other bot and paid for advice.

I would also impress upon the investors and speculators of America and Europe.

The success or failure of the present campaign will be judged entirely by the prices of stocks at the finish of the campaign compared with the prices at the beginning. If Amalgamated and St. Paul are up $30 to $60 each, and other stocks advance proportionately, Wall Street and the combined critics of financialdom will be unable to cloud my victory—if they are down I cannot possibly hide from the result of my failure.

Once more I advise unqualifiedly that the public purchase Amalgamated and St. Paul, withdrawing, if necessary, a part of their savings deposited in banks and trust companies to pay for them, but investors must always be sure that when they buy they pay in full for what they buy.
